HISTORY OF THE BUILDINGS

The Grade School Building was built in 1913 at a cost of approximately $23,000.00. Construction began in the spring, the cornerstone was laid on June 21, and the building was completed in December.

It was built as a combined High School-Grade School and opened with 27 High School students, four of whom graduated in 1914.

A gymnasium was added in 1919-20.

In 1920, the combined enrollment was over 300, with 87 in the High School. This "over-crowding" led to plans for a separate High School Building.

The High School was built in 1921, at a cost of $70,000, with cornerstone laying ceremonies held on June 25, 1921. The 1921 graduating class had eleven graduates.

A new gymnasium (the existing gym) was built in 1950, and additions to the grade school were built in 1961 and 1971.

The Grade School building was abandoned for class room use in about 1973. The last High School graduating class was that of 1975, and the High School building was abandoned in 1978. Both buildings were razed in 1981 to make room for an administration building, cafeteria and additional classrooms.

HISTORICAL SKETCH OF MIDDLE TOWNSHIP AND PITTSBORO

In preparing a history of this township and community to be laid up among the records in the archives of history, is not a little embarrassing, first on account of access to data, and again the difficulty in determining just what to include or exclude to make it accurate and true to facts.

In giving a township sketch, we are confined to an integral part of the county history.

In the first organization of Hendricks county, Middle township, as it is now, was geographically located in the ~~western~~ north central portion of the county, and was one of the nine civil divisions. It included not only its present area, but also all of what was afterward known as Union township.

Its location and physical condition had much to do in determining its settlement and progress. Being located in what was known as the black swamps, the greater part of it deficient in natural drainage, made its settlement later than other parts of the county. The intense growth of deciduous trees, oak, poplar, walnut, maple, ash, and many other species, were evidence of a rich virgin soil.

Those people who were really the first pioneers came to this unbroken forest not with idle curiosity or for novelty, but for the sole purpose of founding a home. They possessed an indomitable will, a dauntless courage and untiring ambition to subdue and possess the land.

The earliest settler in the township, as far as the records show, was Lemuel McSee. His cabin and first clearing was in the western part of what is now Pittsboro.

Richard Richardson was the next, whose cabin in section 6, township 16, was on the spot where Miles Hession now resides. In three years time ~~the~~ other settlements were formed by the following families: the Spicklemires, Hills, Hales, Thompsons, Wehls, Holtsclaws, Jonas Lipe, Hezekiah Dunick, Philip Waters and the Parkers. This group of early pioneers erected the first cabins and formed the nucleus of community life. At this time no roads were known except neighborhood trails marked by blazing the trees. The one leading through the township from Indianapolis to Crawfordsville being the most prominent and bisecting the township into two parts.

The herculean task of the pioneers was now begun. The rearing of cabins, rolling logs, cutting out highways and constructing bridges was begun.

The industrial pride, the social spirit and brotherly love that dominated the lives of these hardy pioneers and those who followed, only made their privations and endurance more effective.

The natural resources at hand were somewhat in their favor. Plenty of game infested the forests to provide food, and the trusty fowling piece which each possessed was as essential to their living as the implements to prepare the soil.

The development of the first decade was intense and as the struggle for homes increased many other families came to enter land. We find a great percentage came from Mason, Fleming and Bourbon counties, Kentucky, and from Ohio, the Carolinas, and Virginia, a splendid stock.

The Watsons, Dillons, Weavers, Reynolds, Walters, Phillips, Moneys, Smiths, Crabbs, Veaches, Kennedys, Greggs, Touts, Jones, Caywoods, Hughes, Herods, in the succeeding decade came and entered or bought land. The hospitable, affable, and generous disposition that always distinguished the southern people was well defined among these families and contributed much to the social life of the community. This was evident in their friendly intercourse, in sharing each other's burdens, in interests common to their happiness and prosperity.

EDUCATIONAL

The matter of schooling for the children was in no wise neglected. The state had made no provision for education. The school houses and teachers were to be provided by the patrons. This was done with no thought of sacrifice. The curriculum of these schools embraced the three R's. The scholastic ability of the teachers rarely exceeded a knowledge of these branches and these teachers were hard to get.

Alfred Lineberry, Jacob Gregg, Elias Leach were among the products of this class of pedagogues. Sixty days was the longest term in the school year and embraced the winter months when the boys and girls could be spared from work.

In 1852 the school system was established by law under the complete control of the state. The next year it became operative, trustees were elected and assumed the management of schools. This was the initial step toward the high standard of which we boast today.

In quick succession, as soon as the finances were at command, the log houses vanished and what were known as the frame school houses were erected. Educational pride was stimulated, better teachers were demanded, better schools were a necessity to be adequate to the demands of the people.

RELIGIOUS

The people were not lacking in piety or inclined to neglect their religious culture. Their spiritual development depended much upon the exercise of their faith. Their devotions were about the family altar and often in the homes of their neighbors.

Here the Scriptures were read, the good old hymns were sung, exhortations were given and fervent prayers offered from which, to them, were seasons of refreshing and joy, stirring their souls and strengthening them for the privations and adversities of their life.

The Regular Baptist was the first organized in the township. The Spicklemirex, Keeney and Newman families being among the charter members.

Their church building was erected on grounds now comprising the old White Lick cemetery east of Pittsboro, about the year 1837. The earliest preachers were Harrison Darnell, Thomas Hooten, William Hardie and Peter Keeney. Its membership increased with succeeding years until it was one of the strongest associations in the county.

The remaining reminiscences of the development of Middle township will be included in the sketch of our town.

PITTSBORO

This town was originally platted in 1835 by Simon T. Hadley and William Mattock. From its incipiency it took on an industrial character fully in accord with the thrift and development of the surrounding vicinity, an advantage which it has never lost.

Pittsboro's first store was in a small log room and kept by Basil Tout. It was located on the corner lot now owned by the bank. He was succeeded by James Hoadley and James Barker.

John Vaughn built a frame building on the lot where the Sawyer block now stands, in 1844. He kept a general store with plenty of whiskey for sale. The latter commodity was in much demand. Mr. Vaughn would sometimes, when trade was slack, lock his store, take his rifle and kill squirrels a little ways away.

Vaughn sold out to John C. Parker, who, early in the fifties, erected a brick store on the corner where the Hayworth block now stands. It burned in 1884.

Thomas Hoadley, one of our first physicians, built a large two-story frame storehouse on lot 2, block 2, where A. C. Dunn's property now is. John N. Shirley, a boy in his teens, brother-in-law to the doctor, was a clerk in the store. After the doctor's death, Mr. Shirley became a partner and later sole proprietor. He did a thriving business as such for twenty years, moved to Danville in 1874, where he is still engaged in mercantile business and is the wealthiest man in the county.

Other merchants who were in business several years later were A. C. Weaver and sons, in business rooms built by Mr. Weaver. They did a successful business from 1866 to 1904. O. W. Hill and E. W. Sawyer were in business from 1880 to 1906. The latter built a substantial brick block in 1895 which he still owns. The Hoaks, Jordans, Junkens, Surbers and Brumfields were general merchants for shorter periods.

OFFICIAL

TRUSTEES—The first elected under the law already mentioned was James Tout, and others best known and who performed duties most vital to the interests of the township were John N. Shirley, Amos C. Weaver, William G. Parker, Henry Hoak, Daniel Feely, E. C. Hornaday, John T. Brumfield, A. A. Surber, W. H. Hollingsworth, and R. L. Dillon.

JUSTICES OF THE PEACE—Arch Alexander, Alexander Adams, Jacob Duzan, Thomas Blake, Lewis Pearcy, Oliver Peters, Elias Leach, Balaam Wells, Nelson Faught, Benjamin Waters, James M. Wills, John A. Jordan, Daniel Hill, Isaac B. Waters, R. E. Tout, W. Y. Turner, and the present incumbent, Isaac Palmer.

CHURCHES

The first house of worship was erected in 1836 by the Methodist Episcopal society. Simon T. Hadley offered to donate joining lot 2, block 2, to any congregation that would build a church.

Arch and John Alexander, William Tincher, Nathaniel Helton and their families, were the charter members. The elder Alexander sawed lumber in his water mill on his farm below town, and a house was built a short distance west of the present building.

Rev. Enoch Wood was the first minister. Park Poynter and the late Nathaniel Gossett were its local preachers for years.

The first Christian church home was located on grounds now owned by the Pierson sisters. It was a frame structure, 40x50 feet, and was erected by James Cundiff, an uncle of Mrs. E. W. Sawyer. This membership was organized in 1852 by that venerable man, known to all Hendricks county people as Thomas Lockhart. He ministered to the spiritual needs of this congregation for years and was succeeded by Elders Luke Warren and James Canfield, who have recently passed to their reward. Its charter members were from the families of the Wells, Parkers and Hills, who were before that members at Brownsburg, Ind. This house served for the triple purpose of sanctuary, school and dwelling until 1889, when it was purchased and razed by Douglas Baker, and the site occupied with a dwelling.

MANUFACTURERS

Aaron Keith was the first who, with his turn-lathe, was able to make any article of furniture the age demanded. His shop was in the lot where A. A. Surber now resides. Elias Leach, who was notary, 'squire, and teacher, also had an ingenious turn and could make a coffin to fit any individual.

Isaac B. Waters was apt in his vocation of making furniture and undertakers' supplies, and was the first in the induction of an undertaking and furniture establishment. He retired from business in 1902. His son, John, succeeded him.

PROFESSIONAL

In the early days, ague, chills, and fever prevailed periodically and was a menace to health. Drs. Witty, Hoadley, and Cloud were the first practitioners of the Allopathic school. Venesection, blue ^{maste}, and quinine were the cure-all for these malarial disorders.

NEW ERA OPENS

Thus far we have noted the tendency of all formative forces to promote our development through the pioneer period, down to the close of the Civil war. Our boys who went to the front to defend our country and were fortunate enough to get home, returned to the farm and other business pursuits.

A new era of development now began. Many of the farms were cleared and fencing constructed. Highways were improved, large ditches excavated in most sections.

RAILROAD COMES

In 1867 our Big Four railroad was built through here, known then as the I. B. & W. This changed conditions as to markets and postal facilities.

In 1869, James McLean constructed a flouring mill in an old frame barn which he placed on the site where the Scamahorn dwellings now stand. It was of the old burr type but a much needed improvement and merited a liberal patronage. It was afterward manipulated by Sel McCain and the Brumfield brothers until 1887, when it was incorporated into a company and the patent process installed. It was destroyed by fire in 1906. ~~IX~~

In 1868 the Methodists erected a new house of worship. Many noted ministers have preached here to congregations in the past. The present membership is about 60. They possess a strong zeal and by persistent ~~and~~ work hold a creditable recognition by conference. They support their pastor, Rev. Appleby, one-fourth time. They are under the superintendency of Rev. Leazenby of Crawfordsville.

The 70's was a period of pronounced development in the town and township. Improvements steadily advanced. The sickle, scythe and cradle, used by the pioneers and wielded by muscular power, were relegated to the past when the reaper, mower and binder came into operation. As much could be said of other improvements in the implements of husbandry.

In 1873, Daniel Feely established a stave factory in Pittsboro. This ~~was~~ enterprise was operated by Mr. Feely until 1886. About 50 men were constantly employed in his enterprise. Thousands of cords of oak, elm, and ash were brought from the sloughs, cut into staves, and shipped to many points. Many farmers paid off mortgages by thus disposing of surplus timber. He built a beautiful home, now owned by Leroy P. Oliver. He increased his estate by purchasing and improving 200 acres of land adjacent to town. He was an efficient officer during his term as trustee. He erected the school building which has now been torn down to be replaced by this structure, in which the corner stone is being placed today, June 21, 1913.

In 1873 the Disciples, then under the pastorate of Elder Canfield, built their second church, which was dedicated by Otis H. Burgess, one of the pioneer preachers of Indiana. It has since been remodeled and made more modern.

U. C. Brewer, H. J. Frank, T. H. Kuhn, and E. F. Daugherty were some of its noted ministers. Frank Sumner is its present pastor. Its membership is 190.

The Regular Baptist church changed its location from White Lick to our town by erecting its present house of worship in 1887. Elder Benson was its first pastor. Elder E. A. Williams has been preacher for several years. Its membership is about 50.

FRATERNAL ORDERS

Pittsboro Lodge, No. 342, I. O. O. F., was organized Jan. 22, 1870. John N. Shirley, William N. Crabb, Lewis Watts, James Adams, Amos Hoak, and James McLean were its charter members. The lodge erected its present home in 1874. Its dedication was under the direction of B. F. Foster, Grand Secretary.

It has been prosperous and helpful in its benefactions. Its officers at present are: H. C. Griffith, N. G.; Oscar Scamahorn, V. G.; John Ashby, Recording Sec.; Thomas Cowley, Fin. Sec. Its membership is 105.

Pittsboro Lodge, No. 428, F. & A. M., was instituted in 1871 by John Burton, Deputy Grand Master. Its home was in the second story of E. A. Parker's store building--then occupied by A. C. Weaver. This lodge did not last long. It became defunct in 1882, when the Grand Lodge called in its charter.

The present lodge, No. 620, was instituted by Jacob Smith with thirteen charter members. Beginning under dispensation in 1898, it was chartered in due and ancient form ~~in~~ May 23, 1899.

Its first officers were: Sabert S. Offutt, W. M.; Chester H. Weaver, S. W.; W. D. Lewis, J. W.; George D. Junken, Sec.; Its present membership is 71. The stated communications are the first and third Tuesday evenings of each month, at their hall in the ~~xxxxxx~~ Sawyer block.

Officers for 1913 are: Thomas Hession, W. M.; Shiles M. Warrick, S. W.; Clyde A. Olsen, J. W.; A. A. Surber, Sec.; Charles J. Olsen, Treas.

Thomas Ashby Post, No. 451, Dept. of Indiana, G. A. R., was organized in the old school building, Sept. 8, 1886, with the following charter members: A. C. Weaver, W. D. Lewis, R. T. Dorman, H. T. Kirk, E. M. Weaver, J. M. Willis,

S. S. Wills, W. H. Milam, George W. Tidrick, W. B. McClung, Jacob G. Waters, Lewis Buergelin, Thomas Brooks, Charles P. Cox, Joe Williamson, and Samuel Janes. At 8 p. m., April 8, 1886, a delegation of comrades came up from Danville and assisted in the organization.

The first officers of the Post were: A. C. Weaver, P. C.; William D. Lewis, S. V. C.; Richard T. Dorman, J. V. C.; Henry T. Kirk, O. D.; Ellis M. Weaver, O. G.; James M. Wills, Adjutant; S. S. Wills, Quartermaster; George W. Tidrick, Sergeant Major; William B. McClung, Q. M. Sergeant.

Thomas Ashby W. R. C., No. 231, was organized March 25, 1899, with 18 charter members. Mrs. Marian McVey French was installed first president, Etta Jordan Palmer, Treas., and Mrs. Eva Lewis, Sec. Mrs. Lide Huddleston is the present president and Mrs. Jennie Blessing, secretary. The ladies have held their organization, surmounting all difficulties and holding their membership almost to its highest record. They now hold their meetings in Hayworth hall.

Margaret Rebekah Lodge, No. 450, was instituted in 1884 with seven members. First officers were: Mrs. Mary J. Hale, N. G.; Mrs. Effie May Wills, V. G.; Mrs. Eva Weaver, Sec. The present membership is 79.

MORE BUSINESS HISTORY

R. T. Dorman began business in 1873. He first engaged in the drug trade in a small frame building on the grounds now owned by Squire Palmer. He built a small dwelling near by. In 1892 he erected a large business room of brick, which he stocked with general merchandise. He enlarged his dwelling, into a large and modern residence. Here he reared a large family, nearly all of whom have reached their majority and are filling honorable business positions. Mr. Dorman sold his possessions to J. H. Winston in 1903 and moved to a large farm near Cloverdale. Mr. Winston in turn sold to Isaac Palmer in 1906.

Charles Olsen arrived in Pittsboro in 1880. He engaged with Lewis Buergelen in blacksmithing, and all kinds of wagon work. In 1884 he succeeded the Buergelen Bros., who had been here for 30 years, and began business for himself in a small shop yet standing on his business block.

By his industry, skill and frugal management his business grew and with it he erected a substantial shop room of brick, in 1890. He never turned a customer down who was in need of repairs or any article in his line.

He made road wagons, buggies, carts, drays, &c. So me time after the consolidation of rural schools took effect, he drafted his own patterns of school wagon and began its manufacture. These vehicles grew in popular favor with school authorities. Orders increased from year to year until C. J. Olsen & Sons needed a larger force and more room to manufacture these goods. In recent years their business covers nearly 12000 feet of floor space and they ship hundreds of wagons each year to all states in the union.

We have noted already the advantages of our railroad system. We now note a few more incipient industries that started with shipping facilities. The Thompson, Wills, Wells, and Eliason steam mills were strong plants, supplying customers as well as foreign needs for lumber from surplus timber until it was nearly exhausted.

John A. Jordan came to Pittsboro in 1889, built a fine residence where his family still resides. Cognizant of the fact that a lumber yard was a necessity, he constructed suitable buildings and sheds for housing all kinds of building material upon grounds belonging to the Big Four. It expanded into a large enterprise. He sold his plant to Alf. Fowler 14 years ago.

Mr. Fowler believed that an elevator would be a safe undertaking and made Hugh J. Woody manager. The buildings were all reconstructed, machinery installed. It has grown in such favor that a large percent of the cereals are now bought and shipped through this plant.

Mr. Jordan built a spacious business building on Maple street where he started a general store. He sold his stock to Pedigo & Tansel in 1905. He is of late deceased. The E. R. Jaques Co. purchased the building from his estate. This important industry has thrived abundantly. Jacob E. Gregg, was their manager from its inception on the Big Four. Sherman Smith is his successor. Many thousand dozen eggs and large consignments of poultry are shipped to New York.

In the smithy business, Tighman Stanley and Jep Woody have well equipped shops and employ competent workmen. William Crawley is a busy man at his forge in North Maple street. He is in much favor with his customers.

K. S. Tansel, our moving merchant, has made things move some in mercantile pursuits. After 15 years in business here, he recently moved his grocery store, building and all, near the Ben Hur tracks, and has since sold to Loyal Schenck, one of our popular young men who is pleasing all his customers with his courtesy and good service.

The Greer-Wilkinson Lumber Co. took its place among our business firms 16 years ago. It has steadily increased in patronage until it is now a great depot of lumber, lime, coal, and cement. It has been looked after by competent managers. Its business approximates $10,000 annually. John Husted is manager.

The Pittsboro Bank is a commercial product organized in 1897. Isaac N. Palmer, Jesse Smith and Steven Cline were the first stockholders. In a short time Mr. Palmer became the sole manager, which position he held until 1905, when it was reorganized under the new banking law. George A. Blessing became president at that time, I. H. Palmer, Cashier, and John L. Rutledge, Vice President. Stock increased and this company was succeeded in three years by the company now in charge. E. W. Sawyer is President, C. J. Olsen is Vice President, Glenn C. Tolin is Cashier, and Miss Alcie M. Ridgway is Assistant Cashier and Bookkeeper.

Prior to this time, D. A. Junken erected a substantial two-story business room and hall. The lower story was stocked with groceries, hardware, &c., which business he ran until 1888, when he sold his goods to E. W. Sawyer. The hall has been continuously rented and occupied by the G. A. R. post and W.R.C. At this time it is occupied by Modern Woodmen of America Camp, No. 10686, another of our fraternal orders, instituted ten years ago. K. S. Tansel, our worthy townsmen, is Venerable Consul, and C. H. Weddle is Clerk, each having the distinction of having served for eight years.

Milton Hayworth erected his two-story brick block in 1897. J. F. Neaville is custodian, having entire control of the rentals. Neaville's pharmacy, Neese's bar, and Knetzer's restaurant occupy these rooms.

E. A. Parker & Co. now own the old Weaver stand and have a large emporium of dry goods, clothing and shoes, neatly kept, doing an excellent business. He has been in business since 1904.

Murphy & Williams, in E. W. Sawyer's ~~xx~~ block, keep a line of groceries, dry goods, shoes and hardware. This firm is three years old.

John W. Fowler is another grocery man with a complete stock in Junken's building. John knows the needs of his customers and delivers the goods. He succeeded D. McConnaha in 1908, coming here from Lizton.

Haynes & Ellis in the Odd Fellow building, is a strong firm in the hardware line, in their tenth year. To this line they have added a large stock of fencing material and farm machinery.

Charles Kesler in the past four years has built up a trade that is almost marvelous in farm machinery, wire, posts, engines, pumps, &c. Charley is handicapped for space, but he relieves the congestion by making large public sales each year.

Curtis Hicks recently succeeded John T. Waters in the furniture and undertaking lines in the I. N. Palmer property. He is an energetic young man, having made his own way with no capital but will power, pluck and industry. He is making a good start, and it is evident that he has a promising future before him.

Mrs. Mary J. Hale and Mrs. Lide Tout are milliners who know, from their ripe experience, how to please their customers in every detail of fashion. They are sharing a liberal patronage.

H. J. Sallee has been in the livery business nine years. His barns can justly be claimed as relics of the medieval age, but his business is up to date.

Dayton McConnaha and son Oscar, A. J. Griffith and son, W. T. Johnson and F. F. Money are stock buyers and feeders.

There are three barber shops in which Lyle Strange is the senior in service. Frank Lovell, a novice in the art tonsorial, and Ben Veach, are both striving to merit patronage for their shops.

Drs. W. H. Terrell, O. T. Scamahorn, and E. F. King, eminently qualified in medical science to fill their mission as physicians, are successors to doctors in former years, among whom were J. H. Brill, C. W. McClintock, I. N. Brent, and C. F. Sowder. Dr. J. F. French retired from practice several years ago on account of infirmity, still resides with us.

We have thus far reviewed the history of our town and township for 75 years past.

We are now in the morning of the twentieth century. Great things have already been accomplished in our community life. Our people have always been alive to their interests in all departments of life and have kept pace with other communities in all that entitles them to rank second to none in the county.

