CANTERBURY COLLEGE
Danville, Indiana

INTRODUCTION

As president of Canterbury College, it is my duty and privilege to introduce the first yearbook of this new college.

Although the work on this book has been accomplished by students from all classes of the college, the major share of the honor falls to the Class of 1947. This class is in a unique position; it is the initial graduating class of a college which has been in existence less than a year. The members thereof have demonstrated their loyalty to the aims and ideals of Canterbury College on more than one occasion. Now, in this book, they have again led the way.

It is my belief that this yearbook will not only be a source of pleasant memories to its readers, but will also serve to weld together the class which produced it, so that their loyalty to their new college will forever remain unflagging.

And so, to those who persevered in their labors on this book, and particularly to the Class of 1947, my salute for a job well done.

EDGAR C. CUMINGS.

A College is Born

On Saturday morning, November 16, 1946, Dr. Edgar C. Cumings was formally inaugurated as the first president of Canterbury College. He received his commission from the Rt. Rev. Richard A. Kirchoffer, president of the Board of Trustees and Bishop of the Indianapolis Diocese of the Episcopal Church. The academic procession represented educators and clergy throughout the middle west. Heading the procession were the Rt. Rev. R. A. Kirchoffer, the Rt. Rev. Reginald Mallett, President F. L. Hovde of Purdue, President E. C. Cumings of Canterbury, and Rev. L. C. Wolcott, College Chaplin. Among the other notables in attendance were: Dr. C. T. Malan, State Dept. of Education; President H. B. Wells, Indiana; President W. A. Davis, Vincennes; President L. B. Hale, Evansville; President H. A. Lucks, St. Joseph's; President Earl Martin, Anderson; President C. W. Meredith, Taylor; Bishop E. J. Randall, Hobart; President M. O. Ross, Butler; President Schwalm, Manchester; President W. G. Spencer, Franklin; President R. N. Tirey, Indiana State; Mr. F. C. Truitt, Kenyon; the Rev. William Ward, University of Illinois and President C. F. Wildman, De Pauw.

Dr. Fred Hovde, president of Purdue University and former associate of Dr. Cumings at the University of Rochester, delivered the presentation address. In his inaugural address, Dr. Cumings outlined the goal for which we strive rather than having any hard fast plan. "We feel," he said, "that most of the educational discoveries have been made; therefore, we believe that the plan is best which goes back to the essentials of higher education which have proven valuable and reliable by the test of time . . . . We propose to remain once and for all a small co-educational college . . . . The day of the diploma mill is definitely over . . . . We believe that we can provide thru small classes and an approach to individual instruction, a type of closely-knit education which will insure the development of graduates who will have obtained something over and beyond four delightful years made possible by the generosity of their parents . . . . We propose to develop further a system of individual guidance which will provide advice to students in their academic, extra-curricular and personal affairs . . . . The personal side of a student's collegiate existence is perhaps as important as any . . . . We propose to return to a system of required courses which we believe will lead to a better general education . . . . I propose a program for the first two years of required courses, some of which cut across the boundary lines between subject areas . . . . One of the stated aims of Canterbury College is the development of graduates who have acquired a secular education which will aid them to obtain positions in their chosen fields, or to pursue more advanced study . . . . Another aim is the development of graduates who have an understanding of Christian spiritual values which will these buildings become a production unit, the products of which are learning, living, and working—without these things, life could never be complete.

In addition to the buildings pictured, there are two large dormitories for girls, Adams Hall and the Psi Chi House, a short distance from the campus proper. To aid returning veterans in their housing problems, housing units have recently been constructed adjoining the campus on the north.

On the opposite page is pictured the Administration Building—the center of campus activities. To the right, on the corner of U. S. 36 and Wayne St., is Recitation Hall, housing St. Augustine Chapel, the library and bookstore, and numerous recitation rooms. In the background is the gymnasium and down the campus, to the right, is Hargrave Hall.

The construction of larger and better buildings, which necessity, we are sure, will make a reality, is the one desire of all who are interested in the welfare of the college. The list is inexhaustible—dorms, a chapel, a natural stadium back of Hargrave Hall, a field house, recitation halls—but until that time we shall cherish the ivy-covered buildings that have become a tradition on this campus.

