EXERCISES FOR THE MIND

Addison wrote "Reading is to the mind what exercise is to the body. In college, reading plays a big role. Every couse a student takes requires some reading.

Many get the idea that they don't have time to do any out-side reading. The library has a wealth of books which are never touched. Kimple is credited with "Except a living man there is nothing more wonderful than a book! a message to us from the dead---." Yet how many ever think of visiting the library unless they are required to do s o.

W While on the subject of reading it may be well to note that some students who go away to school seldom read a newspaper. Many are guilt of this. They say they have no time to even scan the paper. Yet how many read cheap fiction which does them no earthly good? Especially at this time when the world is changing every day should college students keep abreast of the time.

Discretion should be used in choosing reading material. The love of good literature is something to be valued. It supports one when all other recreations fade. No one can steal it. Develop early in your college life the desire to visit the school and public libraries.

To the Freshmen who haven't as yet ordered their freshmen caps please do so at the earliest possible moment. It should not be necessary to remind you to do this again.

A High Way and a Low

To every man there openeth
A way, and ways, and a way,
And the high s oul climbs the high way,
And the low soul gropes the low;
And in between on the misty flats,
The rest drift to and fro
But to every man there openeth
A high way and a low,
And every man decideth
Which way his soul shall go.
--John Oxenham

BUT FOR ONE HOUR

Every day one is confronted with new conflicts a nd new opportunities which demand the creative use of the essence of all of one's experiences. Few of us realize the importance of those momentous occasions when we stand face to face with an hour of decision....an hour when decision means failure or success.

We often say, "he gets all the breaks." Of course, he does! Because each day he has chosen the best of friendships, from which have grown a certainty of values, a certainty of the worth of things for which he stands; because each day he has siezed every opportunity to do some good for others and for his own betterment; because each day he has spent his hours of leisure relaxing his jangled nerves, strengthening his body, making something beautiful or useful, or kindling some worthy friendships,; and finally, because he has taken some time each day apart from life's demanding services to meditate and find a balance between reality and his dreams....some time to draw strength and courage from the purifying stablizing power of God for all mankind.

Every great artist must paint dozens, perhaps hundreds of pictures before he paints a masterpiece. Almost every great musician must spend decades doing scales and singing the same songs over and over again before he hears the "bravo" of huge audiences. The truly great athlete must train for many years in skills as well as mind and body-building to become the star on the college squad. Doctors, lawyers teachers, ministers, business men...they all spend years of training, years of living to fill the hour of opportunity. Jesus said, "tonight thy sould shall be required of thee." For me the meaning is that this very hour may be an hour of momentous decision, an hour of opportunity! Have I lived so that I can meet that hour adequately?

That I may live each moment
Each day, each month, each year
My mind, my soul, my body
Too sure of God to fear;

That all the pure, the noble,
Magnanimous and strong
May far transcend all drabness
That I may challenge wrong;

That I may live and learn to know
Man's weaknesses and strength
That I may live that close to earth
Yet hear what Jesus says...

Ah, someone stumbles, someone fails!
God grant me strength just now
As if I'd lived all my life
But for this very hour.

The gala affair tonight is planned only for the honor of the student body. Have you made plans to attend it? Are you ready to enter into the spirit of the occasion?

ODDE PRATTLE

Wheatley and Milling seem to be in love. Especially when they announce it publicly before the Psi Chi House.

Crisler and Margaret Boots have been a nice combination for strolling in the park.

We wonder why Beumer spends a lot of his time in Hightower's office. Could it be Iona Moore?

Most of the girls have found out that Mr Wallace is not married. They are now taking off their hats to him.

What's that we hear about Marion Edmondson and a Military Man?

Wanted: Two men--- any size, shape, form, or description, no particular nationality Requirements: Ability to skate AND 50¢. Report to: Ruth Carolyn Dawson and Maxine Tharp immediately.

We wonder what made the fuse blow out at Watson's while Jim Lawson and Phyllis Watson were studying Algebra?

Miss Penrod, our former Campus sweetheart of '36 and '37, seems to still hold the same position this fall. How about it Kelley?

Wonder why Helen Parker wants the Psi Chi's to have the Hayride during Teacher's Institute. Could it be that certain one?

Hightower was informed by Ratliff that he didn't even have to die. Nature takes care of that.

We understand that Alberta Thomas has gone into the dairy business. Her right-hand man is Charlotte Anderson. My! My! How some folk do work their way through "Collitch."

Jeanette Bell professes an interest in Chemistry. Could the boy friend at Purdue be majoring in Chem.?

We would like to know why Elizabeth Carter and her boy friend had the couple covered who were in the back of their car Sunday Night.

You had better be careful who you offer first chance at Dorothy Amick, Jake. You might get the wrong ~~fellow some time.~~

Max Bell says it is hard to make a hit with Marie Ward, but we see he had a date with her Wed. Night.

Well it looks like love for Gordon Jay and that cute little "freshie" doesn't it?

One Zeta Sigma chap, I can't recall his name, has missed four of his night classes. My! My! What's going on around here anyway.

TRIBUTE TO "IRON MAN"

It is with increasing fervor that the student body of CNC awaits the annual classic of Central Normal versus Eastern Illinois at Tiber Field in what promises to be a Battle from start to finish. There will be several boys on the team who will finish their college careers this year and among this group is one member whom we should honor as honor is due.

Clarence Kelley from Mishawaka, Indiana is not much to look at as a whole; one might immagine him studying for the ministry. However, on the grid iron he turns into a power-ladened dynamo charging like the proverbial tank. This attribute makes him invaluable in the Leitzman machine; and, on defense--he is as impassable as one of the walls of the gym. In past seasons he has survived many injuries which have so nobly earned him the title of "Iron-Man Kelley".

Iron-Man started from the bottom and through his own grit and sand arrived at the top, shining through in all his glory. It is with heart-felt pride the students watch this reservoir of athletic and scholastic prowess walk proudly down the campus lanes. Until of late, Iron-Man has observed all training rules; however, sad as it may seem, a dark cloud has come into Kelley's life in the name of Penrod. On the field and classrooms this campus Joe stares dreamily into space and has even been heard muttering: in the name of a golden-stemmed flower and then lapse off again into dreamland with a sweet little smile on his face. It will be with deep regret and heart-felt sorrow that Central Normal watches the departure of this time-tried, true-blue champion of Champions. It is thought by those in the know that the flags will fly at half-mast and a heavy gloom will descend on the campus as mighty Iron-Man Kelley wipes a tear from his eye, turns, and stalks away never to return to his Alma Mater.

WARRIORS

Due to the large number of players out for football this year it seems almost impossable to pick a starting eleven but to the best of our knowledge it will be the following; Kelley, center: Falls and Hess, tackles; Horton and Olin, guards; Pilarski, Deer or Brown, end; Bell and Clark, halfbacks; Boalby at the fullback position and Swartz at the quarter back post.

The team as a whole is much heavier than last years and much more speedier.

There will possibly be many replacements during the game due to the weather conditions and to the splended material.

So far there has been considerable injuries in the team. Kennedy is laid up with a heel ailment, Farr has a strained leg muscle and Swartz has a bad shoulder, but will be able to play in Saturday's game.