This is evidenced by our weekly newspaper, the Pittsboro Sun. Established in January, 1893, by Frank C. Harrell, it was bought by E. C. Weaver during its first year of life. He placed on a firm basis. Dec. 25, 1898, Sam Janes became the owner, remaining in charge until June, 1911, when he sold to Evart Watson, a young man who made good in the twenty months that he conducted the paper. In February, 1913, the Sun again changed hands, Gregory Walden of Howell, Michigan, became its publisher.

The present officials of the town of Pittsboro are: A. A. Surber, Ora Cockerell, J. M. Kellems, Trustees; E. W. Sawyer, Clerk and Treasurer; D. S. Tout, Marshal.

The Ben Hur traction line, telephone systems, incorporation of our town with its $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles of cement sidewalks and well graded streets, have been wonderful factors in stimulating our interests. Our population is now about 500. The comfortable homes, shaded and well kept lawns, mark the progressive tendency of our people.

The surrounding farms, rich in alluvial soil, have rapidly improved. The fields are well drained and cleared of stumps and rocks. Miles of wire fencing have taken the place of the old rail fence. Farm houses and barns, many of them spacious and modern, contribute largely to their wealth.

Twenty-two miles of gravel road and twelve miles of rock road have been constructed in the township and turned over to the county to keep in repair. Seventy-five miles of post road, improved by special fund, make it possible for our rural route carriers to deliver the mail to each ~~home~~ home daily.

We now close by referring again to educational matters, a record of which we are justly proud. Middle township has the honor of instituting the first township high school in the county, and ~~its~~ until its buildings were outgrown, it kept in the front rank of educational development.

This year, 1913, Mr. R. L. Dillon, our efficient Trustee, is erecting an edifice of stone and brick, two stories in height with a high basement, modern in every equipment and feature, to be dedicated to the cause of education.

We trust that when it is completed it will be so perfect in architecture, workmanship, and arrangement as to excite the admiration of the public, not only in this, but in succeeding generations, and be an inspiration to the youth of Middle Township to get the best possible out of their school days.

NOTE—This historical sketch was written by Uncle George D. Junken, for 30 years a teacher in the schools of Middle Township. A perfect gentleman, a true follower of the meek and lowly Nazarene, faithful to every trust whether great or small, a good citizen in every sense of the word. Let those who open this box treasure this work which he performed with lack of exact data, relying largely upon his memory, while in feeble health yet cheerfully performing the task at the request of the committee on arrangements for this occasion.

Vicksburg, Miss.
Thursday, July 2d, 1863.

Mrs. Cisco was instantly killed on Monday, on Jackson Road. Mrs. Cisco's husband is now in Virginia, a member of Stonewall's artillery, and the death of such a young, affectionate and faithful wife, will be a loss to him irreparable.

We are indebted to Major Gillespie for a sketch of Confederate beef, alias meat. We have tried it, and can assure our friends that if it is rendered necessary, they need have no scruples eating the meat. It is sweet, savory and tender, and so logic we have concluded, we are satisfied our soldiers will be content to subsist on it.

Gordon's forces did a little firing on Tuesday afternoon, but the balance of that day was comparatively quiet. Yesterday morning they were very still, and continued so until early in the afternoon, when they opened a musket fire on our camp, and engaged us at a distance for some distance. We however, were able to ascertain nothing definitely as to our loss, but as far as we were in the lookout for this move of the enemy, the expectations of the Yankees were not realized by a great deal.

Jerry Askew, one of our most esteemed merchants, citizens, was wounded at the works in rear of our city a few days since, and breathed his last Monday. Mr. Askew was a young man of strict integrity, great industry, and a son to his family and friends. He was a member of Cowan's artillery, and by the strict discharge of his duties and his obliging disposition, won the confidence and esteem of his entire command. May the soul of his family have suffered less mitigation by him who doeth all things well.

Many good deeds we have spoken of with pride by our citizen, we cannot refrain from mentioning the name of this gentleman, having more honor than he might be necessary to boast in during the siege of this place, portions of what would do him for the brief interval that will ensue before the arrival of ransom to our parishes, and since the time has arrived the wants of many families free of charge.—May he live long and prosper, and his name be handed down to posterity when the siege of Vicksburg is written, as one who shone bright in the field of human kindness, but not died.

Porter is enjoying a season of rest, and his men are doubtless obliged to him for his kind consideration for their welfare. Tuesday he fired a few shells from his Parrot, and kept his men tolerably busy sharp-shooting across the river, with no effect or result that might be expected. The mortars have not been used for nearly eight hours. Poor fool, he might as well give up the vain aspiration in attempting to capture the fortifications, as to his master to rescue, and toward such a gaudy-will meet the hands of the unapproaching government of Washington.

Death of Lieut.-Col. GRIFFIN.—General Smith's impetuous division seems singularly unfortunate. He has lost many gallant men whose valor and worth the siege has fully developed, and whose death is a great public calamity. Lieut.-Col. Griffin, commanding the 1st Louisiana regiment, was killed in Sunday. He was a popular and efficient soldier, gifted by nature with an dauntless courage, patriotic resolution and energy, he was possessed of quick determination, keen grace and coolness, and a decided contempt for personal danger. His loss is a great loss to the army.

We have heretofore refrained from alluding to a matter which has been a source of extreme annoyance and loss to our citizens. We refer to the lax discipline of some of our company officers in allowing their men to round, day and night, and prowl about the fortifications, and, in particular, about their valuing, and now each member of our infantry has had judicial censures.

It is thought, would appeal to the heart of the spectators with admiration, that a dragoon in dismounting, and, in the moment of the fall, the enemy or our own people that our ranks are great; but still we are constrained to assert our belief that there is plenty within our lines, by an exercise of prudence, to last until long after success reaches us. We are satisfied there are numerous persons within our city who have heretofore been secret, and are doing it out at the most opportune times to those who had the best right or means of their command to provide for the exigency now upon us. A rumor has reached us that particularly have been and are now, selling flour at five dollars per hundred pounds, and which will make other such persons have the same idea, and, as such, have been compelled to leave their homes, but let it be said, their very health, that humanity may secure them as they would the poor, will help itself.

GOVERNMENT.—In devoting a large portion of our space this morning to Federal intelligence, copied from the Newbern Bulletin of the 26th, it should be remembered that the news, in the original truth, is whitewashed by the Federal Provost Marshal, who decries "the poor northern whites" as the "poor Southerners" men, were arrested for speaking the truth when truth was unknown to Vicksburg, and placed in the chain gang working at Warren, where they now are. This paper at present is in arrest, and edited for a profit-nosed, database-rotting Yankee, who is a descendant of Judas Iscariot, and a brother german of the greatest Prussian, tyrolean, Hawling, eccentric, amateur, Park Brown, &c., with such a pronounced bias that he has got the last word. Robert E. Lee, the given, Hooker, Milroy & Co. are but the boy and stoutest whipping on record, that the Federals Union is now exceedingly weak in the front.

GEN. ROBERT E. LEE AGAIN.

A great and venerable man from the gallant corps of engineers in Vicksburg. Elated with success, encouraged by a series of brilliant victories, marching to undergirding the Reapparatus, fighting Hooker's retreat, and through the Mississippi Valley, driving Milroy from Corinth, and capturing 6,000 of him and a large amount of volunteers to fill his deficiencies in covering Maryland, holding Hagerstown, threatening Washington, &c., and within a few miles of Baltimore—now, however, their way is cut off, and open under Lee's striking terror to the heart of the Yankees. Like the South's character, however, Lee's men are a swarming mass, unbroken, crack, and daringly facing the Yankees, ready to go or die in the great cause of national independence, right and honor. Today the wretched administration of Lincoln, like Jephthah, are instances of a father, for their old Abe has departed for parts unknown. Terror reigns in this battle. Lee is to the left of them, to the right of them, in front of them, and around them, and daily do we expect to hear of their total overthrow.

COL. LAWRENCE, with a portion of his regiment, mounted a battery of twelve pieces of field artillery, and, commanding the gunners, was striking terror to the heart of the Yankees.

BRIGADIER, June 30.—Operations were commenced on our white day by a portion of a N.Y. cavalry regiment, captured from General Lee's command at Hagerstown, Maryland, and driven to the south.

It is reported in Washington to-day that two members of Lee's staff were captured by general Lee's right-hand gunners.

BRIGADIER, June 30.—Operations were commenced on our white day by a portion of a N.Y. cavalry regiment, captured from General Lee's command at Hagerstown, Maryland, and driven to the south.

The rebels hold the north bank of the Potomac river, from Cathedrals to Hagerstown, Md., with their advanced positions held firmly and with the greatest firmness, despite every human endeavor.

The rebels have done, as in their recent conquests, a great deal of damage.

It is thought, Gen. Rhodes is opposing Williamsport with 200 men. The rebel Gen. Imboden is reported to be moving, but is considered as inert.

GENERAL, Md., June 30.—The enemy's cavalry left Hagerstown last evening, after capturing a number of horses and returning to Petersburg.

Six thousand rebels are reported to have crossed at Williamsport, but it is not believed they will stay long.

To capture approximately 6,000 infantry this morning, under Gen. R. E. Lee, with 100 regiments of foot, and a squad of cavalry are at Sharpsburg, and the remainder are encamped between Williamsport and Hagerstown. No great movement has been seen nor have any troops been seen since yesterday.

Gen. Edward H. Williams, president, and goes to the main body of the command, stopped at Chancellorsville. Lee's army is not known to have crossed the Potomac, but it is very probable that the force now in Maryland will not penetrate farther north. The cavalry force numbers about 1,000, under Gen. Lee.

The party, which was advanced, upon Green castle and Chancellorsville, stopped on 600.

WALSHAM, June 30.—The Richmond Dispatch of the 29th informs the following:

TO CURE DIPHTHERIA.

There is no necessity for the Great Number of Deaths caused by this Disease.

"There is no reason why a single child he should be destroyed by diphtheria if parents only watched the health of their little ones and physicians knew their business," said Dr. Liston H. Montgomery, an inspector of the Chicago health department, to a reporter for Times.

I am not afraid to say, continued the doctor, "that any physician who is familiar with the latest discoveries in medical science can cure any case of diphtheria when the patient is not already in a dying condition." This great remedy is sulphur. If any parent should find this child manifesting the symptoms of diphtheria let him get a small quantity of powdered sulphur, known generally as four of sulphur. A little of this can be placed in a quill and blown by the parent down the child's throat. The sulphur kills the poison glands of the disease and causes the false membrane to fall off. The sulphur is perfectly harmless, and if the child should have diphtheria it will not hurt it. Another way to administer the sulphur remedy is to place a small quantity of it in a saucer and set fire to it. It will not explode.
Over the burning sulphur place a common glass lamp-chimney. Cover this for a moment until the chimney is filled with the sulphurous acid gas generated by the decomposing sulphur, then hold the child's open mouth and nose over the lamp-chimney that if it may inhale the sulphurous gas. This is almost infallible cure for diphtheria. Of course the child must not be exposed to the sulphur fumes or it would suffocate.

Cubeb Cough Cure is the only preparation which will not retard digestion; it will not nauseate like so many cough mixtures. The druggists and the public in general are fast appreciating the fact that a cough remedy like Cubeb Cough Cure—that will give instant relief and a sure cure—is the great desideratum of this age, and not a cough remedy that requires twenty-four to forty-eight hours to give relief to a severe cold which by that time in a great many cases has developed into a fatal attack of Pneumonia. Cubeb Cough Cure goes directly to the seat of the trouble, is prompt in action, gives instant relief, and prevents that delay which is often dangerous sold by W.C. Holtsclaw.

TOLD BY A PRIEST.

New York Weekly.

Dec. 24, 1874, ushered in one of the severest storms that it has ever been my lot to witness.

I was that day about midway on a journey from Helena to Missoula, and had stopped for the night at a stage ranch, one of the old-time rude wayside hostellries of which to-day, in the changed conditions wrought by the advent of the railroads, but very few now remain.

Black, angry clouds had gathered upon the northern horizon, and as evening approached light, feathered snow began falling, which rapidly increased in quantity until air and earth were blanched together in a blank white shroud, beneath which surrounding objects gleamed weird and spectral through the deepening gloom.

We were a motley group as we gathered around the huge open fire to enjoy our post-prandial pipe, while the storm beat fiercely without, and the flickering red flames limned the circle of bronzed and bearded faces with weird and flitting Rembrandt-like lights and shades.

In the center sat a broad-shouldered, portly man of apparently fifty years of age, whose smoothly shaven and rubicund face, as well as the sober cut of his dress, unmistakably proclaimed the priest.

To pleasantly pass the evening story after story was related by several of the persons present, and when the priest announced his willingness to entertain his companions we all attentively listened to the tale he told. In a voice low, musical and impressive he thus proceeded:

"In 1855 I left Montreal, Canada, immediately upon my graduation from the school in which I had pursued the latter part of my theological course, having been ordered by the church directory to report for service at St. Ignatius' mission, a distant station in the wilderness at the headquarters of the Missouri river; now a part of the modern territory of Montana.

"For a number of years following my field of operations was confined to the savage tribes inhabiting the region within which myself and co-workers were the only white men, save a few traders of the Northwest Fur Company, stationed forty miles distant at Fort Benton.

"The discovery of gold, however, within the territory in 1852 led to a vast influx of adventurers, and the mountains were soon filled with seekers for the precious metal, while little towns here and there began to spring up like mushrooms among the gulches.

"One night, after having worked rather harder than usual with our Indian school, which had only been recently organized, I retired early to my apartments. I was just in a dose when a rap came on my door, and our superior walked in with a troubled face.

"A man has been shot in a miner's camp near Bear Fort mountain, and is dying," he said, "and though it is a hard ride for a dark and threatening night, your presence is requested at his bedside. Your horse will be at the door in ten minutes, and a guide will be here to accompany you. Prepare yourself for the journey at once."

"Within the time named I was in the saddle. My companion proved to be a rough looking individual, who during the long ride which followed did not speak a dozen words in answer to my questions.

"The night was one of inky darkness, and now and then a great drop of rain fell from the black vault above, while the wind swept fiercely and chillingly from the river, the banks of which we were traversing, sometimes catching up clouds of spray from the rapids and dashing them in blinding gusts in our faces.

"Within an hour after leaving the mission the rain fell in torrents, but we pursued our way without halting. It was well on toward morning when a few patches of light suddenly appeared, and in a few moments we rode into a little village of tents, from some of which came the sounds of rude music and revelry, and from others the shouts and curses of drunken men.

"We rode through a long avenue of these canvas towns, until we reached the end of the row, where we drew rein before a high log building, apparently the most pretentious one in the city."

"As we dismounted, the door was flung open and a bright light streamed forth, revealing a neatly, almost luxuriously furnished interior, with a roughly attired man in the foreground. A bright fire was burning at one end of the room, and, entering, I was left alone to dry my drenched garments before its cheerful blaze.

"Some minutes passed, during which I heard means issuing from an adjoining room, and the low murmur of voices, when the door leading to the apartment was suddenly opened and I saw before me what, for the moment, I believed to be a vision, due to the excited state into which I had been thrown by the events of the night and my mysterious surroundings.

"It was the figure of a young girl, seemingly about seventeen years of age, whose radiant and almost unearthly beauty might well have beguiled other men than myself. Dressed in simple white, with her flowing hair falling in a wealth of golden glory and an expression of sadness upon her spirituelle face, she carried my thoughts instantly to the magnificent painting of the Madonna in the chapel of the cathedral of Milan, in my native land.

"beckoning to me, I instantly arose and followed her to the room from which she had come. I there saw before me a little group of men gathered about a bed upon which lay a man of apparently middle age, whose drawn and livid face betokened the speedy coming of the dread messenger.

"By his side knelt a sobbing woman, upon whose deeply lined countenance I saw a resemblance to the dying man's features, which proclaimed them near of kin.

"As I approached the bedside the eyes of the prostrate man slowly opened, and, seeing me, he made a sudden effort as if to rise, then sank back with a piteous moan.

"I placed my crucifix to his lips and began to murmur a prayer, believing him about to die when he turned to me, and, with a strong voice, asked:

"Are you the priest?"

"Yes," I said. "What have you to say that may ease your conscience or assuage the sufferings of a dying man?"

"An expression of pain crept over his face, and, reaching forth his hand, he uttered the name 'Myra.'

"The girl I have described, glided quickly forward, and, reverently kissing the unstretched hand, sank upon her knees and wept bitterly. As he tenderly stroked her golden hair, he thus spoke, his words being listened to at his request by all present:

"Knowing that I am soon to die I want all here to listen to what I am about to say, and I desire that my confession shall be written down."

"I had my note-book in my pocket, and drawing it forth, I took his statement word for word, as I shall attempt now to give it—the public nature of the recital releasing me from the sacred secrecy of the confessional:

"Twelve years ago I lived with my sister here in the city of New York. We plied the trade of 'fencing,' or, to be plain, we were receivers of stolen goods. There lived in the same street a man with whom I had many confidential transactions. Our two places of business were near one of the great parks, into which thousands of people, many of them of wealth and leisure, came to promenade of summer evenings, and here the pickpocket was profitably plied, giving us unusually convenient opportunities for securing the plunder.

"The park was often visited by a nurse-girl who had in her charge the little five-year-old daughter of one of the wealthiest men of the city. I had often seen the pair, and the extraordinary beauty of the child often attracted my attention, as she sometimes came through the gates laden with rare flowers, stolen gifts to her by the conservatory keepers, and entered with her guardian the family carriage always waiting near.

"One day my neighbor came to me and put a terrible temptation in my heart. It was a scheme to kidnap the child in question, send it into concealment at a distant point in care of some of his relatives, and exact a large ransom for the recovery of the stolen babe.

"I did not then consent, but the soft and seductive words with which he repeatedly urged his fiendish project at length overcame my resolution, and we lay in wait for the little one for days, until the nurse-girl, being temporarily enticed away, we obtained the desired opportunity and snatched the little one away from home and friends.

"We had not anticipated the frightful hue and cry which our deed awakened, and before we could cover our tracks the sleuth hounds of the law were hot upon our trail. Finding the tolls slowly closing about me, I sold my business one day for what I could get for it, and, accompanied by my sister, fled to the place where the child was hidden, and taking her away went far out into the wilds of Colorado. There I took up gambling as a profession, and following one mining stampede after another at last drifted into Montana.

"To-night, in an altercation over a game of cards, I received the fatal shot which sends my soul to perdition, but of that I have no wish to speak. I desire, in the few short moments remaining to me, to repair so far as I can, the wrong I have done.

"This kneeling girl is the stolen child, grown to womanhood, and though I have committed toward her a crime which can never be forgiven, I have tried to be as kind to her as an affectionate and dutiful father could have been. She is the daughter of _____, the Wall street millionaire, and loving hearts, position and fortune await her in the great city of New York."

"My sister is innocent of complicity in this crime, as she has never known the circumstances under which I obtained possession of the child, for I lied to her. I commit the girl to you and your holy brotherhood as a precious charge to be restored to the bleeding hearts which have for twelve years mourned her as dead."

"His voice had sunk so low as to be almost inaudible, his lips closed as with a sudden spasm of pain, and the weeping girl flung herself on the bed at his side, her frail body convulsed with sobs which pierced the heart of the listener.

"The dying man turned his dull eyes upon her face, and in a hoarse whisper asked:

"Myra, can you forgive me?"

"Not a word could she answer, but, pressing her trembling lips upon his, she clung to them until I mercifully drew her away, and saw that the upturned face was that of the dead."

"What did you do with the girl?" asked a voice from the hushed circle that had thus far silently listened to the priest's story.

Glass Manufacture Revolutionized.

Boston Commercial Bulletin.

A new and important improvement in the manufacture of glass has recently been discovered; one that doubtless revolutionizes glass manufacturing methods. Formerly panes and plates of glass were produced by blowing large hollow cylinders, which were afterwards cut, and pressed. This blowing process, so tiresome and unhealthy to workmen, is to be abolished. By the new process, the tough glass may be run through rolls and made flat, smooth, and of any width and length.

The plate glass so produced is distinguished by greater homogeneity, firmness, toughness, and clearness; besides the surfaces receive a brilliancy of finish little less beautiful than the finest cut glass. The essential part of the new system consists in the use of peculiarly formed waved hollow metal rolls, which are heated from the inside by steam or gas. These rolls take the tough liquid glass direct from the melting pot and run it out into long sheets like those of tin or sheet iron. To avoid the possibility of the glass adhering to the rolls, the latter are covered with a thin coating of coal-dust, oil and wax.

When one considers the marvelous increase in the demand for sheet and plate glass, and that its former production was at the cost of much money and the health of employees, the present discovery must be regarded as of great importance. It is expected to reduce the cost of production, and consequently the selling price, very materially.

Buckeye Force Pumps.

Most all implements used in farming have been perfected to a wonderful degree during the past few years. The most successful farmers of today are a class of reading and thinking men, who make a study of their work, and are quick to see "good points" in anything they buy. These men buy the Best, because it is the cheapest in the end. The Buckeye is a double acting Force Pump, and as shown in cut is simple in construction, having done away with all trappy and unnecessary parts. These Pumps are made in many sizes—2 to 8-inch cylinders, and are adapted to any depth of well up to 200 feet. It is the finest pump ever made, and gives unbounded satisfaction. The spout is adjustable for right or left hand pump at will. It throws an even stream at the spout, has a brass valve seat, and is warranted never to freeze.

"MAN OVERBOARD."

A Startling Cry on Shipboard—Rules of Action.

There is no sound aboard ship so demoralizing as that of "Man overboard!" says the N. Y. Times. It strikes terror to the heart of the bravest of men, and only the best disciplined crews can withstand the panic it usually produces. Almost every ship has a particular rule of action for such occurrences. The best preconcerted arrangements, however, are often inapplicable, and success depends mainly on the presence of mind of the watch, the man at the life buoy, and the normal condition of the boats.

A cool hand will drop the life buoy sometimes within the reach of a man; a "bothered" one will either not let go at all or do so before the man has got near the stern. Of all persons aboard ship the officer of the deck should be cool and collected.