1st Row: Willis B. Conner, Jr., Bishop R. A. Kirchhoffer, Father Don Copeland, Mr. Donald Smith, Dr. Kenneth Kintner.

THE TRUSTEES

The Rt. Rev. Reginald Mallett, Vice-President of the Board. (Bishop of the Northern Indiana Diocese)

Mr. John A. Kendall, Secretary to the Board. (Danville Attorney, and State Senator from Hendricks County); Mr. Donald W. Alexander, P. R. Mallory Company, Indianapolis; The Rev. E. Ainger Powell, Rector, Christ Church, Indianapolis; Mr. I. W. Baldwin, Manager, Aviation Division, Bowser, Inc., Ft. Wayne; Mr. Donald Smith, President of the First National Bank, Kokomo; Dr. Kenneth Kinter, Mishawaka, Indiana; The Rev. Don. H. Copeland, St. James Episcopal Church, South Bend; Mr. Glenn Hovermale, Ginn & Company, Danville, Indiana; Mr. Homer P. Hargrave, Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane, Chicago; Willis B. Conner, Jr., Asst. Vice-Pres. Merchants National Bank, Indianapolis.

These are the gentlemen who control the policies and the operation of the college.

The Board of Trustees is composed of five lay and clerical members from each Indiana diocese of the Episcopal Church, two alumni representatives, and one local representative.

The Board meets four times each year. Between meetings of the full board, business is carried on by the Executive Committee made up of Bishop Kirchhoffer, chairman; John A. Kendall, Donald B. Smith, and Willis B. Conner, Jr.

THE ADMINISTRATION

DR. CUMINGS

Dr. Edgar C. Cumings, president of Canterbury College, and native of Bloomington, Indiana, received his A. B. degree in 1931 and his A. M. degree in 1932, both from Indiana University. He studied abroad at the University of Leipzig, Germany for one year and received his Ph. D. from the University of Chicago in 1936. Dr. Cumings served as Professor of German and Administrative Assistant at the University of Rochester from 1936 to 1943. In 1943 he was a news analyst on radio station WBEN, Buffalo, New York. After serving in the U. S. Navy during the war Dr. Cumings was appointed Assistant to the Director, Indiana University extension division. In June 1946 he was appointed president of Canterbury College. Dr. Cumings is a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Phi Beta Kappa Fraternities. In addition he belongs to the Lion's Club and Commercial Club of Danville, the Association of University Professors, Modern Language Association, and the Indiana Conference on Higher Education.

DEAN HILLEGAS

William M. Hillegas, Dean of Canterbury College, was reared and educated in the state of New York. He received his B. S. degree in 1930 from Columbia University and his A.M. degree from the Teachers College at Columbia in 1933. He completed a portion of the work toward his Ph. D. degree at the same university. Dean Hillegas was Head of the Science Department at Courtland State Teachers College, Courtland, N. Y. from 1929 to 1939. During the next seven years he was supervisor and instructor in airplane and automotive vocational schools. In June, 1946, he came to Canterbury as dean of the college.

Dean Hillegas has done a lot of work in the field of science, developing the Hillegas Units, a system of teaching exercises, in the field of elementary science. He did extensive research work on a system of temperature inversion in the Courtland-Tully Valley Project. The knowledge gained in these studies were later used in frost control. Mr. Hillegas published one of the first popular articles on the psycho-galvanometer, an instrument which is one of the elements in the modern lie-detector and is now commonly used in psychological research. In addition, he has contributed some work for the A. B. Dick Co. and Radio Digest magazine.

Canterbury's First Graduates

The honor of being the first class to graduate from an institution comes very rarely. This honor has come to the Class of 1947 at Canterbury College.

The opening of the fall semester brought together many old and new faces—students who were returning from service and resuming their studies, those who had attended Central Normal College sometime in the past, and others who were on the campus for the first time. The position into which the class stepped was a very unique one and they are to be commended for the fine attitude and cooperative spirit at Canterbury. Since the college is in its infancy, almost every act performed by the senior class has potentialities of becoming a tradition on the campus. It is the sincere hope of the Class of 1947 that any such tradition which they may have initiated has been constructive to Canterbury College.