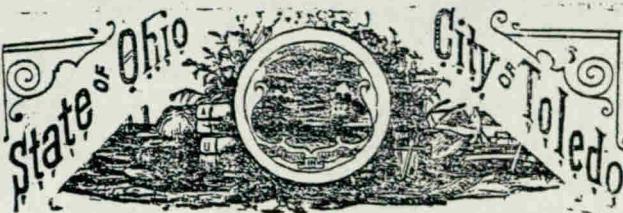

Rear Admiral S. B. Luce lays down the principle that the most important considerations when a man falls overboard are: First, the quickest and most effectual method of arresting the ship's progress and how to keep her as near the spot where the man fell as possible; Second, to preserve the general discipline of the ship to maintain silence, and to enforce the most prompt obedience, without permitting hooligan volunteering of any kind. Third, to see that the boat appointed to be employed on these occasions is placed in such a manner that she may be cast loose in a moment, and when ready for lowering that she is properly manned and fitted, so as to be efficient in all respects when she reaches the water. Fourth, to take care in lowering the boat neither to stave or swamp her nor to pitch the men out. And, lastly, to have a sufficient number of the sharpest-sighted men in the ship stationed aloft in such a manner as to give them the best chance not only of discovering the person overboard, but of pointing him out to the men in the boat, who may not otherwise know in what direction to pull.

With steamers the difficulties to overcome in rescuing a man overboard are comparatively few, inasmuch as a steam-vessel is always under control so long as her machinery is in good order. The rule is to stop as quickly as possible, lower the life-boat, and pick the man up. The really fine points of seamanship come into play when sailing ships are being handled. The ordeal is a trying one for the best of officers, and the young seamen who can properly place a large sailing ship and rescue a man that has fallen overboard deserve the highest credit for seamanship qualities.

Rear Admiral Luce is one of the best seamen in the United States navy and now on the retired list, had a favorite habit while in command of the North Atlantic squadron of ordering a midshipman to relieve the officer of the deck from duty, the instant the young man took hold of the speaking trumpet the observing officer would quickly pass a signal and in a twinkling the terrible cry of "Man overboard!" would ring through the ship. It was all done to test the young midshipman's nerve and fitness for his calling, and the admiral's delight in catching a young officer napping was amusing. Generally, however, commanding officers refrain from allowing the cry to be sounded solely for practice purposes, inasmuch as seamen have been known to jump overboard to the rescue of their supposed unfortunate shipmates. The rule is a stringent one that sailor shall jump overboard unless permitted by the officer of the deck, many brave fellows do so, the regulation and no one has been lost in foolhardy

An Expert's Opinion.

Our readers have doubtless noticed the numerous discussions by the scientists and hygienists as to the relative value of the various baking powders. A careful sifting of the evidence leaves no doubt as to the superiority of the Royal Baking Powder in purity, wholesomeness and strength, from a scientific point. An opinion, however, that will have perhaps greater influence with our practical housekeepers, is that given by Marion Harland, the well known and popular writer, upon matters pertaining to the science of domestic economy, of housekeeping, and of home cooking. In a letter published in the Philadelphia Ladies' Home Journal, this writer says:

"I regard the Royal Baking Powder as the best manufactured and in the market, so far as I have any experience in the use of such compounds. Since the introduction of it into my kitchen I have used no other in making its cakes, etc., and for such WOMEN AT 25 TO 30.

The Age at Which They are Said to Be Most Entertaining.

Time was when to be 16 was the best thing that could happen to a young girl. It was the age of dewy freshness, of innocent impressibility, and of all the other delightful but rather verdant virtues which have won the heart of the poet to song and wooed the mind of the sage to something better than his philosophy. But sweet 16 is in short dress to-day and still under the rule of her governess. Her affections have not yet departed from her dolls and she treats the few young men of her acquaintance with the simplicity of a child. It was a good thing once to be 16; it is a good thing now to be 20; to be 25 is better still, but to be 28 is to be blest!

"There is no time in a woman's life when she is so delightful (married or unmarried, but particularly the latter)," said an observing man yesterday. "She is from 26 to 30. She still has the enthusiasm of youth, and much of the tolerant sense of middle life. Her judgment is mature, and her opinions carry weight. The shyness and timidity of her girlhood," says a woman writer of the N. Y. Sun, "have passed into a poise of manner and a gracious dignity that places her friends at once at their easy best. She has had experience, and that experience has given her a clear understanding of the world as it really is and of herself without illusions. Therefore her estimates and criticisms of life are sharp and sure and usually to be trusted, because she has no theories to bolster up and no illusions to perpetuate."

"But there is something to be said on the other side," said a woman of 26 who heard him. "It may look like very smooth sailing from the outside, but one can have little idea how much tact it takes to steer straight in the narrow path of the five years that lie between 25 and 30. In the first place, a woman at that age hardly knows where to place herself. She is neither young nor old. She is what Julian Hawthorne calls 'still young,' and the little adjective adds ten years at a stroke. If a woman who is 26 is a young takes the coy and kittenish role, she makes herself immortally ridiculous, and deservedly so. She has sometimes even to fear letting herself be spontaneous and natural, lest some one shall dub her the 'girlish old girl.' To be older than her years makes a prig of her at once, and men and gods will shun her."

To the very young man she must be grandmotherly without hurting his dear little vanity by superior wisdom and patronage. To the middle-aged man she must respond with a maturity of judgment that matches his own, and yet she must continually suggest the innocence of 16. To the man between the two she may perhaps be nearer her natural self, and yet even with him she has continually to remember that she must never assume the equality of knowledge or experience or judgment which she is sure she really possesses. She is often truer in her judgments and wiser in her conclusions than he is; he must never suspect it. She may be cleverer than he, but she must be clever enough to conceal it. She must follow him always, but, like little Iulus, it must be with unequal footsteps; or his vanity is wounded. From 25 to 30 a woman has the most difficult part of her life to live. She has to disassemble in the present, remember from the past and borrow from the future. She may be delightful, but she is far from being delighted. Do you begin to realize it?"

A NEW DISCOVERY.

The Wonderful Curative Properties of Dr. Watt's Magnetic Remedies.

Dr. W. H. Watt, of Indianapolis, has been experimenting for many years on a remedy which he relied upon to instantly relieve and permanent cure rheumatism, kidney diseases, and has in these experiments made discoveries that may well cause him to claim, "Eureka! I have found it!"

He claims his friend is now announced to the world at large two wonderful cures, Magnetic Oil and Magnetic Blood Purifier, which are said to be the greatest medical discoveries ever made.

Though Dr. Watt has not heralded them from the housetops, thousands are using them in Indianapolis and contiguous cities, who are said to pronounce them truly wonderful for the cure of all ailments of the human body.

The Magnetic Oil, it is claimed, will give almost instant relief to every ache and pain, notwithstanding the causes of rheumatism, sciatica, spinal troubles, heart affection, asthma, lung, stomach, kidneys and liver troubles, and in fact the two build up a broken down system or remove the condition of the other treatments failed.

These remedies are truly valuable. Taken together usually, the Magnetic Purifier acting upon the cause, the Oil upon the effect, making a most successful combination.

This treatment is guaranteed and not subject to failure, and is highly recommended by physicians and highly recommended by physicians. It should be particularly noted that it is claimed for these remedies that they cure when all others have failed.

The United States Whip Company, recently incorporated in Maine, is to syndicate that branch of business in this country. This trust beats all the others.

Two Lawyers' Stories.

Occasionally lawyers get together and swap stories about the funny things they have heard in and around the court-house. A Republic reporter was in earshot of several eminent barristers and heard two anecdotes related that are worth repeating:

When Judge Rommeyer was on the bench he one day made a ruling against a young attorney whose superficiality of diplomas was only equalled by his scant knowledge of the law. Much disgusted the lawyer said:

"I don't know where your honor goes to find such law as that."

When ruffled Judge Rommeyer speaks with a strong Bohemian accent, and he replied in emphatic language:

"I am not surprised, Mr. —, zai you know not where I go to find ze law, for I find it in ze books."

The second incident was that wherein a Judge had overruled a motion of Counselor Garvey, one of the best known lawyers at the St. Louis bar. The counselor is usually most respectful to the court, but he lost his temper this time and declared in his broad, though rich and cultured, Irish brogue:

"Your Honor, I hope for your honor's honor that it will never be noised abroad to your honor's hurt that this honorable court ever made a ruling so dishonorable to its own honor." —S. Louis Republic.

Most people take it for granted that because musk is sold in what is called a pod, therefore it is a vegetable product. But the truth is that it is entirely an animal product, being a substance found in a two or three inch sac in the body of the little musk deer of Asia. The sac, when tied up and dried, goes by the name of a pod among the hunters who bring it into market. Probably there are few things subject to such adulteration, as one quart of pure musk will scent thousands of parts of some other powder mingled with it, and, as the pods sell from $15 to $20 apiece, the adulterant has its profit.

The Jewelled Foundations of the Wall of Heaven.

The Twelve Stones Mentioned by St. John—
The Glories of the New Jerusalem—
Dr. Talmage's Sermon.

Dr. Talmage, having returned from his Southern tour, preaches at Brooklyn, last Sunday. Subject: "The Wall of Heaven." Text: Revelation, xxi, 19—"The foundations of the wall of the city were garnished with all manner of precious stones." He said:

Shall I be frank and tell you what are my designs on you to-day? They are to make you homesick for heaven; to console you concerning your departed Christian friends by giving you some ideas of the brilliancy of the scenes in which they now commingle, to give all who love the Lord a more elevated idea of as to where they are going to pass the most of the years of their existence, and to set all the indifferent and neglectful to quick and immediate preparation, that they may have it likewise. My text stands in the presence of the most stupendous splendor of the universe, and that is the wall of heaven, and says of its foundations that they are garnished with all manner of precious stones. All the ancient cities had walls for safety, and heaven has a wall for everlasting safety.

Now I propose this morning, so far as the Lord may help me, to attempt to climb not the wall of heaven, but the foundations of the wall, and I ask you to join me in the attempt to scale some of the heights. The first layer of the foundation, reaching all around the city and for 1,500 miles, is a layer of jasper. The jasper is a congregation of many colors. It is brown; it is yellow; it is green; it is vermillion; it is red; it is purple; it is black, and is so striped with colors that much of it is called ribbon jasper.

It is found in Siberia and Egypt, but it is rare in most lands and of great value, for it is so hard the ordinary processes cannot break it off from the places where it has been deposited. The workmen bore holes into the rock of jasper, then drive into these holes sticks of dry birchwood, and then saturate the sticks and keep them saturated until they swell enough to split the rock, and the fragments are brought out and polished and transported and cut into cameos and put behind the glass doors of museums.

But we must pass up in this inspection of the foundations of the great wall of heaven, and after leaving the jasper the next precious stone reached is sapphire, and it sweeps around the city 1,500 miles. All lapidaries agree in saying that the sapphire of the Bible is what we now call lapis lazuli. Job speaks with emotion of "the place of sapphires," and God thought so much of this precious stone that he put it in the breast-plate of the high priest, commanding, "The second row shall be an emerald, a sapphire and a diamond."

The sapphire is a blue, but varies from faintest hue to deepest ultramarine. It is found a pebble in the rivers of Ceylon. It is elsewhere in compact masses. Persia and Tibet and Burmah and New South Wales and North Carolina yield exquisite specimens. Its blue is seen in the valley of the Rhine. Sapphire based on jasper, a blue sky over a fiery sunset. St beautiful of earthly appearances, whether you take this sapphire of the second layer as literal or figurative. Oh, I am so glad that St. John told us about it! "The second, sapphire!"

A step higher and you come to chalcedony, another layer in the foundation of the wall and running 1,500 miles around the heavenly city. Chalcedony! Translucent. A divine mixture of agates and opals and cornelians. Striped with white and gray. Dashed of pallor, blushing into red and darkening into purple. Iceland and Hebrides hold forth beautiful specimens of chalcedony.

But now we must make a swift ascent to the top of the foundation wall, for we are not minutely examining all the layers, and so, putting one foot on the chalcedony of which we have been speaking, we spring to the emerald, and we are one-third of the way to the top of the foundation for the fourth row is emerald. That, I would judge, is God's favorite among gems, because it holds what seems evident is his favorite color on earth, the green, since that is the color most widely diffused across the earth's continents—the grass, the foliage, the everyday dress of nature. The emerald! Kings used it as a seal to stamp pronunciamenti. The rainbow around the throne of God is by St. John compared to it. In the Kremlin museum at Moscow there are crowns and scepters and outspread miracles of emeralds. Ireland is called the Emerald Isle not because of its verdure, but because it was presented to Henry II of England with an emerald ring.

But upward still and you put your foot on a stratum of sardonyx, white and red, a seeming commingling of snow and fire, the snow cooling the fire, the fire melting the snow.

Another climb and you reach the sardius, named after the city of Sardis. Another climb and you reach the chrysolite. A specimen of this belonging to Epiphanius, in the fourth century, was said to be so brilliant that whatever was put over to conceal it was shown through, and the emperor of China has a specimen that is described as having such penetrating radiance that it makes the night as light as day.

A higher climb and you reach the beryl. Two thousand years ago the Greeks used this precious stone for engraving purposes. It accounted among the royal treasures of Tyre. The hilt of murat's sword was adorned with it. It glows in the imperial crown of Great Britain.

But stop not here. Climb higher and you come to topaz, a bewilderment of beauty and named after an island of the Red sea.

Climb higher and you come to chrysoprasus, of greenish golden hue and hard as flint.

Climb higher and you reach the jacinth, named after the dower hyacinth and of reddish blue.

Take one more step and you reach the top, not of the wall, but the top of the foundations of the wall, and St. John cries out, "The twelfth, an amethyst!" This precious stone, when found in Australia or India or Europe, stands in columns and pyramids. For color it is a violet bloom in stone. For its play of light, for its deep mysteries of color, for its uses in Egyptian, in Etruscan, in Roman art it has been honored. The Greeks thought the stone a preventive of drunkenness. The Hebrews thought it a source of pleasant dreams. For all lovers of gems it is a subject of admiration and suggestiveness. Yet the word amethyst the ancients drank not one had any such results of prevention. Ah, it is the amethystine cups that do the wildest and worst slaughter. The smash of the filthy goblets of the rummies would long ago have taken place by law, but the amethystine chalices prevent—the chalices out of which Legislatures and Congresses drink before and after they make laws. Amethystine chalices have been the friends of intoxication instead of its foes. Over the fiery lips of the amethystine chalices is thrust the tongue which biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder.

But, some one will say, why have you brought us to this amethystine, the top row of the foundation of the heavenly wall, if you are not able to accept the theory of the ancient Greeks, who said that the amethystine was a charm against intoxication, or if you are not willing to accept the theory of the ancient Hebrews that the amethyst was a producer of pleasant dreams? My answer is, I have brought you to the top row, the twelfth layer of the foundation of the heavenly wall of 1,500 miles of circling amethyst to put you in a position where you can get a new idea of heaven; to let you see that after you have climbed up twelve strata of glory you are only at the base of the eternal grandeur; to let you, with enchantment of soul, look far down and look far up; and to force upon you the conclusion that if all our climbing has only shown us the foundation of the wall, what must the wall itself be; and if this is the outside of heaven, what must the inside be; and if all this is figurative, what must the reality be? Oh, this piled up magnificence of the heavenly wall! Oh, this eternity of decoration! Oh, this pale, fluorescent, prismatic miracle of architecture! What enthronement of all colors! A mingling of the blue of skies, and the surf of seas, and the green of meadows, and the upholstery of autumnal forests, and the fire of August sunsets! All the splendors of earth and heaven dashed into those twelve rows of foundation wall! All that marks you only typical of the spiritual glories that roll over heaven like the Atlantic and Pacific oceans swung in one billow.

Oh, my soul! If my text shows us only the outside, what must the inside be? While riding last summer through the emperor's park, near St. Petersburg, I was captivated with the groves, transplanted from all zones, and the flower beds, miles this way and miles that way, incarnadined with beauty, and the fountains bounding in such revel with the sunlight as nowhere else is seen. I said: "This is beautiful. I never saw anything like this before."

But when I entered the palace and saw the pictured walls, and the long line of statuary, and aquariums afloat with all bright scales, and aviaries a-chant with bird voices, and the inner doors of the palace were swung back by the chamberlain, and I saw the emperor and empress and princes and princesses, and they greeted me with a cordiality of old acquaintanceship. I forgot all the groves and floral bewitchment I had seen outside before entrance.

And now I ask if the outside of heaven attracts our souls to-day, how much more will be the uplifting when we get inside and see the King in his beauty and all the princes and princesses of the palaces of amethyst? Are you not glad that we did not stop in our ascent this morn-come our long ago departed loved ones have kissed us. My! How they have changed in looks. They were so sick when they went away, and now they are so well. Look! Yonder is the palace of our Lord, the King. Not kept a moment outside, we are ushered into the throne room.

And an angel of God says to me: "Where shall I take you? On what street of heaven would you like to live? What celestial habitation would you like to occupy?" And I answer: "Now that I have got inside the wall made up of all manner of precious stones I do not care where you put me. Just show me where my departed loved ones are. I have seen the Lord, and next I want to see them. But here are those with whom I toiled in the kingdom of God on earth. They are from my old parishes at Belleville and Syracuse and Philadelphia and Brooklyn and from many places on both sides of the sea where I have been permitted to work with them and for them. Give them the best places you can find. I will steady them as they mount the thrones. I will help you burnish their coronets."

"Take these—my old friends—to as good rooms as you can get for them in the house of many mansions and with windows looking out upon the palace of the great King. As for myself, anywhere in heaven is good enough for me." But I awoke. In the ecstasy of the moment my foot slipped from the layer of amethyst, that so-called producer of dreams, and in the effort to catch myself the vision vanished. And, lo, it was a dream!

A recent application of aluminum to the frames of eyeglasses has attracted some attention. The weight of the frame is almost imperceptible, yet the lenses are softer than without rims. As the amount of aluminum used is extremely small, the difference in price between such glasses and those with steel frames is trifling. The fact that aluminum does not corrode especially recommends it for this use.

All the Time Improving

When it comes to an inventive genius, let the Sun present Mr. Hicks, our smiling and up-to-date furniture man. He's just all the time making something. Curtain rack, window shade rack, matting rack and lastly a rug rack—these are products of his inventive genius and are material aids in the display of goods. Of course, he has to call on the blacksmith some, but the

IT'S ONCE AGAIN TIME FOR VILLAGE CLEAN-UP

As spring approaches, let us, one and all, make an extra effort to put our town of Pittsboro in a clean condition. The fly season is almost here now; let each person see to it that his premises are put in a thoroughly clean condition, so that flies will have no place to hatch. The citizens of Pittsboro made a very good fight against the fly last season. There were millions of flies trapped last summer and fall. We hope to see the campaign renewed with extra effort this spring and summer.

Let the fight begin now, since one fly killed now means millions less this fall. We will name May as clean-up day. Let each one make an effort to have Pittsboro thoroughly cleaned of all rubbish, trash, manure and fly breeding places by that time. By a little vigilance, the fly may be prevented, and there will be none to trap or bother people this summer.

I. D. Keeney Has Passed Away

A desire to assist in relieving the stricken residents of the flooded district caused the death from pneumonia of J. D. Keeney, 67 years old, 1001 Ashland avenue, Sunday afternoon. Mr. Keeney, who was a member of the College Avenue Baptist church and deeply interested in missions, gave much of his time to working in West Indianapolis. He contracted a cold, which eventually resulted in pneumonia.

He was taken ill a week ago Sunday, when he returned from the flooded district, and on Tuesday was confined to his bed. He owned considerable property in Rainsborough, Hendricks county, Indiana, where he operated a general merchandise store for 25 years, retiring 10 years ago, when he moved to Indianapolis. He gave a month's rent on his Rainsborough property to the flood sufferers' relief fund, as well as making several other contributions.

Mr. Keeney devoted considerable time to experiments, and was the inventor of the King mop, a revolving kitchen cabinet and a combination table-bed, besides several other smaller household articles.

A widow and two daughters survive. The daughters are Mrs. Ida Lambert, Shoals, Indiana, and Mrs. Nora Paughman, 924 East 10th street, Indianapolis.

DIFFERENT KINDS OF NEWS MATTER

The Sun's Advertising Columns Give News of Things You Should Know for Economy

The wise man reads the signs boards and so gets to his destination quickly and without loss of time.

The wise shopper reads the advertisements of reputable dealers, knowing they are behind every statement they make and expect to gain business by proving themselves reliable.

This issue of the Sun should be of interest to our readers. As to ordinary news matter, we are a little light. But our advertising columns contain news of interest to every one who has a family to provide for.

Advertising is news.

As news, it should be fresh every issue, telling you what the merchant has to offer in seasonable merchandise.

All of our ads should interest you. Hicks is making a special offer to furniture buyers of two per cent off for cash. If you did not read his ad last week, go get the Sun and read it. There's a proposition that is well worth your while. Every home needs a sewing machine.

Parker sells of spring and summer clothing for men, and also talks to the point on the subject of trademarked goods.

Greer-Wilkinson offer your next winter's coal at a substantial saving.

Tansel gives you the news of his store.

There are some new ads in this issue that will be of interest to horsemen.

Just remember, the ads are news or they are not ads, and read them as you do the news columns.

GREER-WILKINSON COMPANY LOSES LOCAL MANAGER

Roy Davidson, after a little more than four years here, has resigned as manager for the Pittsboro yard of the Greer-Wilkinson Lumber company, his resignation to take effect May 1. His successor has not yet been named.

The Sun voices the sentiments of all when it says that Pittsboro will miss Mr. Davidson and family. Roy is a lumberman. He's business all the time, and the business of the local yard has increased greatly under his management. Courteous, efficient and always on the job, he has made friends for his company and for himself.

The True & True Lumber company of Chicago will be Mr. Davidson's employer after May 1, though the point to which he will go has not been decided upon yet.

President Wilson takes the position that what goes into our stomachs and onto our bodies should not be taxed. If we remember right, a tax on tea precipitated things back in 1776—and there have been other instances showing that food taxation is mighty unpopular. Wonder if President Wilson will carry this on to include the drinks of joy, such as champagne, cordials and many distilled and malt liquors which bring temporary surcease and permanent increase of sorrow to the disciples of Bacchus everywhere.

A few more cross-walks would be a decided improvement to our town. And if those on Main street are raised a little, it will have a tendency to enforce the speed laws among our visiting automobilists.

Who Is to Blame For This?

Recently there was a funeral in Indianapolis. This week there was another one.

Both funerals were of young girls, victims of man's drunken frenzy.

The first girl was shot by a young fellow who had made his of the conditions which produce home with her family for a number of years. No provocation for the shooting, as he himself admits.

The other girl, whose funeral occurred this week, was beaten by her drunken brother, who used a chair in his frenzy.

On whom should the blame fall for these two crimes?

"The rum seller is to blame!"

Ever since the writer was old enough to hear and understand, this has been the cry.

Get wise! The rum seller is not the one at fault.

The maker of liquor is not the one at fault.

The worship of the golden calf is at the bottom of the whole business.

John Wesley said that the greatest danger to Methodism was the coming of the rich man into the pews.

The trouble with society in America today is that we visit our condemnation on the visible tool, and look upon the man higher up as a good citizen—because he has the pews.

The old school house would make a dandy factory. Here's a chance for a booster organization to locate something in Pittsboro that will increase our population and get us advertisers all over the country.

Swat the fly! The season of slaughter is about here. Gird up your loins and start now. Remember that a good clean-up and then a little maintenance of cleanliness in the breeding grounds will make of Pittsboro a fly-speckless town.

The parole by Governor Ralston of young Roskin Taisel seems to meet with general approval. The sentiment seems to be that he went to the help of his father, and as one expressed it, "A kid that won't help his dad isn't much of a kid."

The method need may be open to question, but when quick action is needed no one deliberates long as to the form the action is to take so long as it is effective.

Lodge secretaries, society secretaries, church leaders—all are invited to use the columns of the Sun for their announcements of meetings and other activities. Keeping our readers informed as to coming events is a part of the service the Sun wishes to give its readers.

The one good thing about it is that the costs of these crimes fall like the rain, on the just and the unjust alike, increasing the taxes of all.

Again we say, get wise. Apply the axe to the root of the tree, which is your own cowardly outlook at life, and these things will cease to be.

In his sermon Sunday evening, Rev. Sumner said that many vices are merely virtues carried to excess. The too truthful person is vicious in this way.

Nationally Advertised Goods

We sell many lines of NATIONALLY ADVERTISED GOODS. This may not mean anything to you, but it should. Years of advertising and thousands of dollars have been spent to promote the sale of Trademarked goods, yet all this would be wasted if the goods did not give satisfaction to the consumer. A manufacturer would better not name his goods if the quality would not back up his advertising claims.

A TRADEMARK on any merchandise is a guarantee of satisfaction to you. The manufacturer knows that his goods are right. He is not afraid to put his name on the article.

You Will Need Extra Power

 WHEN you buy your engine, get it big enough to do more than your present work. If it's an IHC engine it will last a long time. Your farm work is bound to increase in volume. Very likely you can save yourself the price of another engine later, by getting an engine a size larger than you need now. When you buy an engine powerful enough to handle your work easily while running at the correct speed you add years to its life. Get your engine big enough and buy an

IHC Oil and Gas Engine

You can use it to run any farm machine—pump, saw, feed grinder, cream separator, grindstone and up to a husker and shredder or thresher—depending on the size of the engine you buy. The power is so economical, so steady and dependable that IHC engines are in daily use in printing offices, laundries, bakeries, machine shops, mills and factories.

An IHC oil and gas engine will deliver 10 to 30 per cent above its rated horse power. All parts are carefully, accurately ground and perfectly balanced. Combustion is perfect and the maximum power is secured.

Sizes—1 to 50-horse power. Styles—stationary, portable, skidded, vertical, horizontal, tank-cooled, hopper-cooled, air-cooled. Fuels—gas, gasoline, naphtha, kerosene, distillate or alcohol. Christian Church Notes

Sunday school attendance 118 last Sunday.

Two able sermons were given Sunday by Rev. Sumner.

Christian Endeavor at 6:30 p. m. next Sunday.

The 3d annual social, given by the True Blues last Tuesday evening, was one of the best the class has ever had. There were 49 present. A fine literary and musical program. Shouting proverbs and other games of interest were very much enjoyed by all. Vocal solos by Miss Beulah Waters and Mrs. Scamahorn. Violin solo by Miss Hazel Vice, accompanied by Miss Mary Hale, were loudly applauded.

The little story, written by Miss Pearl Oliver, about the boy writing to his schoolmarm, deserves mention, along with the reading by Miss Nora Ridgway.

The committee on arrangements had decorated the Hayworth hall in a home parlor fashion and everyone was more than pleased with the display.

LIZTON FOLKS AND THEIR ACTIVITIES

The alumni association of the Lizton high school has reorganized on a new financial basis. A fee of 50 cents is required of each member, and instead of the members of the high school furnishing the funds as heretofore, the "tin" realized from the membership fees will be expended along that line. The annual banquet of 1913 will be held in the K. of P. hall at this place next Saturday evening, April 19. All members are urged to pay their dues before Thursday evening to Nitis Hall. The eats will be furnished by the Ladies Aid society of the Christian church. Everyone knows the reputation these ladies have when it comes to fixing up a feed. Every alumnus should attend, as this meeting of the association will undoubtedly be the best ever held by it. Roy F. Leak is the president of the association.

Oscar Hiland, a junior in the high school, is back again, after several days absence on account of illness.

Lizton high school sent a delegation to the annual invitational oratorical contest held at Brownsburg last Saturday evening. Although our speakers were not successful in landing the honors, we are proud of them. Lora Dale and Mary Reeves from the local high school participated, his subject being "Intervention in Behalf of Cuba," and her subject, "The Station Master's Story." Herbert Smith of Brownsburg and Juanita Ragedale of Whitestown carried the first honors, and Frank Fisher of Greenwood, and Ruby Billingsley of Greenwood won second places.

F. N. Kennedy, who got his face in the path of a healthy jab from the left hind foot of the old family horse one day last week, is able to be up town. However, his wounds are still bandaged, and give him considerable pain.

The baccalaureate sermon was preached to the graduating class of 1913 of the local high school, at the M. E. church Sunday evening by Rev. Appleby. He had as his subject, "Intellectual Responsibility," and his discourse was highly interesting to the auditors.

Mrs. McClintock, an aged lady of this place, died at her home Monday of last week. The cause of her death was cancer of the stomach. The funeral services were conducted at the house Wednesday afternoon, followed by burial in the K. of P. cemetery. A son, Paul, is a member of the U. S. standing army.

The Misses Louise Smith, Bertha Thorpe and Eva Tout of Pittsboro were Sunday guests of Miss Clemia Scott.

Col. A. A. Figg of the Danville Auto Sales company was in town Monday in the interest of his business.

W. T. Head, a farmer living northeast of here, lost a 2-year-old colt last week. The animal was a valuable one that Mr. Head had purchased at a sale but a short time ago.

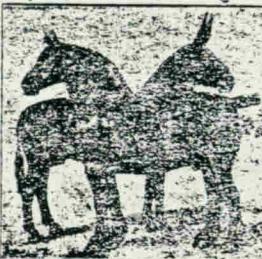

Lora Dale was the guest of relatives at Indianapolis during the latter part of last week.

William Shockley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shockley, living west of this place, is very ill with pneumonia, stomach trouble and congestion of the brain. For a time his life was despaired of, but at the time of going to press he was considered as practically out of danger.

The commencement exercises of the class of '13, Lizton high school, will be held at the Rep. Men's hall on the evening of April 18 at eight o'clock. This class is the largest one that has graduated from the local high school for a number of years.

No Contract Made for Erection of Light Distributing Plant at Wednesday Meeting

Wednesday at 2 o'clock the town board met at the office of Engineer Tripp in Indianapolis and opened the bids for the construction of the distributing plant for the town electric lighting system. Trustees Cockerell and Killems and Clerk Sawyer were present. The illness of his daughter kept President Surber from attending.

Seven bids were received and these ranged slightly higher than had been anticipated. By splitting the contracts, it is possible to keep safely within the limits of the appropriation. This is the course that will undoubtedly be followed.

No contracts were let, however, the board deciding to hold the bids under advisement until Saturday, when definite action may be expected.

PREACHING EVERY SUNDAY IN PITTSBORO NEXT YEAR

The prospect is very good for preaching service in Pittsboro every Sunday next year. With services at the Christian church the second and fourth Sundays of each month, the Methodists now plan to have their church open for service the first and third Sundays. This will mean practically every Sunday of the year occupied, as there are only four months in the year with five Sundays.

The plan, which has been endorsed by the quarterly conference, is to have Linton and Pittsboro divide the services of the preacher, making North Salem the nucleus of another charge.

This plan is the direct result of the splendid result of the canvass for the envelope system of paying for church expenses, recently made by the local church. At the last quarterly conference, which was held at North Salem, the Pittsboro members were ready with a nice little check to pay their apportionment. The system is starting out fine and means much to the local church. It's business and will prove a success.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR JOHN GREGG

Relatives and Friends Tender Him a Dinner at the Home of Thomas Hession

For 60 years or more, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Gregg have lived on their farm north of town. Friday is the 88th anniversary of Mr. Gregg's birth. So his family arranged a little celebration in his honor; and Mrs. Gregg, who is 83 years young, was also guest of honor.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hession was filled with those who gathered to do honor to these fine old people. Three sons, three daughters, 10 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren were in the party.

Needless to say, the party was a happy one, and more were happier than the two in whose honor they had gathered. A fine dinner, plenty of good music, jokes and laughter made the time pass quickly.

These present were: Mrs. Flora Jones, Homer Whitsett and family, Harry Whitsett and family, Will Haynes and family, Miss Ethel Allen, Miss Frances Hession, Miss Katherine Bereman, Mrs. Mattie Whitsett and daughter Ethel and son Ernest, all of Indianapolis; Mrs. Melville Kennedy, Wesley Beauman and family, G. D. Junken and family, N. E. Worrell and family, J. E. Gregg, Alvarian Gregg, Elmon Gregg, Miss Miranda Gregg, Mr. and Mrs. William Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Melville Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. John Fowler, Samuel Pearson and daughter Lula, Mrs. Lide Tout, Mrs. J. T. Waters, Mrs. Edward Watt, Mrs. Sherman Smith and daughter Louise, and Miss Bertha Thornbrough.

There were no jarring notes to mar the happiness of the occasion, which was enjoyed by all. Mr. Gregg received the congratulations of all, and all wish that Mr. and Mrs. Gregg may be spared for many more happy anniversaries.

Pittsboro's Boy Huckster

Lynn Tansel is the youngest huckster that ever started out of Pittsboro. Last Monday morning, as his father could not go out with his wagon, Lynn said: "I can go."

So he went and came home all right. His sales were as good as usual and he bought more produce. He gave his bills to his father, and Mr. Tansel said he never found a mistake. Ol Warrick went along, but said he saw Lynn knew more about the business than he did, so he just opened gates and Lynn did the rest. Keep on, Lynn, this is only a stepping stone to something better. It gives you experience you could not get any other way.

Russell Griffith Acquited

In circuit court Tuesday, a verdict of not guilty was returned in the case of the People vs. Russell Griffith, charged with larceny. This ends the chicken cases.

Ice cream and trimmings will be served by the ladies of the W. R. C. at Hayworth hall the evening of Decoration day, May 30. Be sure to include this social in your program of the day.

VETERANS HEARD SERMON ON PRESENT DAY PATRIOTISM

Last Sunday morning the Grand Army veterans and all others who attended heard an excellent and inspiring sermon by Rev. F. W. Summer at the Christian church.

Tasty decoration gave to the church a very inviting appearance, and the entire service was in harmony with the Memorial spirit.

Rev. Summer spoke chiefly of the demands which the country today makes upon its patriotic people and his remarks were plain, practical and valuable.

Linton News Items

A few of the Linton people took in the Barnum & Bailey circus at Indianapolis, Wednesday.

Roy Leek was the guest of friends at Stilesville, Sunday.

Work has been temporarily suspended on the gravel-road, northeast of this place, on account of the rains which renders the roads impassable for the traction hauling outfit.

The frame of the business room which is being erected by F. O. Burgan, has been raised and the work is progressing nicely. The building will certainly be an improvement to the appearance of the town especially since it comes to take the place of an old landmark.

George Bailey's new barn, northeast of this place, was fittingly dedicated by a "barn dance," Saturday evening.

The light rains of the past two weeks have helped the crops wonderfully and have spelled the doom of the cloids. A greater part of the corn is up nicely; some has been plowed while a small percentage of the crop is yet to be planted. Wheat and rye are looking nice and the oats now have a fighting chance with the weeds.

Mr. and Mrs. George English returned from Oklahoma, Tuesday of last week, where they had made their home for the past two years.

Program for Memorial Day as Arranged by Veterans and the Several Committees Appointed

Saturday afternoon the veterans of the Grand Army met with the representatives of the Woman's Relief Corps in Hayworth hall and made arrangements for the annual observance of Memorial day.

The program of the day will be as follows:

8:30 a. m. Meet at Hayworth hall.

8:45 a. m. Start for the outlying cemeteries, the Sparks, Weaver and Holtsclaw cemeteries, where the ritual service will be observed and the graves of departed comrades decorated.

1:30 p. m. Meet at Hayworth hall and proceed to Christian church.

1:45 p. m. Song, "America." Invocation. Chaplain Quartet Remarks by the Commander.

THE BEN HUR GROCERY HAS CHANGED OWNERS

After Fifteen Years in Business, K. S. Tansel Has Sold Store to Loyal Schenck, His Clerk

Monday morning occurred another of those business changes which have been quite the fashion this spring.

Knotley Tansel has sold his Ben Hur grocery store to Loyal Schenck, who has been his chief clerk for the past four years.

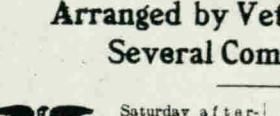

After being in the grocery business for 15 years, Knotley got tired of it, especially as he is interested with his brother in contracting for rock road and street work. Then, too, the confinement of the store is causing Knotley to walk away and he thinks that he needs more outdoor work.

Loyal has been employed in the store for the past four years, and has made good. He has many friends among the patrons of the store, and those who have traded with him as a clerk, will undoubtedly trade with him as proprietor. He knows the business, is courteous and obliging, and will endeavor to continue to please his customers.

While his new line of business will call him away from home more or less, Mr. Tansel's home will remain in Pittsboro, and here his best interests will be, as in the past. He expects to leave the last of the week for Rockford, where his brother is at work on a contract at this time. The Sun expresses the wish of his many friends for his continued success and prosperity.

At the same time that we speed the parting, the Sun takes pleasure in welcoming Mr. Schenck into the bright galaxy of Pittsboro's business men. Young men with hustle, with ideas and courage are needed in every town, and we hope that he will be found on the right side when it comes to building up the town.

Rey Davidson directs us to send the Sun to him at New Market.

Just Thinks

God of our Fathers, known of old,
Lord of our far-famed battle line, Beneath whose awful hand we hold Dominion over pain and pine:
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet.
Lest we forget, lest we forget!

A nation is great just so long as its memory holds. When people forget the great deeds of their nation's past and the ideal which led to the performance of those deeds, the death of that nation is at hand.

Napoleon said that sentiment rules the world. It does. Wherefore it behoves us to labor to keep the right sentiments dominant in American hearts to the end that our nation may be rightly and wisely governed.

Hence, our national holidays. They are very few. Two birthdays, one independence day, one day for trees, one for solemn prayer and thanksgiving to the Omnipotent who has prospered us, and one day for calling to mind the sufferings and toils of our patriot dead.

A Frenchman, a German, a Russian, a Scandinavian or a Turk will enjoy our independence day celebration. But unless you are an American, you'll not join in the spirit of our Memorial day observance.

Horse races, auto races, baseball games, prize fights and booze brawls are hardly manifestations of the sentiment which, if dominant in America, insure a continuance of healthy national life.

Just as statistics show that the majority of Americans today have no religious affiliations at all, so indications show that Americans today are losing sight of the ancient landmarks which have guided the nations from Plymouth rock.

It does no good to rant or object. These are facts which we must face. And the biggest reason for this falling away from the traditions is the lack of definite patriotic instruction in the schools and the homes. There is a cynical and open disregard for law among all classes in this country. The lowest class usually fears the law, and breaks it. The highest—or richest—class usually laughs at the law, and breaks it. And now this disregard for law has permeated all classes. Deny it if you will. Denials do not change facts.

We need a patriotic revival. We need to learn to say MY county—and feel a proprietary interest and responsibility in the whole country. We need to learn that incompetent and untrustworthy legislators, venal judges and corrupt administrators are exploiting this country in all of its governmental phases for their own profit, as though they marks, because we are not acting by the plumb when public affairs are being handled. "Undesirable citizens" will apply to a whole lot of us—and to a goodly bunch who are too all-fired good to mix in politics..

Now, Let Us Suppose

Suppose that cloud was an air ship, and it should swoop suddenly down from the sky and pick you up and carry you away, and then, after a day of marvelously swift flight, should set you down on a beautiful isle of the Pacific, out of the path of steamships, inhabited by a race of intelligence but lacking development, and you found yourself with the job of king, what would you do?

The island might be big or it might be small. It might be rich in resources or it might be poor. These things would make little or no difference with your job. You'd have a task before you, a man's size job.

Could you fill it?

Would you have the "bratiss" and backbone, the large heart and the calm judgment to make good on such a job?

Would your reign be one of peace and development? Or would it be filled with bickerings and jealousies, with rows and fights, with stagnation and disappointments?

And this is not a bit of idle, empty speculation:

Every American is born to kingship. It is your right to rule. The majority of us submit to the rule of others. My boy, are you going to be one of the rulers or one of the ruled?

"Noblesse oblige" is an expression that comes to us from the old world royalty. Every prince of the royal house of America—your house and my house and the other fellow's house—should learn the meaning of this expression and let it regulate his life. For in this country each man is king and should be trained to fill his kingly station.

Suppose all our children were so trained—the next generation would see the coming of the millennium in this country. As in the brave days of old, all would be for the state, all would be like brothers.

Will Pay Respects to Legislature

Gregory Walden expects to attend the June meeting of (Indiana Associated Weeklies). He is the fellow who is now finding the destinies of the Pittsboro Sun. WILL CARE FOR BIG CROWD

CAPT. WM. P. CARPENTER, I. N. G.

There is one man upon whose shoulders a lot of responsibility will rest during the third annual 500-mile International Sweepstakes Race, which will be held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30. This is Captain William P. Carpenter, director of public safety. Captain Carpenter has under his command 350 trained soldiers who constitute the organization known as the Speedway Guards, and which in its efficiency is equal to the famous Jefferson Guards of the St. Louis Exposition. Captain Carpenter is an active military man, being commissary-captain of the Second Regiment, Indiana National Guards. He has had fifteen years military experience in all grades from private to captain. Ever since the Indianapolis Motor Speedway was opened he has headed the policing system, and the trained men under his command are conceded to form the most efficient private police organization in the world. Only men who have had active military service and who know the meaning of discipline and obeying orders are permitted to enlist. The Speedway has complete military equipment for its organization, and law violators long ago learned that it is unsafe to operate within the jurisdiction of these soldier policemen.

They will be on duty from early morning, spending the night previous to the race in camp at the Speedway grounds. Capt. Carpenter will be assisted by a detachment of commissioned officers who know how to handle men systematically.

WILL PILOT ENGLISH CAR

ALBERT GUYOT.

Albert Guyot, who will drive the English Sunbeam in the third annual 500-mile International Sweepstakes Race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30, is one of the old school of French drivers. In 1908 he won the light car class of the French Grand Prix, and the following year finished fourth in the three litre race at Boulogne. He has won hundreds of medals and trophies and is noted for his cool headed, scientific driving, as well as for his daring. He is distinguished among French racing drivers, for he is also an aeroplane pilot, holding the license of the Aero Club of France. But not content with these honors, he has also figured prominently in the motor boat races at Monaco. Guyot is now in England testing his Sunbeam car at the Brooklands track. He expects to come to America early in May, and will practice for several weeks at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, to make her home with them.

A burning chicken coop called the volunteers to Oscar McConnaugh's, Wednesday forenoon. No damage, though some of the boys lost their wind.

Millard McClung lost a nice two-year-old filly last Friday. In some way, the colt broke her leg while running in the pasture, and had to be killed.

Work is progressing finely on the new schoolhouse. Contractors Pickett & Hauk have a good crew of brick layers at work. The outside foundation walls are up to grade line, and the foundation cross walls are almost there.

It being a part of the Northeast Quarter of the Northeast Quarter of Section Six, fractional, Township Sixteen, North, Range One East, in Middle Township, Hendricks County, Indiana.

Also the one-story frame building situated thereon; also all outhouses except new closet on East side of said real estate; the coal house situated on the West side of said real estate will be sold, but is reserved until such time as the new building is ready for the furniture, said furniture being stored in said coal house at this time. The party or parties buying the real estate is not buying the rubbish of the brick building or the stone foundation of said brick building being wrecked at this time.

The party or parties who buy the real estate above mentioned shall give the said Pickett & Hauk and all other parties buying buildings on said real estate, 30 days from date of sale to remove all buildings, building material and rubbish from said real estate mentioned above.

John F. Keeney

John F. Keeney was born in Montgomery county, Indiana, August 9, 1832, and died May 21, 1913, aged 80 years, 9 months and 12 days. He was the son of John H. and Mary Cruzan Keeney. December 22, 1852, he was united in marriage with Matilda Leach.

It was over 50 years ago that Mr. Keeney came to Hendricks county and settled on the farm where he lived to the end. Out in the woods he built his log house, and there his children were born. A frame house replaced the log dwelling in course of time, and this was later replaced by the newer residence built by his grandson, George F. Money.

In February, 1858, Mr. Keeney became a member of the regular Baptist church, in which denomination he was later ordained as a minister.