As they are about to take their leave, the Senior Class wishes to express their appreciation to the faculty and administrators of the college who have spent endless hours in attempting to prepare these students for the various fields into which they are about to go. This is their one wish—to represent their Alma Mater in such a way as to do justice and pay tribute to her.

To the Alumni

The student body of Canterbury College wishes to take this opportunity to say "hello" to their Alumni—you who have attended Central Normal College some time in the past. We consider it an honor to look to you as the alumni of Canterbury College, the institution which has recently taken over the responsibility of continuing the fine works that Central Normal carried on for so long. We hope that you will not merely accept us, but will take an active part in the activities of the college by frequent visits to the campus. It is the belief of all who are in direct connection with the college that we can now build up the type of institution that had been the goal of Central Normal for so long.

Through the medium of The Echo, the first year book to be published at Canterbury, we wish to re-acquaint you with the activities of the college and the campus life. We are sure you will recognize many familiar scenes and faces. The traditions of Central Normal that you became a part of, and became a part of you while you were on the campus, are still being carried on and will continue to be so long as you, the alumni, assume an active role in the college.

The fraternities and sororities, to which many of you belonged at Central Normal, are again growing very active with the return of so many of servicemen and the enrollment of so many new students, both boys and girls. The fellows who made their home at the "Varsity Apartments" while at Central Normal will be pleased to hear that we now have adequate housing accommodations in the form of Federal Housing Units, constructed adjacent to the campus and for the girls, the college has acquired another large dormitory—Adams Hall.

Just a word to the sports-minded alumni—"if it's sports you're after, drop by at Canterbury almost any time during the school year." In addition to top-notch basketball, football, and baseball teams we proudly boast of equally active track, cross-country, tennis and golf teams. It would have done you good to see the way they packed the gym the night Canterbury romped over "Johnny Wilson and Company" from Anderson College this year.

And so with these glimpses of "life at Canterbury" we will close. We hope you enjoy leafing through the Canterbury Echo page by page and reminiscing over your college days.

The Seniors Look Forward

THE WIDE-WIDE WORLD - - - - - YEAR 1967

A Committee was recently appointed to contact the 1947 graduates of Canterbury College. This committee is composed of the following graduates of that class:

OREN KENNETH BAIRD—Repairman on trucks he sold in 1947.

Next year's privileged characters are this year's forgotten men. No one has paid much attention to those luckless individuals squeezed between the out-going seniors and the cocky sophomores. We have not advertised our class standing by ringing bells far into the night or posting bills, but we have left our footprints upon the paths of Canterbury's first year of existence.

The class boasts of such notables as Bob Moore who captained our football team through a hard-knock season climaxed by a victory over Hanover. Others offering their services were George Thompson, Wayne Ziegler, and Ray Burch. Our class was well represented on the basketball team, boasting the high-stepping Jim Springer. In other fields, too, the Juniors are evident. John Oliver takes the pictures; Leo Lehman, general "BTO", Aubrey Robison, public relations; Sam Patitsas, lots of laughs; Charley Alltop, social affairs; Bob Jensen, scholastic honors; Wayne Ziegler, adolescent maturity; George Thompson, hogging the deal; we have girls too, these and a score more Juniors, seniors next year.

The Sophomore Class has been declared the most expeditious and energetic of the four college classes. Early in the year, the Sophomores became aware of the many possibilities whereby funds for the class treasury could be raised. T-shirts, pennants, decals, and letter-stickers were placed on sale by class members.

Voluntarily offering their services, the Sophomores dusted, swept, and arranged the library furniture; all of which made possible the use of the building many weeks before the time of occupancy had been anticipated.

The "Annual Halloween Festival" was successfully sponsored by the Sophomores. It was at this dance that the need for a Canterbury dance orchestra was realized. As a result the "Canterbury Collegians," an able group of nine students, was organized two weeks later.

The first formal social of the new year 1947, was instigated by the Sophomores. The "Valentine Dance" was for the first time introduced on the campus. The Sophomores were credited by arousing a record-breaking crowd.

The First Freshman Class of Canterbury College held its first meeting early last October. Realizing they would be the first to attend a full four years at Canterbury and that their class was definitely the largest organization on the campus, the class of "50" knew it was up to them to lead the way toward the betterment of this new institution. Although not all their endeavors have definitely become accomplishments, the class is very proud of several of its feats.

1st Row—Mrs. Frazier, Collings, Jamieson, Fisher, Rushli, Vandervert, Walker, Pritchett, Tincher
 3rd Row—Millikan, Harper, Johnston, Adams, Johns, Cox, Baker

The first job undertaken by the class was the Homecoming Rally. The class worked hard securing material for the bon-fire, making torches for the parade and on other projects. Although the rally was hampered by a drizzling rain, it was a success of which the class is proud. Our meetings after that were principally those in which were discussed plans for producing more "school spirit" on our campus.

That which the class of "50" prides itself in more than any other is the fact that they became one of the first organizations on the campus to have membership in Founders Association. All members of the class participated in this endeavor and generously donated in order to obtain the needed money. The certificate of their membership in this organization is displayed on the walls of the college cafeteria.

Many members have been outstanding in athletics. The class is well represented in every organization on the campus. The Freshmen are proud of its members and their achievements. They are looking forward to next year when the class of "51" enters and should be as large as ours. The rivalry should be keen and the "school spirit" on our campus should really be boosted.

The Alpha Mu Kappa fraternity was organized in Indianapolis, Indiana in 1904. In 1919 it was merged with Omicron Pi Sigma, national professional fraternity, and received a national charter. In 1933 the Alpha chapter was organized on this campus for the purpose of helping to maintain the educational standards of the institution with which it is connected, to increase the scholastic standing of its members and to promote fellowship. It is an honorary scholastic fraternity and to be admitted one must attain a grade of B or higher.

The Alpha Mu Kappa is active in campus activities. On November 16, home-coming day, the fraternity formed a parade led by the queen. The parade started at Adams Hall and proceeded around the town square and then to Tiber Field in time for the opening kick-off of the game between Canterbury and Defiance. During the same month a smoker was held in the reception room. The meeting was opened with a speech by president Leo Lehman who welcomed the visiting fellows. Refreshments of do-nuts and apple cider were served with plenty of cigarettes and cigars. The evening was spent by playing cards and getting acquainted. A dance was held during December jointly with the Alpha Theta Epsilon sorority. This dance was well attended by campus members and several alumni.

The Alpha Theta Epsilon Sorority is one of the long-established sororities found on the campus and maintains a high scholastic standing. The aims of the sorority are truth, honor, and friendship.

The Alpha Thetas have been very active during the past year. The school year was started off with a scavenger hunt which proved a great success.

Next came Homecoming Day. The Alpha Thetas were very fortunate to have one of their girls, Martha M. Stewart, elected queen for the day's activities. Also two members of her court were Alpha Thetas, namely: Bernice Boze Meltzer and Esther Engle. In the afternoon, a tea was held in the reception room for all of the Alumnae members of the sorority.

In December, the Alpha Thetas, together with the Alpha Mu Kappa Fraternity, sponsored the annual formal Christmas Dance.

ACTIVITIES OF 1946-47

In college, such organizations as our Zeta Sigma fraternity offer an anchorage, a place to come back to . . . a C P for old friends. And once a group of old Zeta Sig's get together, conversation inevitably runs something like this, "Do you remember back in '38' when . . ."; or "Remember the days we used to . . . in '42'." Believe it or not, but someday we will even hear, "Do you remember way way back in '46' when . . ."

. . . the Zeta Sig's wouldn't be outdone at Homecoming and led the parade in Andy's checkered car towing a decorated wagon. That was the day many a former Zeta Sig returned for a quiet get together above Alley's drug store.

. . . at those fall meetings Freddie Franzman, acting as chief chef, fed us chili time and time again . . . we could always count on Jim Springer and 100% attendance at our supper meetings.