Two sons and four daughters and his aged wife survive him: John W. and Enos B. Keeney; Mrs. Emily A. VanArsdall, Mrs. Sarah M. Schenck, Mrs. Julie Overstreet, and Mrs. Lucinda E. King.

Funeral services were held from the home Thursday afternoon at one o'clock, conducted by Rev. Geo. Joseph of Shannondale, with interment in White Lick cemetery. A large attendance of neighbors and friends testified to the high esteem in which Mr. Keeney was held by those who knew him the best.

Card of Thanks

To our neighbors and friends who rendered such loyal assistance, ready sympathy and comfort in our time of sorrow, we extend our sincere thanks. In many ways you showed your love and esteem for him who has left us, and in so doing have brought us all closer in the bonds of friendship.

VETERAN WILL BE IN GRIND

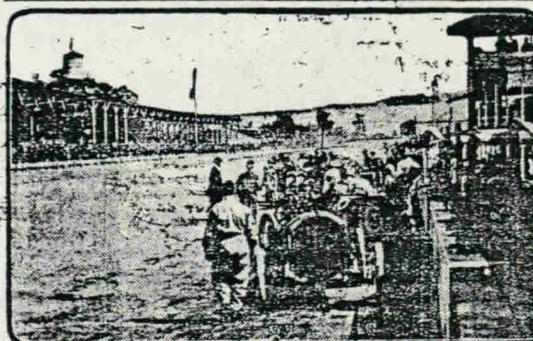

JOHNNY JENKINS.

Johnny Jenkins, who has driven race cars all over the United States and Europe, has made formal entry of a Schacht car in the third annual 500-mile International Sweepstakes Race, which will be staged at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30. Jenkins will drive the car himself and is now testing it out at the Indianapolis track. This car, which was piloted in the race on May 30 last year by "Bill" Endicott and his brother Harry, has been completely rebuilt under Jenkins' supervision, and the veteran driver expects it to show far better speed than it did at that time. As it was, Harry Endicott, who will participate in this year's race as the pilot of a Nyberg car, was given credit for winning fifth place with the Schacht. Johnny Jenkins began his race career in Europe many years ago when he associated himself with Venus, a noted Italian driver. He holds many records on both sides of the Atlantic, and has established himself as a favorite in every race in which he has taken part. Before taking up his career as a race driver he was a professional jujitsu, his last ring affair being a four-round draw with "Jimmy" Britt, at Oakland, California.

Strange Curiosities of Pain.
Pain sometimes behaves in a curious fashion. There was a soldier after the Boer war, who complained of excruciating neuralgic pains in his right foot. This very much annoyed his friends, for he had lost his right leg. The explanation was that the pain happened to be in the trunks of those nerves, which had been branched to the foot. The other day, a patient went to a doctor complaining of pain in the knee, and he was greatly surprised when the doctor told him that the site of the affection is not the knee but the hip. We are all familiar with the pain under the shoulder blade which comes from an afflicted liver. The stomach, too, can produce pain in many parts of the body. A disordered stomach will give us pain as far away as the head, and, when one gets a cramp in his toe, it is often due to acidity of the stomach. Swallow a pinch of bicarbonate of soda and the cramp will disappear. An aching tooth will produce neuralgic pains in the face, and very often a violent pain at the back of the head is due to the faraway kidneys, which themselves may suffer no pain at the time.

ALL IS BUSINESS AT THE PITS

A GLIMPSE OF THE PITS, INDIANAPOLIS SPEEDWAY

While the eyes of the public are naturally turned upon the drivers who will participate in the third annual 500-mile International Sweepstakes race which will be held at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30, there are other men who have their share of the work to do and upon whom the driver is largely dependent for his success. These are "the men at the pits," those expert workmen, who are able to make the most complicated repairs on a car in a miraculously short time. Every car must have its pit-men, and these men must work with the speed of lightning and the precision of machinery. When a car is compelled to come to the pits for repairs or tire changes, seconds are precious, and every man must know exactly what to do and when to do it. For the spectators, this pit work is as interesting and as exciting as the contest itself.

Jules Guyot and Paul Zuccarrelli, the Frenchmen who will compose the Peugeot team will be accompanied to this country by a large force of mechanics and repair men, who have secured their training in the Peugeot factory in Paris. So vitally important do the foreigners consider their pit work, that these men are kept in constant practice, and even when they are not engaged in racing they are forced to have "pit drill" almost daily.

Albert Guyot, the driver of the English Sunbeam car, is also a Frenchman, but his working force will be composed of men from the Sunbeam factory, which is located at Wolverhampton, England. They are a cosmopolitan lot, among them being a German, two Italians, an Irishman,

Care of the Draft Horse

Following are the drivers' rules of the Boston Work Horse Parade association:

1. Start at a walk and let your horse work very easily for the first half hour.
2. A heavy draft horse should never be driven faster than a walk, with or without a load.
3. Look to your harness. Avoid these faults especially:
 - Bridle too long or too short.
 - Blinders pressing on the eyes or flapping.
 - Throat latch too tight.
 - Collar too tight or too loose.
 - Traces too long.
 - Breaching too low down or too loose.
4. Drive your horse all the time. Feel his mouth gently. Never jerk them in.
5. Take the horse out of the shafts as much as possible; and if you drive a pair of four, unfasten the outside traces while the horses are standing. They will rest better that way.
6. Teach your horses to go into the collar gradually. When a load is to be started, speak to the horses and take a firm hold on the reins so that they will arch their necks, keep their legs under them and step on their toes.
7. Water your horse as often as possible. Water in moderate quantities will not hurt him so long as he keeps moving.

8. Blanket your horse carefully when he stands, especially if he is at all hot. Repeated slight chills stiffen and age a horse before his time.
9. Bring your horse in cool and breathing easily. If he comes in hot he will sweat in the stable, and the sudden stopping of hard work is bad for his feet.

10. In hot weather or in drawing heavy loads, watch your horse's breathing. If he breathes hard, or short and quick, it is time to stop.
11. Remember that the horse is the most nervous of all animals, and that little things annoy and irritate him. Remember that he will be contented or miserable according as you treat him.

LOOKS LIKE A NEW RAILROAD PROJECT

Surveyors Working in Northeast Part of County Laying Out Right-of-Way

— May be the Pennsy

Is northern Hendricks and southern Boone counties to have another railroad?

A surveying party is at work now running a line from Clermont north west through Lincoln and Brown townships, through Fayette and Brunswick, just missing the northeast corner of Middle township, and apparently bearing away to the northwest.

They are running lines apparently for a right-of-way, and are working with all possible expedition.

The men in the party are most obliging and will answer questions freely.

For instance, if you ask them if it is to be a railroad, they answer that they believe it is. If you ask if it is to be a traction line, they believe that is what it is to be.

Between the two lines of the Big Four that run, the one through Lebanon and the other through Crawfordsville and Pittsboro, there is quite a wide strip of country, and the farther west we go, the wider this strip becomes. It is crossed by occasional lines running approximately north and south, but that means transfers to reach from that section into Indianapolis or to Chicago.

Further, this is some mighty rich country, which the railroads have thus far failed to tap, and it is reasonable to suppose that the present survey is for the purpose of determining the feasibility of opening up this country with a northwest-south east line.

Older residents of the county will remember that before the I. B. & W. line was built through here, now the Big Four, there was a survey run over much the same territory now being covered, but nothing ever came of that early survey.

Just as we go to press we learn that the survey is being made by Pennsylvania lines, the object being to dodge towns and cities and so secure a fast short line to Chicago.

OLIVER-WATERS NUPTIALS CELEBRATED WEDNESDAY EVE

Wednesday evening at eight o'clock, Miss Ivy Beulah Waters became the bride of Mr. Charles Ellsworth Oliver, Rev. U. G. Leazenby of Crawfordsville officiating. The ceremony took place in the new home of the young people, in the presence of a small number of relatives and friends.

Promptly at eight o'clock, Mr. Forrest Ellis, cousin of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly" in a most pleasing manner. Mr. James Bonney, uncle of the bride, played the Lohengrin Wedding March, to whose strains the bridal party entered the room.

Two little misses, Hazel Watts and Marian Peterson, carried the streamers of white satin ribbon, which formed the aisle through which the party passed.

Rev. Leazenby entered and passed to his position in the large bay window. Mr. Oliver and his best man, Mr. Horace Waters, of North Salem, followed and took their positions. Miss Neillie Button of Brownsburg, bridesmaid, preceded the bride, who entered upon the arm of her father. The ring ceremony was used, the bride being given away by her father.

Congratulations were heartily showered upon Mr. and Mrs. Oliver by relatives and friends present. Many useful and beautiful gifts were brought, tokens of love and esteem in which the young people are held.

Iced refreshments were served with angel food, and many a bite of the wedding cake was carried home for the dream charm.

The bride was daintily gowned in embroidered voile, her veil caught with lilies of the valley, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The bridesmaid wore French batiste embroidered with pink roses.

Crimson rambler roses and daisies were used effectively in the decoration of the home.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver departed on the 10 o'clock car for a honeymoon

How the Corner Stone Will be Laid—The Order of Exercises

ATTENTION, CHILDREN!

The committee invites every public school pupil in Middle township to the exercises at the laying of the corner stone of the new school house, Saturday afternoon.

We want you to meet on the lawn of the old school house promptly at 1:30, form in line and march with us to the new school house. Please come.

trip of a week, but just where no one but happy Charlie can say. A shower of rice set them on their way rejoicing.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Waters, and is a popular and highly-accomplished young lady. The groom is the son of Mr. L. P. Oliver, is agent of the Big Four railroad and is a general favorite among the men folks in town. Both are popular members of the younger set of Pittsboro, and the Sun expresses the sentiment of all in wishing them the blessings of health, happiness and prosperity through life.

Among the guests present from a distance were: Miss Isabel Hughes and Mr. Ogg of Greenfield, G. H. Beitzell of Brownsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Smith of Jamestown, Mrs. S. S. Waters and daughter Mary Alice of North Salem and Miss Marie Burns of Indianapolis.

On her own grounds, Brownsburg demonstrated her superiority Sunday by defeating North Salem by a score of 11 to 4. Brownsburg ought to take on the A. B. C's. The other teams are wallop them pretty regularly.

Mrs. Stanley Biggs returned to her home at West Lebanon, Tuesday. Her father, Luke Dillon, of Hillsboro, Ky., her nieces, Julia Dillon and Frances Weaver, and her nephew, Marvin Weaver, accompanied her for a short visit.

Arrangements for the laying of the cornerstone of Middle township's fine new school house are practically completed.

The program of the day is as follows:

1:00 p. m. Pittsboro Lodge, F. & A. M., will meet in the lodge room.

INDIANA ASSOCIATED WEEKLIES
THE CONCERN OF ALL

Just Thinks

The notice of sale of land by C. A. Weaver as commissioner, was published by the Danville Gazette. And this after Mr. Weaver had instructed his attorney, "Col." Geo. C. Harvey, to send the notice to the sun. We merely wish to give all the publicity possible to Mr. Harvey in his laudable endeavors to feed the hungry county seat publishers. Also, our friends may know now NOT to have their legal published in their home paper.

Since the present management has been in control of the Pittsboro Sun, we have published just two legal notices, of which proofs of publication are required at the county seat. In both cases, the proof was mailed promptly after the final publication of the notice. If Clerk Edwards denies this, we will proceed to make him back up on his denial. Yet the county seat gang, made up of officers elected from Hendricks county at large, are using their offices for the purpose of feeding the publishers at the county seat, and excuse themselves by saying that proofs are delayed by the outside publishers. Bob! The former head of this government had a society that would hold them, fine.

Well, it is some satisfaction to know that the regular advertising of our local stores is not controlled by the county seat gang. If it was, we'd hunt the long grass pretty pronto.

The United States possesses, at a conservative estimate, five times as many lawyers and ten times as many judges as are needed. And this precious gang must live. Hence the slowness of American courts, which are a jest and a byword in every other civilized country. The litigant with the longest purse wins out here, because the lawyer-made system makes delays and appeals a matter of being able to pay the expenses, and it is almost impossible to end a case as long as either party has the cash to fight.

This thing of being robbed of our just business by a bum legislature and a lawyer who disregards his client's wishes, is getting on our nerves. But we feel much better now.

The Night of Little Things

"No," remarked the traveler returned from Africa, "it was not the lions nor the rhinos that we dreaded; but the little gnats, mosquitoes and tse-tse flies." Nearly everywhere it is the little things that count for good or ill. All the strength of the sky scraper is in the little rivets that hold its parts together. The big, fighting bull that could whip a bear or lion easily enough, has to be held in place by a tiny wire.

The little annoyances of life rob it of joy and of profit as well. Many of these annoyances we need not long suffer. Accustomed to them, we do not awaken to the fact that we can end them easily enough. Why longer tolerate that mudhole by your front gate? Why continue to drive over that great stone in the road? Why do longer without a safe, strong door to the stable? Look around you and see how many of the annoying things you can end by simply rising up and abolishing them. It is in attention to little things that come success. Farming is endlessly a matter of detail. We know a man who had no time to repair a broken corncrib door. Life is short and, at best, full of troubles. Let us see how many of the annoying things about the farm we can rise up this spring and abolish forever.—Breeders' Gazette.

Last week's Sun contained an article by Rev. F. J. Milnes on the question of providing proper entertainment and means of recreation for the young people. If you didn't read it, look up your copy of the Sun and read it. It touches a matter of vital importance to every rural community such as ours: the question of how to keep the young people at home.

Some of the old married men, who run papers in Hendricks county, have been commenting recently on the immoral dress of women of this age. Recently, while in the city, we noticed a number of young girls in their early teens, evidently, who were dolled up like variety actresses, and with faces that looked like that well known paint advertisement: "It covers the earth." If we were to say off-hand who is to blame for the manifest foolishness of these poor children, we'd say their mothers.

We would suggest, gently and in all humbleness, that Joe Bell confine his activities to his campaign for the mayoralty of Indianapolis, and leave the selection of diplomats to President Wilson. We are convinced that the President is better fitted for the task than is Mr. Bell.

Next week's Sun will contain another vital article on the subject of amusement for the young people of the small town and rural community. We want every member of the Sun family to read this article and ponder it carefully. It is worthwhile. Also, it is readable and filled with common horse sense.

in Pittsboro,

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Dillon in the west part of town was the scene of a reunion that was a reunion. The Dillon family is some family, both in numbers and the size of its members. So when they all got together at Ed's, the place was pretty nearly full to overflowing.

The gathering was in honor of Mr. Luke Dillon, head of the family, whose seventy-first birthday was Monday, June 16.

The party was jolly, made up as it was of relatives and close friends, so there were no dull minutes. Sociability was the order of the day, and all obeyed the order. There was music of various kinds and readings to help in the entertainment of the guests, but the talk of old times was easily the best part of the day.

Naturally, as the party was held in the best part of Indiana, there was an abundance of good things to eat. Also, there were the appetites to do justice to the good things provided. Mr. and Mrs. Dillon are royal hosts, and the family will not soon forget the reunion held at their home.

Among those present, the Sun noted the following: Luke Dillon of Hillsboro, Ky., father of Ed; Mrs. Stanley Biggs of West Lebanon, sister; Mr. and Mrs. Guy Dunnington and Mrs. Oscar Pavay, and Thomas Dillon of Indianapolis, the ladies being sisters; Mrs. William Leachman and daughter of Liston, sister; Miss Millie Dillon of Newcastle; Samuel Ashby and son Sam of Indianapolis; Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Dillon and daughter Ona, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Hale and daughter Mary, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ashby, Doc and Richard Dillon, William Ashby and family, Mrs. Susan Cundiff, Mrs. Bettie Sue Ridgway and son and daughter, Frank and Alice; Chester and Edgar Parker, L. Joe Hale is at present engaged in the arduous task of purchasing an automobile. Very soon we expect to see him riding around in a fine touring car.

The showers of Sunday afternoon and evening were highly appreciated. The parched vegetation was slightly revived, the baked earth cooled a little and the dust laid. We are hopeful that the showers may continue.

The church building is very beautiful in its new coat of paint. The surroundings have been nicely cleaned, a new cement walk and steps have been added, the interior newly decorated, including painting, papering and varnishing, and everything is in spick and span order. Sunday school and Christian Endeavor are held every Sunday morning and preaching every 4th Sunday by the pastor, Rev. Hendershot of Crawfordsville. Preaching services were conducted last Saturday night and Sunday by a visiting minister, Rev. Edwards of Taylorsville. On account of sickness, the Children's meeting has been postponed.

been to arrange a program which will be impressive and interesting and yet not at all tiresome. The ritual service for the occasion is simple, beautiful and impressive. In Grand Secretary Prather, the Grand Lodge will be represented by a man who is eminently fitted to represent the governing body of this great order in Indiana. His selection in lieu of the Grand Master, who found it impossible to attend, is very pleasing to all who are acquainted with him and know his ability.

Dr. Geo. McIntosh as Speaker

For speaker of the day, the committee feel real pride in presenting Dr. George McIntosh, the able and scholarly head of Wabash college. He is an educator of high rank, and is eminently qualified to speak to us on this occasion. Education is the vital spark which keeps free government alive, and our efforts along educational lines are becoming more and more intelligent every year. Dr. McIntosh will have a message that will hold the attention of all, both young and old.

50 Newsboys Furnish Music

The music will be furnished by the Indianapolis News Newsboys' band, an organization the equal of any in the state.

The boys come here 50 strong, and their music during the exercises and at the evening concert will be a feature worth coming miles to enjoy.

Who Owns the School House?

This school house belongs to Middle township, and so Pittsboro Lodge feels that it is merely acting as agent for the people of the township in arranging for these exercises and ceremonies. It's our school house—let us have it out and see how it goes. In gresssing, see that the corner stone is laid in a workmanlike manner.

Trustee Dillon's Part

Trustee R. L. Dillon and the advisory board, Messrs. David Surber, George Money and Dr. G. O. T. Scamahorn, will occupy the doctor's auto in the line of march from the old to the new. The place of honor is merited by Trustee Dillon and his associates.

Historical Deposits for Corner Stone

A small sealed casket will be placed in the cornerstone, containing various matters which we hope will be of interest to posterity when the stone is opened. A historical sketch of Middle township and Pittsboro is being prepared by Uncle George Junken. Other deposits will be received by Mr. Hicks at the furniture store, at the Sun office, or by other members of the committee or the lodge secretary, A. A. Surber.

It is suggested that these be prepared as much as possible in the form of sealed letters, labeled with the name of the person depositing them. A facsimile 10-dollar bill, as issued by the Confederacy during the war, is in one deposit already received. New buffalo nickels and Lincoln pennies will also be placed in the stone, as showing the coinage of this date.

Lizton News Items

The team belonging to the Lizton Hardware company, Monday afternoon became frightened at the traction hauling outfit and became unmanageable, running south from the Big Four depot to the state road and thence west to the bridge, where they, plunged over an embankment and were caught. Harry McCullough, little son of the P. & E. section foreman, of this place, was on the wagon at the time and showed remarkable presence of mind by grasping the reins and trying to hold the animals. He was thrown from the wagon sustaining a few bruises and a long gash on the side of his face. Dr. Hendricks attended his injuries, three stitches being necessary to close the wound. With the exception of breaking the tongue from the wagon, no other damage was done.

DESCRIPTION OF The Olsén School Wagon — IN DETAIL —

We are the originators of the consolidated school wagon and placed on market the first improved wagons that were ever built for this purpose. All the rest have fallen in behind, where they still remain, and are imitators of the original and genuine "Olsén School Wagon."

As a proof for what we claim for the Olsén wagon, we have more wagons in use than all other "makes" put together, and have the endorsement from School and Health Boards, Superintendents and Trustees from Maine to Texas.

All of our frame work is made from second growth ash, while the side and end panels are made from thoroughly seasoned yellow poplar, glued and screwed. No. 1. Body, 9 feet long, 50 inches wide from out to out; lower panel 13 inches x 4 inches. These panels are held in position by five body irons on each side 1 x 6-16, which run from sills to the top edge of the top panel, there being six bolts in each iron.

The floors are laid with 2 x 3 inch tongue and grooved hardwood. Each body is built with side panels holding a double strength glass 12 inches x 20 inches, also 12 inches x 20 inch sash in front and rear doors.

The front sash is made to drop for convenience of driver and for ventilation. In addition to this large amount of lighting space, there are four 8 x 12 inches, two in front and two in the rear, one being placed on each side of front and rear doors.

The seats are 13 inches wide and 15 inches high, making a comfortable seat for school pupils, three inches wider than some competitors' seats.

The description of Nos. 2 and 3 bodies are the same as No. 1, only the No. 2 body being 10 feet long and the No. 3 being 12 feet long.

GEAR—Full platform front and rear, 3 boisters 1 1/2 inches thick in front with heavy circle iron and one bolster in rear. The step is very substantial, it being made from 1 1/2 x 4 inch irons and boards 24 x 12 x 1 inches. The No. 1 gear is fitted with 1 1/2 inch coched axles; tires 14 x 4 inches; springs, 14 inches, 6 and 6 ribbed plate. No. 2 gear is fitted with 1 1/2 inch coched axles; tires 13 x 4 inches; axles, 13 inches, 6 and 6 ribbed plate. No. 3 gear is fitted with 1 1/2 inch coched axles; tires, 13 x 4 inches; springs, 13 inches, 6 and 7 ribbed plate.

The No. 1 wagon can be fitted with shafts, and is light enough so that one horse can pull it anywhere and will only cost $5.00 extra.

BRAKES—$8.00 extra.
WHEELS—Selected hickory, extra heavy. Savent patent 14 inch, corrugated hub on No. 1 gear; 18 inch on No. 2 gear; 14 inch on No. 3 gear.

A 2-inch felloe and tire can be furnished on any size wagon at an additional charge of $6.00.

PAINTING—Our wagons are painted by masters of the painters' trade and by the oil and lead system, which cannot be surpassed for appearance and durability. The gears are painted yellow, neatly striped in black, while the bodies are painted in dark red, striped and lettered in aluminum. We place the name of School, Townships or Parish on wagons free of charge.