. . . the Zeta Sig's sponsored convocation, when for once we held "Sam the Greek" down to something a censor couldn't completely obliterate. The publicity department headed by Baird and Robison made convo the biggest non-compulsory gathering up to that time.

. . . every Zeta Sig found a dollar bill in his balloon at the inauguration dance. Here people were happy to pay a dime for three fluid ounces of pepsi-cola and Speedy Underwood charged Mr. Kendall two bucks to see how we decorated the gym.

. . . at Thanksgiving convocation, the Zeta Sigma Fraternity became the first organization on the campus to join the Founders' Association.

. . . over a hundred of the male populus of Canterbury attended the Zeta Sigma smoker. Big Ben told us how things were in the old days, and Kenny Baird summed-up the present-day fraternity.

. . . Greg Tatman was the only Zeta Sig to ride the Fraternity-sponsored bus to the Wabash game.

. . . the pledges got a little dirty at rough initiation, and the Royal Theater put on its first floor show.

. . . the pledges dressed up as their favorite "characters" for "Hell Week", and grabbed their ankles for autographs.

. . . the Zeta Sigs introduced the "Canterbury Collegians" before the biggest dance crowd in Canterbury's history.

. . . our non-defeated basketball team copped the trophy bought by our friends the Chi Sigmas.

. . . Zeta Sigma's rally at Convocation for the basketball team, and our second "Warrior Stomp."

. . . we lit the Chi Sigmas rally bon-fire and led their torch parade uptown in Andy's checkered limousine.

. . . we accepted into the fold new members on Sunday, March 9, 1947 . . . the best dressed men on the campus. Big Ben, of all people, couldn't remember the Zeta Sig handshake and Mr. Porter, the photographer, became the only non-member to witness the all-secret rites of the Zeta Sigma's formal initiation . . . who let him in Joe!

. . . we all went to the Barn Dance????

Sorority life opened on campus with the week-end of State Teachers' Association. One of the highlights of this time was the annual Psi Chi Luncheon which was held in the Travertine Room of the Lincoln Hotel.

Next on our calendar of events was the Psi Chi rush party. The rush party was at the home of Mrs. Robert King. A good time was had by all.

Sixteen freshman girls pledged Psi Chi. Sally Hubbell, Sallie Vandevent, Gladys Edmondson, Ruth Greenlee, Ann Shannon, Doris Appleby, Mary Kelley, Ava Villars, Sue Johnson, Nina Jamieson, Betty Lyon, Barbara Goodwin, Barbara Bush, Melba Gray and Betty Zimmerman took part in the pledge services which were held at the house.

The Psi Chi Alumni dance on December 7 was a big success and a highlight in college activities.

A lovely formal initiation for nine girls who had made their B average for the semester was held at the home of Mrs. Hazel Herrington.

May 2 was the scene of a spring dance sponsored by the Psi Chi's. This dance was held in the grid room.

College activities and sorority life closed for the seniors with the annual Psi Chi breakfast on the morning of graduation.

IDEALS & PURPOSES

A body of men associated for their common interest, business, and pleasure is the Chi Sigma Brotherhood. The fraternity was organized chiefly to promote friendship and welfare among the members, and between the members and other Canterbury students.

As new as Canterbury College itself is the Chi Sigma Fraternity, organized in 1946. Like the college on which campus it was formed, the fraternity upholds high moral and scholastic standing, and promotes the general welfare of fellow men.

Striving to become national, this united group of outstanding students has been extremely active. Working hand-in-hand with the college administration, the Chi Sigmas energetically endeavor to promote the standing of the school of liberal arts.

The Beta Chapter of Delta Sigma Kappa (National) Sorority was founded at Central Normal College June 19, 1932 with eighteen charter members. The purpose of the organization is to encourage social, moral, and educational advancement.

Though for a short time inactive on the college campus, Beta Chapter has 65 active members, 26 associate members, and 65 Life (Honor Key) members.

Associate members are those who retain membership in the chapter, but do not pay dues and are not eligible for Honor Keys.

Life members are those who have been active members for ten years and have been awarded Honor Keys.