UPHOLSTERING—Backs and seats along sides are well stuffed, lined with cotton, and covered with a heavy imitation leather, making a cushion and back that are comfortable and will not break down. Side curtains are made from 28 oz. green back rubber duck with two rows of curtain eyelets.

TOP—The top is made solid with 1 inch double beaded ceiling, covered with 32-oz. enameled duck. Porch extends 15 inches in front and 5 inches in rear.

TRACK—Narrow (4 feet 8 inches), or wide (5 feet 2 inches).

History of the Pittsboro School.

The history of the Pittsboro School, district No. 6 of Middle Township dating from the year 1913 to the present time is as follows:

In the spring of 1913 under the supervision of R. L. Shillor, trustee, the erection of a new building was begun. The building was not completed until December of that year.

Owing to the fact that the new building was not completed at the beginning of the school year the High School was started in a building that had formerly been used for school purposes.

School opened in the month of December 1913 in the new building with J. W. Westerfield as Principal. He was the first Principal to require an assistant. Miss Edith M. Clung was chosen. The enrollment in the High School at that time was 27 consisting of 2 Seniors, 4 Juniors, 5 Sophomores, and 16 Freshmen. Four teachers were employed in the grades.

In the fall of 1914 the school opened with a larger attendance. Two more teachers were added to the faculty. The number of graduates was four.

Again with an increase in attendance school opened in the fall of 1915 with J.W. Websterfield Principal. The number of graduates was four.

In the spring of 1916 the Pittsburgh High School was Commissioned. Chas C. Patterson was trustee at that time.

In the fall of 1916 school opened with Atha Nichols - Principal. The attendance having increased so much that another teacher was added to the faculty, thus increasing the members of the High School faculty to five.

The number of graduates was ten, the largest graduating class in the history of the Pittsboro School.

The school opened the next fall, 1917, with a much larger attendance. It was found necessary to add another teacher to the grades, thus increasing the faculty of the Pittsboro School to ten members. The number of graduates was seven.

School began in the fall of 1918 with an increased attendance over the previous year. However, the graduating class was smaller than the few previous years, the number being only six. This being the last year of the World War some of the members of the class had answered the call to service for their country.

The School year of 1919-1920 began with C. M. Spdell as Principal. The attendance in both the grades and the High School was much larger than the year before.

During the year of 1919-1920 a splendid gymnasium was added to the school, which has added much enthusiasm and school spirit to the school and community.

With S. B. Essig as Principal school opened in the fall of 1920, with the largest attendance in the history of the school. The attendance of both the High School and the grades being over 300 children. The enrollment in the High School was eighty-seven. The number of graduates was twelve, the largest class that has ever graduated from the Pittsboro School.

Due to the overcrowded condition of the school the High School Inspector has advised that a new High School building be erected and as a result a magnificent building is being built under the direction of Ira O. Hale as trustee.

Up and Out

Inevitable headlines for an increase in wages continue to be made from time to time, but we fear the people who make them do not stop to count the ultimate cost of their demands.

Wages and salaries in this country are high now—very high.

This fact, coupled with the excessive cost of raw material makes the production of a finished article a very expensive proposition.

Regardless of this expense, we find a large foreign trade, because other countries just now must have our goods.

But some day—not far hence—Europe will be recovering from the war paralytic, her internal affairs will become adjusted, and she will be producing these same articles herself. The cost of labor there will be much less than here, and raw materials will probably cost no more.

When that time comes Europe will produce these articles at a cost far below ours, and the rest of the world will buy where they can get the goods at the lowest prices.

Then what will become of our intensive foreign trade?

Before trying to boost labor and other costs still higher it might be well to think of the after effects.

It is quite possible to go up in price and out of a job.

Readjustment

Our era of extravagant buying is about over, and its effect is beginning to be felt.

There is a slow but certain tendency toward a decline in prices, with the prospect that another year may witness a material reduction in the cost of living.

But anything like a sudden drop in all lines is not to be expected. It is rather to be avoided, as it might bring our whole commercial fabric tumbling about our ears in the greatest panic in history. And no sane person wants a panic.

Before there can be any great decline there must first be an adjustment in the cost of labor, as well as materials, and it is difficult to conceive the laboring man voluntarily surrendering a portion of his wage.

That will be the greatest obstacle of all to surmount, and only in the exercise of time and infinite patience can satisfactory results be produced.

"The Passing Show of 1919." Coming direct to Indianapolis from a triumphant all-summer run at the Garrick Theatre, Chicago, the colossal Winter Garden Revue, "The Passing Show of 1919" will hold the boards of the Shubert Murat Theatre for a limited engagement beginning Monday October 4th. There will be matinees on Wednesday and Saturday only. A mighty army of merry-makers a galaxy of glorious girls gowned in rainbow raiment, and a succession of gorgeous stage pictures unite to make the "Passing Show of 1919" the most attractive in the series of world-famous productions shown at the Fabled Garden. The New York World in commenting on this mighty spectacle declared that "it eclipsed all its predecessors in magniture and magnificence." And the entire metropolitan press concurred in this opinion.

In Chicago this verdict was again endorsed, and the public set its seal of approval upon the attraction by thronging the theatre at every performance.

"Some idea of the stunning nature of "The Passing Show of 1919" may be gleaned from a brief enumeration of the diverse scene disclosed. Opening on Mount Olympus, where the Gods of old are sympathizing with the mortals of today who are deprived of their wine, the spectator is then transported to the Canadian border line where the inevitable bootlegging and blind pig follow in the wake of prohibition. Ancient Salem in the days of witchcraft; Florence, the home of "The Jest", a Love Boat in China; the Kitchen of King Solomon, and then the Throne Room of that wise potentate in all his glory; a water lily pond in full bloom; the mystic Road to Destiny; and finally an up-to-date ball room are among the myriad of exquisite scenes that dazzle the eyes, and beguile the senses of the audience. Needless to say that all of these scenes overflow with femininity girls abounding throughout, and dominating every stage picture from the rise to the fall of the curtain. As for fun and hilarious comedy "The Passing Show of 1919" has never been equalled by its predecessors. There is one screaming uproarious funny scene where a modern Doctor an alleged exponent of Psycho-Analysis puts a Yiddish patient through the third degree. The artistic end of the "Jest" in which the Barrymores created such a sensation in New York last year.

After lighting her oil stove to prepare the noonday meal, Tuesday Mrs. Joe May then stepped outside the house for a minute. In a very short time she heard an explosion and saw smoke rolling out of the door.

She rushed back into the room to find that the stove had exploded and that the house was on fire. Neighbors quickly gathered and extinguished it before any great damage was done.

The stove, however, was completely ruined.

Fire at Brownsburg

During his absence last night the home of James Van on East Main Street, Brownsburg, caught fire and was burned to the ground.

The fire evidently originated about the kitchen fire, as when first noticed by neighbors the entire back part of the house was in flames.

A large crowd gathered but the fire had gained such headway that nothing could be done but remove some of the furniture from the front part of the house.

John M. Roseboom Dead.

"John M. Roseboom, eldest son of Gilbert and Lydia Roseboom was born in Ross County, Ohio, May 12, 1850, departed this life September 18, 1920, aged 70 years, 2 months and 6 days.

"He was first united in marriage to Mildred Longtin, 1876, to this union were born nine children, Pearl Marker, Jessie Smith, Vera Garber, Beniah Jones, Arthur E., Rolla A., Clyde R., John G., and Aaron who preceded his father in infancy. Besides these he leaves fourteen grandchildren and one great granddaughter.

"All were at his bedside at the time of his death. He had been a sufferer for eleven years but had been confined to his bed for three weeks. He bore his suffering so patiently never a murmur. He expressed himself that he would like to stay here with his family, but knowing his condition was ready to go when the summons came. He was a charter member of Corinth M. P. Church. Mrs. Roseboom being the only charter member now living of the church. He was a kind husband and a loving father, a good neighbor always ready to help any who were in need.

Services were conducted by Rev. Leesingwell of Jonestown, former pastor and Rev. Ginder, present pastor at Corinth church with interment at Greenlawn cemetery, Brownsville.

Those from a distance who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Dixie and Wm. Baker of Indianapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lingemier and son and Mrs. Enslinger and sons of Danville.

Will Speak at Brownsburg.

The people of this vicinity are to have a rare treat this evening at 7:30 when L. P. Patch, D. D., will deliver his famous "Summer Chautauquah Lecture" on "The Philosophy of Laughter or the Gospel of Sunshine" from the Brownsburg band stand.

Dr. Patch whose home is now in Aliquippa, Pennsylvania, was a resident of Brownsburg some thirty years ago, and when he decided to attend the G. A. R. Encampment at Indianapolis, of course began making plans to go to visit Brownsburg while in this section of the country.

He wrote to the postmaster a few weeks ago, making inquiry about some of his friends, and as a result of the correspondence following, it was arranged to have Dr. Patch speak. In his lecture he recites original poems and will sing his famous Yankee Song, all of which are spoken of very highly by some of the best authorities in America.

His old friends of course will be glad of this opportunity of again seeing and hearing Dr. Patch, and the younger generation will find it highly profitable to attend.

Home Coming.

The Mt. Tabor Regular Baptist Church in Fayette have set Sunday, October 3d as Home Coming day, and it is hoped that all of the members that can will be present. Roll of the membership will be called when each one will answer in person or by letter so as to know where all are and how they are getting along. Also a history of the church is being prepared and will be read at the proper time. The ex-pastors and other ministers have been invited to be with us at that time. Dinner will be served on the grounds for all that will come and all the members with all the friends of the church and all others are kindly invited to come and spend the day with us and help us to make it a day of spiritual up-lift to the church and community. Come with well-filled baskets.

"Little Blue Devil." Refreshing exercises under the guise of "The Little Blue Devil" with Mabel McCane as the featured player, make their entry at the Shubert-Murat Theatre, Indianapolis, Indiana, for one week beginning Monday, September 27th.

With Miss McCane comes a cast of many names known to theatre goers. Harry Puck, for instance, is new here except that some years ago he played in the varieties under the firm name of Harry and Eva Puck. His sister Eva is now one of the outstanding favorites in "frenes." In the "Little Blue Devil" Harry is the male imp which gives him an opportunity to dance sing and play the piano, all of which he does very well.

Wilbur Cox, known from "Three Showers" on Broadway, Frank Dawson, who played the villainous butler in "At 9:45," Alma Youlin, Eles Thomas, Julia Barnett, Merle Stevens, Edward Wakefield and George Phelps are among the notable members of the cast.

Joe Weber, the famous Joe who Lew Fields used to choke at the old music hall in New York, is the producer of the attraction which enjoyed a long run at the Central Theatre in Manhattan. He is bringing the original vaudeville chorus to Indianapolis. The girls are said to have natural hair, are young and somewhat innocent; this is their first step away from forty-seventh and Broadway.

"The Little Blue Devil" is on its way to Chicago where it opens at the Shubert-Garrick Theatre late in November. The history of this comedy is interesting. It first appeared some years ago as "The Blue Mouse" from the pen of the late Clyde Pitch. Last spring it was revived by Joe Weber who secured the services of Harry Carroll and Harold Atteridge to write music and adaptions. It first appeared with its new dress in Philadelphia and then went to New York. Mabel McCane was chosen for the title role some years ago, but her contracts in vaudeville theatres delayed producing the musical comedy. Songs were written especially for her. The story concerns an ambitious railroad secretary who seeks promotion by involving his chief, the railroad president in all sorts of tangles with an actress known as "the blue devil."

Reduction in Prices of Ford Products

The war is over and war prices must go. Effective at once, Ford cars, trucks and tractors will be sold F. O. B. Detroit at the following prices:

		OLD PRICE	NEW PRICE

Touring	without starter	$575	$440

Roadster	without starter	$550	$395

Sedan	with starter and demountable rims	$975	$795
Truck	with pneumatic tires	$640	$545
Fordson Tractor		$850	$790

The Ford Motor Co. makes this reduction in the face of the fact that they have on hand immediate orders for one hundred forty-six thousand sixty-five (146,065) cars and tractors. The company will suffer a temporary loss while using up the material bought at high prices. They are willing to make the sacrifice in order to bring business back to a going condition as quickly as possible and maintain the momentum of the buying power of the country. Henry Ford says: "The war is over and it is time war prices were over. There is no sense or wisdom in trying to maintain an artificial standard of values. For the best interests of all it is time a real practical effort was made to bring the business of the country and the life of the country down to regular pre-war standards." We are at your command with regular Ford efficiency in service and eagerness to fill your orders.

tion secretary. And then Miss Gaddis said the Demonstrator was expected to attend as many meetings as she could.

In the general talk, it developed that women's economic clubs and girls' clubs were functioning in the county prior to the coming of Miss Norton.
Crafton club in Washington township the Sugar Grove club reported they had girls' club work in several lines, many years ago.

a committee appointed some days ago to confer with Purdue in regard to the salary for the Home Demonstrator, reported that Purdue said that no Demonstrator was sent out for less than $2,600 including $200 expense fund.

The roll of the clubs was called for reports of club action upon the matter of pledging financial support for a Home Demonstrator for the year commencing July 1. Sixteen clubs announced that they had voted to support and four clubs had not so voted.
The clubs not supporting are the Center township club, the Middle township club, the Crafton club, the Economics section of the Plainfield Department club.

A motion was made that the county have a Home Demonstrator at a salary of $2,600 including expenses. Without discussion, the motion was carried on a standing vote.

The circumstances of this action will prove to be the source of much discussion in the future. Women who are opposed to it say that this vote was wholly illegal and is not binding on the Federation. Many women were present who hold no official relation to the organization. The women authorized to transact business, it is claimed, are chairmen of clubs, the township chairmen and the executive committee.
When the standing vote was taken, many women claim, the meeting then became a mass meeting and they argue that this mass meeting had no authority to bind the clubs of the county. Women who are opposed to the $2,600 appropriation, these women being largely those who believe that there should be a new Home Demonstrator, say that special effort was made to get a large attendance from those clubs known to be favorable to the appropriation. In plain language, they charge that the meeting was packed.

In the excitement, Mrs. J. H. Grimes shouted that she, who was to be appointed to the executive committee but had seconded was observed and the motion was not put to the vote.

Following the vote upon the motion to have a Home Demonstrator at a salary of $2,600 with expenses, representatives of the Center township club, the Middle township club, the Crafton club and the Economics section of the Plainfield Department Club announced that they would not contribute to the fund for a Demonstrator on that basis.
Crafton club has a handsome surplus in its treasury and there was such comment on the presence of Miss Gaddis that Mrs. Walter G. Hadley took the floor and defended Crafton with the statement that Crafton would spend its money as it desired. Five clubs announced pledges on the money in sums ranging from $25 to $50. In this connection, it is timely to say that El River township withdrew from the Federation some months ago.

With adjournment, the 11:30 meeting of the women who claimed they had been road-rolled talked events over and compared notes. They dwelt especially on the presence of Miss Gaddis and claimed that Purdue university through her had no right to take any part in the deliberations of Hendricks county women or to insist on how Hendricks county club women should spend their money. Miss Norton was complimented for not being at the meeting.

Some women believe now that with frankness on both sides, there probably would have been no friction. Women of both factions agree they similarly want the Home Demonstrator work to continue. The two factors entering into the controversy were the salary to be paid and the return of Miss Norton. It is now said that Miss Gaddis knew, Saturday, that Miss Norton would not be returned. Miss Gaddis is quoted as saying that she had three women in mind from whom to select for Hendricks county. Had Miss Gaddis so announced, Saturday, matters would have been smoother. Some women believe that clubs that refused to contribute might have reconsidered their action with such a statement from Miss Gaddis. As it was, there were those who thought the standing vote for $2,600 meant the certain return of Miss Norton.

DANVILLE-AMO LINE WILL SURE BE BUILT

Traction Officials Await Return of Normal Money Market.

That the T. L. & E. traction company proposes to build the Danville and Amo line, connecting at Amo with the Terre Haute line, is now known to be a fact.

A gentleman whose hand touches the company's right of way, recently went to the officials and asked for a lease of a portion of the company's ground.
Two officials told him the company would make no lease, that it was the intention to build the road when the business world settled a little more.
They informed him that the purpose in pushing the line was to get away from the present unsatisfactory entrance into Indianapolis which caused the loss of much time. All through and fast cars would be routed via Danville with the completion of the line.
This is exactly in keeping with the belief of many people in this country.
It is pointed out that multiplied thouands of dollars are now wrapped up in the seven miles between Danville and Amo. The grade is made and many arches and abutments are in. The extra cost to complete it in view of the advantages gained would be small.
The distance is seven miles.

It will be remembered that only a little "inside politics" prevented the building of this line some years ago.
Many of the poles were erected and the ties and steel were distributed.
Suddenly, there was a change and the material was removed.

COUR ROADS AND SCHOOLS TAKE MOST OF TAX MONEY

Local Government Costs Far More in Dollars and Cents.

Roads and education are running a close race with the taxpayers of Hendricks county with schools in the lead by a lap. In other words, of the $539,550.25 collected at the spring tax paying, $220,335.29 go for school purposes and $211,881.78 for roads, including bridge tax and street tax. In other words, practically three-fourths of the taxes go for schools and roads.
Those who complain of the tax law as the cause of increased taxes will have an impossible task to explain how the tax law increases the amount of money demanded for schools and roads.

Of the $539,550.25 collected, $62,595.
73 goes to the State in the various State funds. The county gets $129, 407.45 for all purposes. The townships and town corporations get $247,547.07 for all purposes. Thus it is shown that local government, townships and towns take the big end of tax money.

These figures were furnished by Deputy Auditor Patterson who has just completed his checking of the spring collection.

QUAKERS' BIG SUNDAY ALL THAT WAS EXPECTED

Day Was Great Event in History of Local Society.

The kind members of the Friends church and its popular pastor, Rev.
Mary M. Harold, had the honor and distinction Sunday, of conducting the largest and most enjoyable meeting of the kind ever held in Danville. It was an all-day affair with basket dinner at the noon hour that made it a great home coming and get-together meeting of Quakers from all over the country, as well as of many of their friends of other denominations. The auditorium Sunday school room and the spacious lawn outside were used to accommodate the big crowd. The block on West Broadway from Cross to Kentucky streets was roped off for the long table on which the tempting viands which Quaker housewives know so well how to prepare, were spread.
It is estimated that some 400 people were fed and there was ample for all.
Over 100 automobiles were counted parked in the near-by streets which would indicate that they must have carried something near 400 people.

Extra chairs were brought in and every inch of available space was occ-UPIED for both the morning and afternoon services.

Mr. Harold, the beloved pastor of the church must have realized that the large outpouring of people, while primarily in honor of the Master's cause, was, in a sense, also a tribute to herself for her services and sacifice while laboring in His vineyard.

Sunday evening at 7:30, the annual

The afternoon was given over to visiting speakers, all of whom had something pleasant to say of the good work that has been done here, preliminary to the subjects discussed. The history and origin of the Quaker denomination, as related by C. M. Hobbs, possessed much valuable historical interest, particularly to the younger generation. Albert J. Brown, recently returned from overseas, brought a deeply interesting and most touching message in regard to the part the Quaker denomination was having in the reconstruction and rehabilitation work in devastated France. Miss Gerrard Reinhard, who was to have lectured at night, was unable to come, and was deemed best to dispense with any night service.

George W. Wood, 703 S. Kentucky street says: "I haven't needed Doan's Kidney Pills for a long time, as I have been well and strong since they cured me of kidney trouble."

"I was so troubled. I was run down with the ailments. My back was lame and so sore, I could scarcely touch it. My kidneys acted much too often, both daily and nightly. After using three or four boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, which I bought at the Thompson Drug Co., I was a different person. I felt stronger and younger than I had for years."

(Statement given October 3, 1915.) On September 27, 1920, Mr. Wood added: "I will never go back on Doan's Kidney Pills for what they have done for me. Doan's put my kidneys in good condition and I have had very little trouble since."

CORNER-STONE

Pittsboro's New $70,000 High School Building to be Started Tomorrow

They are preparing for a big time at Pittsboro tomorrow when the cornerstone of the new High School building is to be laid.

The ceremony will be in charge of the Masonic order and Judge Orbison of Indianapolis will deliver the principal address. The Indianapolis Newsboys Band will furnish the music for the occasion and also render a band concert in the evening.

At two o'clock a grand parade is to be held, headed by the Band and followed by the school children, and members of all the fraternal orders of the town.

After marching to the building site the program, which includes music, singing and speeches will be carried out. Arrangements are being made to accommodate a record breaking crowd. Judge Orbison is far famed as a public speaker, the Masonic Ceremony is beautiful and inspiring, and the music is bound to be good—so it will be well worth your time to attend.

A.C. AYERS DIED MONDAY

Well-Known Business Man Buried
By Masons Here Wednesday.

Again the hand of death has descended into our midst and taken one of our business men—one who has for thirty years been active in our commercial, social, religious and political welfare—Albert C. Ayers.

Albert Carey Ayers was the son of Horatio W. and Susannah Ayers, and was born near Lawrence, Indiana, December 23rd, 1858, died June 24th, 1921, aged 62 years, 5 months and 22 days.

On March 19th, 1882 he was united in marriage to Ida Florence Coffman, to which union was born five children, Bertha, Kate, Eugene, Earl and Walter, all of whom survive. Ida Coffman Ayers died July 22nd, 1900.

As a young man Albert Ayers taught school, later going into the harness and implement business at this place. He was a conservative, industrious worker leaving a gap in our business circle which will long be felt.

On November 8th, 1901, he was married to Leovicia Perkins, who with their three sons, Frank, Fred and Hubert survive the husband.

He professed his faith in Christ and united with the Bethel Baptist Church, afterwards moving his membership to the Corinth Protestant Methodist Church and retained his membership with them until his death. He was an active worker in the local M. E. Church and Sunday School and has always lived a constant Christian life.

He was a member of the local Odd Fellow Lodge here before its dissolution, and one of the loyal few who still keep alive the charter of that splendid fraternal institution at this place.

He was also a member of Browning Lodge No. 241, Free and Accepted Masons, which aided and charmed the burial services.

Owing to the illness of his eldest daughter, who was not able to go to the church, the funeral services were conducted at the home on South Hill street, Wednesday afternoon, by Rev. L. C. Pricebott and Elder J. A. Fulton.

The local Masonic lodge assembled at their hall at one o'clock and marched in a body to the home and after the funeral service carried the remains.

Preceding the funeral procession to Greenhaw Cemetery, and encircling the newly-made grave, the impressive Masonic ritualistic burial service was in charge of Squire Kennedy of Danville.

The pall-bearers were Frank Lingeman, John Adams, I. D. Reynison, Will Corrie, Elmer Smith and Ben Coombs.

There was a profusion of beautiful flowers, and the local business houses closed during the funeral services, showing in a small degree the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

Beside the widow, two daughters: Mrs. C. F. Foster of Cleveland, Ohio and Mrs. Thomas Denver of Indianapolis; six sons: Eugene R. of South Bend, Ind., Walter C. of Detroit, Mich., Earl, Fred, Frank and Hubert of this city, he leaves six grandchildren and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn his demise.

Movies will be shown twice a week at the big outdoor movie "palace" on the camp grounds. The movies will be late releases and will furnish entertainment for the summer resorters in the vicinity as well as the boys.

Secretaries of the "Y" will aid in the athletic contests, and in getting the men in trim for meets. Most of the "Y" secretaries are experienced college athletes, so their advice and coaching will be a great aid.

Church services will be conducted in the "Y" hut as usual. Every Sunday morning a Roman Catholic priest will come out to conduct mass for all the Catholic boys and their friends and relatives who may be visiting camp. These services will be followed by Jewish services conducted by rabbis from Chicago. Then there will be Sunday School, followed by Protestant church services.

On Sunday evening there will be a big inspirational meeting in the "Y" hut. The boys will join in mass singing, and the old favorites will again be on the program. After singing to their hearts' content, the boys will hear an inspirational talk by some man of prominence.

"Keeping Fit" talks by Frank Sherwood will again be a feature. Mr. Sherwood, who is in the employ of the United States Health Department, is one of the best speakers in the country on the subject of "Sex hygiene," and his talks will be an aid to all.

The Press Club for boys interested in newspaper work and writing promises to be one of the most interesting of the new features.

After July 1, the Camp Headquarters will be located at the Camp, Muskegon, Michigan. Applications and requests for information should be sent there to Captain F. L. Deals, Camp Commandant.

NO FIRE WORKS THE 4TH JUDGE ORBISON TO SPEAK

State Fire Marshal Orders Safe and Sane Observance of Holiday.

In response to numerous inquiries as to the attitude of the State Fire Marshall Department concerning the use of fireworks this year, Fire Marshal, Newmen T. Miller, has authorized an interview which is as follows:

Independence day is coming, day of hospitals and ambulances; day of mutilation, fire and death. On this day no fire department gets through the day, and the nights on both sides of it, without exhaustion.

During the past several years great strides have been made in the direction of a safe and sane celebration of the Fourth of July, with the result that the toll of dead and maimed, and the number of fires, have steadily decreased.

The model fourth, an Independence Day without burned fingers, powder marked faces, blinded eyes, singed hair, and without a single aftermath of suffering or death—this is the mark at which the State Fire Marshal is aiming for Indiana for 1921.

Section 45 of the rules of the state fire marshal of Indiana prohibits the sale of fireworks at retail. Section 46 prohibits the use or discharge of fireworks at any point within the limits of a city or town in the State of Indiana, except at such points as may be authorized by the city or town authorities, upon recommendation of the State Fire Marshal.

Fireworks or other pyrotechnic displays, if not prohibited by local ordinance, may be given under municipal supervision, provided such displays are held at least one thousand feet from any building. Toy, paper balloons and skyrockets are forbidden.

PEDIGO'S BARN BURNED

Building and Contents Destroyed By Fire Early This Morning.

An early morning fire destroyed the barn at the rear of the William Pedigo home between 2:30 and 3 o'clock this morning.

The origin of the fire is unknown and considerable headway was gained before the blaze was discovered, and in spite of all efforts the building and contents were entirely destroyed.

In the barn was his Ford delivery truck, a large number of chickens, and coal intended to meet the owners requirements for next winter.

As we go to press the exact amount of loss, and also the portion covered by insurance have not been figured. The loss however will be pretty heavy due to the fact that the building was also used as a storehouse for Mr. Pedigo's grocery.

WILL CUT OUT ALL RED TAPE

Scheme Is Laid Before Chairman Penrose and Senator Watson Who Approve It—To Be Put Into Force Soon.

Washington, June 18.—Creation of a separate and distinct prohibition enforcement unit in each state with a state director at its head forms the basis of the reorganization of the prohibition enforcement organization worked out by Commissioner Blair of the internal revenue bureau and Prohibition Commissioner Haynes.

The present administrative districts, comprising several states, will be abolished.

The plan was laid before Chairman Penrose and Senator Watson of the senate finance committee who approved it and it will be put into force soon.

Co-ordination of the administrative work is the aim. It was explained. According to estimates submitted to Senators Penrose and Watson, $150,000 would be saved immediately on the reorganization plan.

Senators to whom the plan was submitted said the reorganization would tighten up enforcement by centralizing authority and abolishing red tape. An innovation would be the establishment of "a mobile force of specially qualified agents," to operate under the immediate direction of Director Haynes but the whole plan, it was explained, is contingent upon reorganization by the treasury of jurisdiction over prohibition.

Major Haynes' report said it had been "clearly demonstrated after a thorough trial that the present plan of organization of the prohibition field force should be abandoned."

The reorganization plan, he declared, would centralize responsibility, co-ordinate the handling of permits and enforcement work and "eliminate friction, uncertainty and confusion" now existing. Greater flexibility in field operations also would be possible and many salaries also would be saved, he said.

Major Haynes said the function of the mobile field force would be to investigate interstate violations and "furnish effective re-enforcements" to state agents.

The existence of such a force, he added, "operating independently of the directors, would have a wholesome effect in stimulating the activities of the directors' forces and would provide a means for coping immediately with any emergency."

1774—"Boston Port Bill," closing Boston to shipping and removing seat of government to Salem. General Gage, commander of British soldiers in Boston, made governor of Massachusetts. "Regulating Act," remodeling charter of Massachusetts. "Quartering Act." "Quebec Act." First Continental Congress at Philadelphia. Massachusetts Provincial Congress meets and calls for 12,000 "Minute Men."

1775—Parliament declares Massachusetts to be in a state of rebellion. Armed clash at Lexington and Concord begins hostilities. Capture of Ticonderoga and Crown Point. Battle of Bunker Hill. Siege of Boston. Canadian expedition under Montgomery. Second Continental Congress at Philadelphia votes to raise army of 20,000 and chooses George Washington commander-in-chief.

1776—Evacuation of Boston by British, accompanied by 4,500 loyalists. Repulse of British fleet and army at Charleston, S.C. Battle of Long Island and occupation of New York by British. Battle of Trenton. Continental Congress provides for the establishment of state governments and state conventions, adopt constitutions. Congress adopts Declaration of Independence.

The most casual glance at this skeleton chronology shows it to be literally loaded to the muzzle with the eighteenth century equivalent of political and economic TNT. The American Revolution was inevitable, sooner or later. The marrow is not that it came, but that out of the conditions grew a nation.

What a chaos it was! The title to the colonies was not in the people of England or in the state, but in the crown. The crown could make and repeal laws; could appoint rulers and remove them. The colonists were not citizens of the realm, but subjects of the crown, having only such rights as granted them in their charters. The crown claimed and exercised the right to amend or revoke these charters. Such rights no more did the American colonists have, according to the view of the party in England, than did the slaves in the South.

These laws were comprehensive and strict, being designed to give British merchants a monopoly of trade with the colonies and to protect British manufacturers against colonial competition. Warships were now placed along the coast to stop the colonial trade with France and Spain and their West Indian colonies. The "Writs of Assistance" were general search warrants given to customs officials to enable them to break into and search any premises at any time. James Otis, the famous Boston lawyer, opposed the right of the British government to issue the writs or even to pass an act of trade imposing a tax on the colonies. John Adams said of Otis' celebrated speech: "It breathed into this nation the breath of life." Undoubtedly this situation was one of the contributing causes of the Revolution.

Then King George demanded that the colonies pay the expense of a British army of about 20,000 men to be quartered in America to protect the colonies against the Indians. The colonies suspected the purpose of this army and would have none of it. Here was the beginning of real trouble a little later.

The "Boston Tea Party" was a serious affair, not in itself, but because parliament immediately took measures to punish Boston and Massachusetts. The closing of the port of Boston, the removal of the seat of government to Salem, the appointment of General Gage as governor of Massachusetts and the remodeling of the charter of Massachusetts constituted a warning to all the colonies that free government was in imminent danger everywhere. On top of this came the act providing that British officers or magistrates charged with murder or other capital crime should be tried in some other colony or in England: the act billeting soldiers on people who failed voluntarily to provide quarters and the act extending the boundaries of Quebec to the Ohio river and establishing an arbitrary form of government.

This cumulation of activities on the part of the crown seems to have convinced the colonies that their only salvation lay in getting together for united action. So the First Continental Congress met. This congress was merely deliberative and advisory; it issued a declaration of rights; it formed an association for carrying out the non-importation agreement; it forwarded a petition to the king and set out an address to the colonies; it provided for another congress to meet in 1775. Still there was no open discussion of independence.

It was Massachusetts which finally set off the powder barrel. General Gage summoned the provincial congress to meet in Salem, but put off the date of assembling. The delegates met without him and his counsellors. They provided for the appointment of a committee of safety and issued a call for 12,000 "Minute Men." Parliament then declared Massachusetts to be in a state of rebellion. Next was the expedition out of Boston to seize powder and to arrest the two chief "traitors."

Then came the "shots heard 'round the world."

HOW WOMEN AVOID SURGICAL OPERATION

Some Are Extremely Necessary, Others May Not

Every Woman Should Give Lydia E. Pinkham Vegetable Compound a Trial First

Chicago, Ill.—"I was bedridden with a female trouble, inflammation and had doctors, but none of them did me any good. They all said I would have to have an operation. A druggist's wife told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took 22 bottles, a missing a dose and at that time I was perfectly well. I have never had an attack since. I have been so well. I have six room flat and do all work. My two sisters taking the Compound and my recommendation and may publish my letter, the gospel truth and I write to any one who writes a personal letter."—Mrs. H. D. HARDY, 822 St. Lawrence Ave., Chicago, Ill.

A Vermont woman adds her testimony to the long line of the fortunate women who have been restored health by Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Compound, after it had been decided an operation was necessary.

Burlington, Vt.—"I suffered with female trouble, inflammation and had doctors who said that I would never be any better until I had an operation. I was so bad I could hardly walk across the floor and could not do a thing. My sister-in-law induced me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it certainly has helped me wonderfully. I keep house and do my work and have a small child. I have recommended Vegetable Compound to a number of my friends and you may publish my testimonial."—Mrs. H. R. SHAW, Apple Tree Point Farm, Burlington, Vt.

In hospitals are many women who are there for surgical operations, and this is nothing a woman dreads more than the thought of an operation, and long weary months of recovery.

It is very true that female troubles may through neglect reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but most of the common ailments of women are not the surgical ones; they are not caused by serious dispositions, tumors or growths, although the symptoms may appear the same. When disturbing ailments first appear take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve the present distress and prevent more serious trouble. In fact, many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised by attending physicians.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

WHY ALICE GOILIGHTLY NO LONGER BORES PEOPLE WITH LONG RECITAL OF HER PHYSICAL ALIENMENTS.

Pollie Dear and Mollie Love met out shopping one morning and immediately forgot all about shopping, time, hungry husbands at home, etc., in a "few minutes" chat.

Just then Alice Goilightly passed by. Each smiled sweetly at the other, and murmured:

"Good morning."

As soon as Alice had passed by, Pollie turned to Mollie and said:

"I notice Alice doesn't go round boring other people with her ailments as she used to."

"No," smiled Mollie; "she met a man who cured her completely."

"Ooh!" purred Pollie. "Who was she?" Was he a doctor?"

"Oh, no!" answered Mollie. "She was telling this man some of her symptoms, when he remarked,

"How strange how many of these things afflict people as they begin to grow old." Since then she has held her tongue about them."

Old Penalties Inadequate.

"Why don't you Crimson gulch men hang an automobile thief the same as you used to do with a horse thief?"

"We've discussed it," said Cactus Joe; "but we came to the conclusion that hangin' is too good for him."

NOT HARD TO MAKE CHOICE.

Probably Lester Could Have Dined Without the Appeal to His Physical Feelings.

Two men passed away. One was born, and in due course came to the bar, soon ran for office, elected a continuous hon. until last he went to his reward, such a was. And the local paper gave him obituary as long as your arm.

The other man followed in the steps of his brawny sire, and became a maker of harrows. He was intrepid and honest, and for years Hillgoss harrows which he whacked out by hand were known nearly over the country as reliable utensils. By-and-by, he, too, passed on. A paper announced his demise in a line and spelled his name wrong. Now, tell me, Lester, which of the men would you rather have been? not say the former, or I'll slap yaws for you and not let you go to picture show, either.—Kansas Star.

There are more than ten millions of colored people in this country. It is only fair to say that the vast majority of those millions are law-abiding, decent people in their walks of life. There is, of course, great ignorance among them, and ignorance is not a good condition when smart agitators work upon it.

Among ten millions of people anywhere on earth, there are great numbers of reckless criminals and desperate deeds of negro criminals are increasing just as they are increasing among the whites. The mass of whites, however, condone no white criminals act. But sad to say, there is much condoning of negro criminals among the ignorant colored. This support has been largely the cause of the terrible race riots in certain American cities. And have you noticed that each succeeding race riot is worse than the one before it?

The race question is the greatest issue in this country today. The white people have been longest out of barbarism; it is up to them to begin something that will result in the solution of the dangerous situation now.

Build For the Future.

Have you a child in your home? Naturally its daily welfare is among your first thoughts.

But daily welfare is not sufficient. There is a tomorrow—a future—that must be considered.

The child of today will not always be a child. Some day it will be a man, or a woman, carrying the burden that maturity entails.

Children should be prepared for the morrow before the morrow is here.

The mind that knows only the things of today soon reverts to those of yesterday.

It has no future.

It exists upon the present and dwells upon the past.

Its vision is limited to the things it has seen and to those that are set before it.

It is capable of functioning, but not of progressing.

It is the mind of the person who is content to take life as it comes, with little opportunity for improvement and less effort toward advancement.

The daily welfare of a child is one of great concern, but the shaping of the mind for the future is of infinitely more importance.

"Well, there you are!" Miss Van T. repeated herself. "I'm not altogether a pig. Bobby. Ten thousand with you thrown in is enough to make any woman think three times, but the truth is you have been killed by too little and too much kindness. If you had never gone on as super for a disappearing heiress, you might have amounted to something by now. Instead of making you, that money has buried you."

"You don't know me altogether, Madge," said Bobby. "Do you think I've never thought things out? When I need to make money, I'll do it. The great thing nowadays, it seems to me, is not to have too much."

"Not to have too much!" exclaimed Miss Van T., a puzzled frown on her forehead. "Bobby, do you know that you've said something original? No; I won't put it quite as strong as that, but I will say that you've given birth to an exotic idea."

"But it doesn't alter things as far as I am concerned," she continued, almost without a pause. "In fact, it only simplifies matters. You've signed the warrant. I want loads of money; you're afraid of having too much. So we'd better turn our backs on each other and march."

Mr. Randolph looked at her through narrowed eyes.

"I suppose," he said, "you have picked out the man with a hundred thousand a year?"

"Not finally," said Miss Van T., "though they are not so scarce in this hurly-burly world as your question implies. After all, it isn't the cash I'm keen on, but what it will bring. I need to earn my own living."

"Earn your own living!" exclaimed Mr. Randolph. "Will you please tell me how you could earn anything?"

"Well," said Miss Van T., "I've had a couple of offers without even asking. When I tried to tell Simon Simon down on this very frock on the grounds that I was hard up, he said, in the nicest way, that he would take me on at sixty a week any day during the next five years."

"And the other?" asked Mr. Randolph.

"The other," said Miss Van T., dropping her eyes, "was Beacher Tremont. He wasn't quite so nice, but he offered more. He said he was looking for a private secretary, who could name her own price."

"During the next five years—at your own price," repeated Bobby, his mind dazed but nevertheless going straight to the kernel of each proposition. "Madge, do you know what you're saying? Do you know the horrible things you infer?"

She moved one hand impatiently.

"Bobby," she said, "don't get the atrical. I tell you New York is a fever. I've caught it, and I'm not a bit sorry. The choice between being a Van Teller corpse and a fastish woman is easy. The semi-declassées of New York, if they play for high enough stakes, have a world of their own that is worth moving in. Money is merely an adjunct to it—nothing but the bridge."

"Do you—would you trust me?"

Scarcity of Homes Drives Italian Peasants to Dig Houses in the Hillsides.

CAN LAUGH AT THE RENT MAN

In Several Places in World Today
Mankind Still Lives in the Simple and Inexpensive Fashion of Primitive Ancestors.

Washington, D. C.—Cave houses are coming in style again. Scarcity of housing accommodations in the district along Lakes Maggiore and Como, Italy, has driven many peasants to dig houses for themselves in the hillsides where they live in primitive simplicity, newspaper dispatches say.

The inhabitants of most of the countries of the world have at some stage in their development lived in cave dwellings. A belt of such dwellings extends from China across India to Asia Minor and Arabia, thence along the shores of the Mediterranean to the Canary Islands, the West Indies, Mexico and North and South America. In a few places today mankind still lives in this simple and inexpensive fashion," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

"On Easter Island, in the Pacific, where innumerable caves and grottoes have been formed by the washing away of soft deposits which lie beneath the hard volcanic strata, housing accommodations present no problem."

"In one of the wildest portions of northern Africa, near Gueunessa, on the top of a sugar-loaf mountain whose sides rise precipitously for hundreds of feet, a fierce and warlike race now live for three months in the year in stone caves hollowed out in the mountain sides.

Troglodyte "Trustees" Guard Homes.

"Suspicious of other cave-dwelling people, near them and hating the stranger, they spend the remaining nine months in the year wandering with their flocks of long-haired goats, broad-tailed sheep and camels on the borders of the Sahara. Down in the valleys too there are plantations of superb olive and fig trees which they protect from the other troglodytes.

Austrian Cuts Up Big Estates.

Vienna.—Nearly 1,000 estates or parcels of land located in 210 communes have been set aside by the government for allocation to settlers under the land expropriation act.

They are lands that have passed from cultivation into shooting preserves or parks, or arable lands which the owners are unable to place under cultivation. In the latter case compensation is made, but in the former instance the land is confiscated.

... pays $25 for Killing Robin.

New Philadelphia, O.—For shooting and killing a robin in his strawberry patch, Fred Glaser, seventy-five years of age, formerly president of the council, was fined $25 and costs by Justice of the Peace John Stevenson. Robins had been devouring his strawberries, said Mr. Glaser, who is an ice-cream manufacturer.

Wife Borrowed Children to Plead Before Judge

When John Rams of Muskegon, Mich., was convicted of violating the liquor law, his wife and 12 small children appeared to plead for mercy. The judge was so impressed by the poverty of the large family that he showed leniency. Later, officers reported to the court that seven of the children belonged to neighbors, having been "borrowed" for the occasion.

No Malice Toward Accusers. This statement is characteristic of the John Dietz of today. There is no malice toward those who have taken ten years from his life. No threats or desires for revenge. Only the sense of a wrong which he is willing to forgive and the strengthened manifestation of right.

"I can appreciate my freedom now. My man can who has spent time in a penitentiary," he said.

Mr. Dietz prefers to allow his prison experience to remain a closed book. But of the events which led up to the battle in his north woods home he enjoys to discourse.

Beginning with the political feud of which the "siege" was the culmination, Mr. Dietz gave an accurate and chronological account. Articles which had been published in newspapers of his struggle against the enemy, poems of his own composition, written with the mental zest which characterizes the brain capacity of the "defender," were recited with remarkable accuracy.

And throughout it all there was never an attempt to paint himself as a hero or a martyr. Just the plain, straightforward recital of facts and a desire to give even his enemies a word of praise when he deemed praise was due.

John Dietz then did not represent the spirit of "broken manhood," as had been previously stated. There was a twinkle in his eye as he told of some of the amusing incidents in his romantic career. Often he laughed heartily and playfully grasped his wife about the waist.

Miss Dietz, kind and motherly, smiled and then wiped a tear from her eye.

"Yes, it has been a long fight, but we have won," she said. "I am the happiest woman in the world today. It is the most I can say."

Associated with the outside world for ten years, the "defender of Cameron dam" has not been recluse. Considerable of his time has been spent in profitable study. Likewise he has remained in touch with world happenings through the weekly newspapers and magazines which the prisoners are permitted to read. On the big political subjects of the day, the late war, and the trial of new inventions which have followed he is thoroughly versed.

"The world is not getting worse as some would have us believe," he said. "It's getting better. Wisconsin has been making rapid strides. Coming down through the country I was interested in the many new forms of agricultural machinery. The tractor is a great boon to the farmer. It is an indication of the trend of civilization which even ten years have shown."

MEET THEM

Wife by Return Mail

County Judge R. W. Shaw of Mandan, N. D., has received a letter from Clinton Gaskill, Iva- re, Ky., which says:

"About nine years ago, if you remember, you married Miss Louise Kopp and Clinton Gaskill. As she left me and won't live with me any more, please send me a divorce by return mail. I will be yours, very truly."

path is discernible only a few feet in front of him.

"Perhaps the greatest and most beautiful of the cliff cities built since the beginning of time is Petra, on the old caravan route from Damascus to Mecca. Though it is unoccupied today, Edomites, Phoenicians, Egyptians and Romans have carved in artistic designs on the rose-red walls of its temples, amphitheaters, shrines, and houses records of their successive occupations.

French Cave Houses Now Store Rooms

"Europe too has her cave dwellers. Near Tours, France, there are a few that are inhabited, but for the most part the older cave rooms, possibly used by the Aquitanians of Caesar's time, are used as storage rooms with the dwellings built out in front of them. In Spain there are many artificial caves, formerly inhabited, which are now used by Spanish gypsies.

"In the interior mountainous region of Gran Canaria in the Canary Islands there are numbers of the natives living in cave houses whose doorways stare out like huge black eyes on the faces of the cliffs.

"Many of the American Indians lived in natural caves and excavated dwellings in cliffs, some of the most noteworthy being those of the Chaco canyon and Mesa Verde regions.

SPIRIT SURVIVES TERM IN PRISON

Loyal Wife Happy Over Freedom at Last for Protector of Her Home—Declares Innocence of the Crime Charged.

Milwaukee.—Ten years behind the cold gray stone of Waupun state prison have broken the spirit of many a man. To John F. Dietz they have emphasized the determination and courage which won him the immemorial title of "the defender of Cameron dam."

Back in civilian clothes, fresh from the exhilaration of his first automobile ride in ten years, and surrounded by the loyal wife and children who have staged an unrelenting fight for his freedom, John Dietz presents the same picture of sturdy manhood which won the sympathy of nation during the most spectacular "siege" in Wisconsin's history.

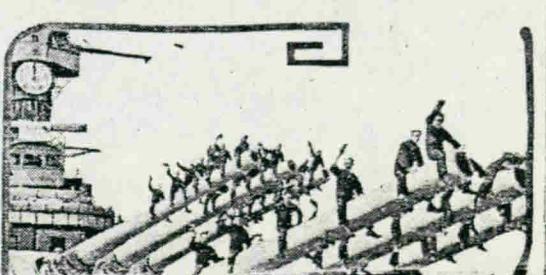

Physically, John Dietz has changed from the man who entered Waupun a decade ago. The husky frame is slightly stooped. His once vigorous hair has grown sparse. The lines of age have crept into the strong face. The fingers which so determinedly clutched a rifle trigger in defense of home and personal convictions have become drawn. But mentally "the defender of Cameron dam" is the same John Dietz of ten years ago.

"I haven't a worry in the world. I never did have. My own heart has proclaimed my innocence of the crime with which I was charged. I have had the peace of an innocent man."

LESSON FOR JUNE 26

REVIEW: THE SOCIAL TASK OF THE CHURCH.

GOLDEN TEXT—He shall dwell with them, and they shall be his people.—Rev. 21:3.
DEVOTIONAL READING—Rev. 21:1-14.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Way Jesus Wants Us to Live.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Some Things Jesus Wants Us to Do.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Challenge to Boys and Girls.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Challenge to the Church.

Revelation 21:1-14 is the passage of Scripture selected for devotional reading. Instead of attempting to review the lessons of the quarter it would be of great interest and profit to enter into a detailed study of this Scripture. The following outline may be helpful. I. The New Heaven and the New Earth (v. 1, 2); II. The New People (vv. 3-8); III. The New Jerusalem (vv. 9-14).

Another way would be to assign the Golden Texts to different members of the class asking them to give the part of the particular lesson which illustrates the teachings of the text.

Still another way would be to summarize the different Scripture passages giving the leading lessons of each. The following is given by way of suggestion:

I. The believer's supreme obligation is to present himself as a living sacrifice to God. The grand reason for so doing is that he has received the mercies of God. The one who yielded will love his fellow believer sincerely.

II. The believer's body is God's property—the temple of the Holy Ghost; therefore we are under solemn obligation to use it for His glory.

III. Since God is the Father and Jesus Christ our work, it is incumbent upon all to work, and the man who will not work should not eat.

IV. God hates the greed that moves men to dishonest methods in order to get rich. His judgment shall fall upon such.

V. True education will lead one to Christ. The one only book which tells about him is the Bible. No one can call himself educated who is ignorant of the Bible.

VI. God rested when His work of creation was done. On this basis He has established the law of labor and rest. The obligation to cease from labor is that one may remember God.

VII. The church is an organism as the human body—in order that there may be real helpful co-operation there must be membership in that body.

VIII. Jesus should be welcomed as a guest into every home. He is an example of an obedient son in the home.

IX. The most important question is not "Who is my neighbor?" but "To whom can I be a neighbor?" Being a neighbor is seeing those about who need help and rendering such help in loving sympathy.

X. The Christian is a citizen as well as a church member. Intelligent Christians will show proper loyalty to the state.

XI. When Christ shall reign as King there shall be peace all over the world between animals and men. The supreme business of the believer in this dispensation is to preach the gospel to all the world as a witness.

XII. Jesus came and preached the gospel to the poor, but shall come again to judge the world and reign as King.

Since the whole of man's duty is summed up by Christ in duty to God and duty to man (Matt. 22:36-40), it would be profitable to go through the quarter's lesson and set down the teachings under:

I. Duties to God; II. Duties to Man.

House Divided Against Itself.
He who sits above the waterboards is still working out His ways, and man's extremity is, as ever, God's opportunity. But if we are to be real sharers in this task of divine reconstruction, and fulfilling of God's purposes for the human family, it behoves us to do our utmost by prayer and effort to repair the breaches which human waywardness has wrought in that instrument which He has designed, and through which He has chosen especially to work out humanity's salvation—the church of the living God, the One, Holy, Catholic and Apostolic Body of Christ. For until these wounds are healed the church must present herself as a house divided against itself; and, because the Savior's prayer for a unity in the "one fold" remains unfulfilled, His enemies continue to triumph, and the forces which make for righteousness are thwarted.—Bishop Howden.

Blessed Mysteries of Life.
Both death and sleep are blessed mysteries of life. It is of little consequence what time the angel of life opens the door of death for us; the supreme concern for us is whether our hearts shall be pure, and our souls strong in grace to rejoice in the vision

ATTACHED TO ANY WHEEL

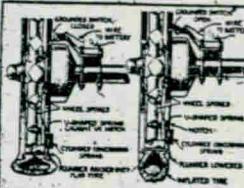

ELECTRIC SWITCH DOES WORK

Placed in Position So That They Will Be Thrown to One or Other of Closed Positions When Tire Is Punctured.

It frequently happens that air leaks slowly from a tire without the driver's knowing it. The tire becomes flat and the rims of the wheel cut into it. To warn drivers in time, George F. Young of Indianapolis has recently invented an electric alarm which can be attached to any wheel. It consists of an electric switch which is mounted on the axle of a wheel. The blade of this switch projects toward the spokes of the wheel. The end of the blade stops very close to the spokes, though enough space is left to enable the blade to barely clear them.

Working of Switch.

Working in conjunction with the blade of the switch is a metal finger mounted on one of the spokes of the wheel. This finger can slide radially to the wheel, but a spring normally holds it away from the axle, with one end up against the underside of the inflated tire. The other end of the finger will clear the projecting blade when the tire is properly inflated. Just as soon as the tire begins to flatten, the finger is pressed radially inward and it strikes against the projecting blade. The switch is thereby closed and an alarm, such as a well located light or buzzer which is very easily heard, is operated.

Rotates With Wheel.

The various switches are mounted so that they do not rotate with the wheels with which they are associated; but they are placed in a position so that they will be thrown to one or the other of their closed positions when the tire is punctured or if the air suddenly leaves it. This method of mounting may be carried out in several different forms. The one most convenient is shown in the accompanying illustration.—Popular Science Monthly.

Does the Valve Leak?

It is an easy matter to discover whether the tire valve leaks or not if you know the little kink. Remove the cap and, having the wheel turned so the valve is right at the top, set up over the valve stem a bottle or glass container of any sort, filled with water. If there is a leak, of course, the bubbles will indicate it. Try it with the cap on and with the cap off. You may find that a valve you thought all right is the sole cause of the constantly getting soft without apparent cause. The tube that shows no leak when taken out and immersed in water, valve and all, may leak through the valve slowly when in the shoe and pumped up to riding pressure. So this little kink is well worth remembering.

NEW TRAFFIC SIGNAL TRIED OUT

Takes Power of Engine and Transmits It to Propeller Shaft Which Moves According to Movement of Rear Axle.

There are hundreds of moving parts on an automobile or motortruck, but none works so hard and so efficiently as a universal joint. Such a joint is necessary on the propeller shaft extending from the clutch to transmission and from the transmission to the rear axle, as the case may be.

Universal joints are known to operate at more than 98 per cent efficiency, which cannot be said of any other part of an automobile doing such strenuous work.

The universal joint, as its name indicates, allows for free or universal movement of the propeller shaft. It is like your thumb, which you can wiggle in all directions.

A universal joint takes the power of the engine and transmits it to the propeller shaft. At the same time this joint may be constantly moving first in one direction, then another, but usually it moves up and down because the rear axle keeps moving up, and down over the road.

The propeller shaft angularity varies according to the relative movement of the rear axle, and were it not for the use of universal joints the shaft would bend or break, and hence could not transmit power.

Every automobile uses universal joints on the propeller shaft. This is an all-metal joint, and the only care which this hard-working part, receives is a little grease twice each year. It is remarkable how this part stands up even when owners forget it.

Most owners do not know what a universal joint looks like because it never gives any trouble, but the wise owner will not allow joints to go without grease.

Grease is easily injected through the filler opening by means of a suitable grease gun. The joint should not be filled completely—one-third full is sufficient.

INJURIOUS TO CAR SURFACE

Common Practice of Using Ammonia to Brighten Surface of Hood Will Ruin Finish.

There used to be a common practice of trying to brighten up the finish of the hood by the use of a solution of ammonia. This is about the worst thing that could be done, as ammonia eventually destroys the finish. Unfortunately the ammonia gives a little temporary brilliancy to the finish, but in the long run it ruins it. In fact, car manufacturers recommend that no car be kept in a stable or barn, as the ammonia from manure gradually destroys the enameled surface.

In olden times, it was believed that the seat of the soul was the stomach, most likely for the reason that a man is never so completely used up as when his stomach is out of order. For the cure of ordinary stomach troubles, there is nothing quite so prompt and satisfactory as Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. CHARGES OF FRAUD MADE American Legion Expected to Make Strong Fight if Question Goes to Polls.

A remonstrance against co-operation of the city of Indianapolis with Marion county and the state in acquiring ground and constructing buildings for war memorial plaza in Indianapolis and a demand that the city Council submit the question of municipal participation in the project to the qualified voters of the city for their approval or rejection are contained in a petition filed with George O. Hutsell, city clerk, yesterday afternoon. If the remonstrance is found to contain genuine signatures of 5 per cent of the qualified voters of the city—about 8,600—it will be mandatory on the city Council to call the special election. The remonstrance is said to contain 12,882 signatures.

Immediately after the document was filed Mayor Charles W. Jewett and other city officials and officers of the American Legion issued statements to the effect that every signature on the petition must be carefully scrutinized

MIDNIGHT VERDICT REACHED IN TOLEDO MAIL THEFT TRIAL

Judge Fears to Bring Accused to Court Until Daylight.

TOLEDO, O., June 25.—A verdict was reached at 12:30 o'clock this morning by the jury which considered for eight and a half hours evidence submitted by the government against thirteen men and women accused of complicity in the robbery of Central postoffice last Feb. 17, when upwards of $1,000,000 worth of money and securities were stolen.

The verdict was sealed and will be delivered at 3:30 o'clock this morning to Judge Killits in United States court.

18 Defendants Originally.

The trial began three weeks ago. There originally were eighteen defendants. Three of them pleaded guilty and received minor sentences. Indictments against two others, one a woman, were quashed on motion of Stuart Bolin, Federal prosecutor.

Judge Killits declined to receive the verdict of the jury tonight because of the risk he believed would attach to transportation of the eleven defendants from the county jail to the Federal building to be present when the verdict was read.

CHICAGO BEACH MORALS UNDER CENSOR.

Chicago is making sure that morals of folks who go down to the beach during the hot spell are not disorganized. Not that there is a chance. But an ounce of prevention is worth something. Here we see Lulu Locke, one of the Chicago police-women, whose duty it is to patrol the beach and ensure that no

COLLECTOR OF LOCKS OF FAIR BRUNETTES REAPS PRISON CELL

Hurricane Jones of Portland Held on Complaint of Nurses.

Hurricane Jones, 22 years old, Portland (Ind.) dental student, has the peculiar hobby of collecting locks of women's hair, especially brunettes, according to his statement to police last night. This habit passed him so far as caused him to be placed behind the bars of the city prison on a charge of vagrancy. He was held under bond of $25,000 after he had been followed for more than a mile through downtown streets to a restaurant at 450 West Washington Street by Miss Elizabeth Williams and Miss Idae Hill, nurses in the Methodist hospital.

According to Miss Williams, Jones has been seen frequently around the nurses' home, Sixteenth street and Capitol avenue, within the last few weeks. She said he had taken many of the nurses for locks of their hair and had caused much fright among the young women who had found him at times prowling through the building halls. Police say they have had numerous calls concerning the prowler.

Nurses Follow Youth.

Miss Williams and Miss Hill were walking at Illinois and Ohio streets when, they said, Jones passed them and Miss Williams recognized him. They followed him through various streets to the restaurant where Motor Policemen Kelly and Muller were called. The police say, Jones admitted asking the women for locks of hair.

"You no doubt are surprised at my peculiar fad, but I have been collecting locks of women's hair for a long time," he told the police. "I am particularly anxious if I see a brunet to get a lock of her hair, but I will take blonde if I can not find others," he said.

Jones denied he had been prowling

ADMIRAL IN GOOD SPIRITS

"Spilled the Beans Over There," Officer Says. "Guess Incident Is Closed Now."

BY EVERETT C. WATKINS.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Rear Admiral Sims cheerfully accepted a formal reprimand this afternoon from Secretary of Navy Denby for "indiscreet" remarks in his famous London speech in which he referred to Sen. Lehman in America as "Jackass" and then went to the White House for a courtesy call on President Harding. He left the White House in good spirits and apparently entirely unfurried by the reprimand he had received earlier in the afternoon.

Newspaper correspondents had just come from a conference with the President when the admiral arrived. The same correspondents, forty or more, surrounded the admiral when he emerged from the President's office several minutes later.

"Spilled Beans," He Says. "I was reprimanded," Sims frankly

Street Railway Objects to Payment of $30,000 Tax and for Paving Between Tracks.

Representatives of the Indianapolis Street Railway Company refused flatly at a conference with city officials yesterday to agree to a contract which would bind the company to the chief requirements of the franchise it surrendered recently. In reply the municipal authorities served notice that the city Council will be asked to pass an ordinance incorporating the franchise provisions, and Mayor Jewett added a threat that if the public service commission law is held to prevent regulation of public utilities by the city "another year will see the end of the public service commission."

Long Wrangle.

Conferees were at loggerheads throughout the meeting, in the mayor's office at the city hall, which lasted several hours. Ferdinand Winter, attorney for the vestigated to determine if false representations were made to obtain signatures.

Signers will then be given an opportunity to reconsider and withdraw their names from the petition.

The remonstrance against the war memorial plaza was not voluntary, but the result of a solicited campaign a few business men who kept their name carefully concealed. We are informed that employed solicitors gathered names. I do not believe there any substantial part of our people were opposed to this fitting memo to the soldiers of the great war.

The law authorizing the plan was passed by the Legislature after several public hearings and not a word of protest was heard. No person appears to be in the real people behind the petition now except a manly stand against this memorial project. We will immediately proceed to prepare a plan, submitting the whole matter to the general public, for a general vote, where the citizens will be given opportunity either to approve or disapprove the memorial.

Miller brothers say that both petitions were drafted by Alva J. Rucker, N. Harding and Joseph Collier. For reason which they did not explain it was decided to circulate only shorter petition after both had been circulated for about ten days.

According to Claude W. Miller, circulation was begun June 6. After four days it appeared signatures were not obtained fast enough and it was decided to hire a number of ex-service men to carry the petition. About thirty men were employed as solicitors.

Some ceased their efforts when learned exactly the meaning of the on, while a number more were dissatisfied by the Millers because of sus- actions, according to Claude W.

Eleven men were circulating petition for pay when all of them advised that paid soldiers were no longer used.

SENATORS DOWN INDIANS, 5 TO 3

[Special to The Indianapolis Star.]
COLUMBUS, O., June 24.—Clint Rogge, veteran right-handed pitcher of the Indianapolis club, didn't have his usual baffling stuff to show the Senators at Neil park this afternoon. Doug Baird, his third-base teammate, made two boos, which figured in the run getting and enabled Cleveland's Indians to take the lead in the first game of the double header. The count was 5 to 3, and the game never was really in doubt after the third round, when the Senators forged to the front with a three-run lead, never again to be headed.

Paul Sherman, who was Manager Howland's choice for mound duty, did a nifty job of hitting, allowing only four hits, all of which came in the first four frames. His double steal was responsible for one of the runs made by the visitors, while Sherman's own error paved the way for the final run made by the Indians.

Morrison's Catch Features.

The margin of the Columbus victory would have been larger, but for a phenomenal catch made in center field by Morrison, who broke into the game because of Kinsella's wrenching side. With Shannon on first in the second inning, Catcher Art Wilson hit a mighty clout to deep right center. It bounded forty feet over toward Murphy. This was the onlyinning which Sherman was hit at hard.

The Indians, who are out to make a record for themselves in the matter of double plays, pulled off two more of the sort, and could have made it three but for Baird's low throw.

Covington made a miff of Burrus' easy foul in the seventh and the Columbus team had to let Baird sacrifice and Baird sacrificed. After Covington had popped to Peuchous, Shinnars stole a third. A moment later Baird drew a walk, and Shinnars scored on the double steal.

This run promptly was matched by the Senators in their half of the ninth. Murphy singled to right, the starler and Baird sacrificed. Burrus grounded to Covington, but High came through with a long triple to left center which scored the Columbus lead off man.

Cinch It in Third.

In the third the Senators went out in front, with three more runs. Sherman opened with a single toward third and Murphy doubled to right. After High had grounded to Baird, Burrus singled to right scoring Sherman and Murphy. Baird made a nice catch of High's liner but was an effort to make him do it. This time he went to Covington, permitting Burrus to reach third. He scored on Shinnars' single to Shinnars.

Successive doubles by Schreiber and Kinsella in the fourth scored the former with the Indian's second run. The third came over in the eighth. Baird was the man home run, having made out due to the weak way of the batsmen but to the fact that the baseballs were wound tighter and are more snug and smooth.

"I was talking with [Babe] Adams," said Baird, "and he said the ball was never as hard to curve as it is now. He said it was because the leather has been taken off the ball and the wood has been taken off the bat. The batsmen have been learning to swing harder and harder and harder. There is nothing unfair about it."

ANNOUNCEMENTS for the fall and winter theatrical season in Indianapolis are beginning to be made. A letter from the press representative of

William H. Harris Jr. comes to this department announcing the engage ment of "East is West," with Fay

Bainter, at the Murat next season.

This play has just closed a phenomen ally long run in Chicago and in the fall will go on a long tour, including the principal cities of the country.

Another William H. Harris attraction which is to play here is John Drinker's "Abraham Lincoln," which comes with the original cast, including

Frank McHugh. The announcements are the most remarkable and the discouraging predictions that have been made about the coming sea son. It has been said that, owing to the difficulty of transportation, the great part of the great queen, a great soprano, sang everybody happy.

brought to life and invested with a ten derness not always to be found in the stage of literature. The very definite and exact character and every line made it peculiarly delightful, the bright past board figures a joy to the eye.

Judith Lowry again made the queen the came to see a wooden barracks where he was detained until the stockade was destroyed to their injuries.

Soldiers who saw civilians running away from the scene of the wreck fired at them, shooting to death two unidentified persons.

A military lorry was attacked this afternoon at the junction of North Frederick and Dorset streets, bombs being thrown at the lorry, two of which were employed. Evidently they had been placed after the passage of the previous troop trains. A rail also had been raised.

It is believed the mines were exploded. Rickey, 76, a h and shoe repair man of this city found dead in bed, at his home this morning. Death is thought to have been caused from an acute indigestion. He was 40 old and was born in Hamilton, Ohio. Two brothers, William Charles of this city, and one Mrs. Minnie B. Bushnell of Portage, survive.

tion that they were simply signing a petition against the question. The referendum of the voters, when really they were putting themselves on record as opposing the war memorial plaza project. That petition was not merely a petition but a flat-footed remonstrance against the city co-operating with Marion county and the state in acquiring the ground necessary for the war memorial and constructing the required buildings for the project."

Will Look for Fraud.

Dr. T. Victor Keene, national committeeman of the American Legion from Indiana, who was at Culver yesterday afternoon attending the summer convention of Indiana American Legion officials, issued the following statement immediately after receiving advise that the remonstrance had been filed:

"The remonstrance petition will be very carefully scrutinized. No objection exists to any man having any opinion he may choose on any subject. We have reason to believe that many signatures were obtained by fraud and this situation will be carefully looked into. In any event the American Legion will meet the issue and we have every confidence that a few selfish interests will not be permitted to override the interest of the community at large. The American Legion are trained fighting men. We won in France. We will win in Indianapolis."

Mayor Jewett, when informed that the petition had been filed, declared: "Every name on the petition will be

I am in any way opposed to giving the soldiers proper and just recognition of the great service they gave the state and the United States," he said. "I do believe that if we are to spend immense sums of money it should go to furnishing hospitals for the care of those veterans who were injured in the war, and to provide food and care for those in need."

"What good will a veteran of the war who lives in Fort Wayne or New Albany get from a war memorial plaza in Indianapolis?"

"Also I do not think immense sums of money—perhaps millions of dollars—should be spent on a project such as the proposed war memorial plaza, while it is necessary for some of the school children to get only a half day's instruction in order to make way for others. For the past eight years there has been a cry for more school buildings and the school board has always answered that they did not have funds to provide enough buildings."

Other Better Uses, He Says.

"There has not been enough money to furnish necessary educational facilities for the children of this city. The school board has always been too deeply in debt to erect more buildings and consequently many children have been forced to go without schooling they are entitled to. I have pleaded with the school board for more schools, and I am