The Delta Sigma Kappa (National) Sorority was first organized at Lafayette, Indiana, November 24, 1924. Since that time 40 chapters have been organized in five different states: Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, Ohio, and Virginia.

Annual conventions are held in various large cities. This year in May, Cleveland will be hostess to Delta Sigma Kappa.

Songs of Canterbury College

VARSITY

(Words and music by Prof. N. E. Winfrey)

Varsity, We're right behind you,
Fight on team we'll all be true,
Varsity, we must remind you
That we're for you thru and thru.
Proud our colors we are flaunting,
Hail to Purple and the Gray—
Varsity we're right behind you,
Canterbury all the way.

HERE'S TO CANTERBURY

(Original by Marion Rice '30 and Phyllis Worshing '46)

A song to Canterbury,
A cheer from you and me,
A praise for Alma Mater
In our hearts will ever be.
Here's to Canterbury,
Here's to our old school
May we always cherish her
All the long years through
Here's to canterbury,
May we give her honor due
Here's to Canterbury,
May we all be true
Then we shall ne'er forget her
May she live through future years
Her name be honored ever
Sing again with rousing cheers.

CANTERBURY BELLS

The Canterbury bells still ring,
Sweet memories to me they bring,
Sweet memories of yesterday
When we were classmates true,
School gave me some friendships true,
The best I ever knew.
I wonder if you hear those bells, old pal,
Those Canterbury bells.

THE ORGANIZATIONS

Student Christian Association

The Student Christian Association, or commonly known as S C A, meets every Tuesday night in the reception room at 7 o'clock. The type of meeting is varied from week to week—speakers, devotions, discussions, and recreation.

This organization stands for "Service to Others." It is a branch of the National Youth Movement—Christian Youth working together.

One of the more impressive services that we have each year is our candlelight commitment service. This is for the purpose of those who desire to sign a pledge for the purpose of being truly a Christian in spirit and service, promoting genuine friendships, and working cooperatively for the highest type Christian life.

At Christmas time, we gave a party for the unfortunate children of Danville in the first three grades of school. The expenses for this party came from the proceeds of a pie supper that we had had early in the year.

Beginning in February, the organization started giving banquets and a recreational time afterward to honor those people on campus who had birthdays in that particular month.

It is a tradition for the SCA to sponsor a stunt night, in which all organizations on campus participate, giving a stunt to be judged by non-prejudiced people. This year stunt night was held on May 13.

We have had several joint meetings with the Canterbury Club. Dr. Haramy of Indianapolis and Father DelNero, a Brazilian Episcopal Priest, have been the outstanding speakers at these meetings.

Officers at the beginning of the fall semester were chosen as follows: president, Kathryn Fisher; vice-president, Bonnie Gross; secretary, Odean Andis; treasurer, Frances Zupancic; song leader, Mildred Bless; and pianist, Viola Beneker. Our faculty sponsors, Miss Bertha Watts and Father L. C. Wolcott deserve praise for their unceasing efforts.

Canterbury Club

A Canterbury Club—affiliated with a section of the Church Society for College Work of the National Council of the Episcopal Church—exists on the Campus for the purpose of fostering mutual assistance and fellowship among students who are members of the Episcopal Church and any students of other religious bodies who desire to participate in the Club's program, to promote a better understanding of the Episcopal Church on the Campus and in the town, and to fulfill the necessary functions in connection with the chapel services that are ordinarily found in a parish church, such as providing servers, Sunday School teachers, and caretakers for the chapel itself.

It has sponsored Lenten noon-day services, an inter-college Retreat at the YMCA Camp in Bedford, a Sadie Hawkin's Day dance, and a shrove Tuesday pancake supper. Interesting speakers have been heard from many parts of the country as well as from within the State itself.

It is hoped that next year the club may be able to participate in providing an accelerated program offering wider devotional, educational, social, and helpful services for the entire campus.

W. A. A.

The Women's Athletic Association (W.A.A.) of Canterbury College is an organization on campus of which any woman student is eligible to become a member. All women interested in the various sports activities such as basketball, volleyball, tennis, bowling, and other minor sports meet regularly each Thursday evening and enjoy good, clean, wholesome activity.

During the past year exhibition basketball games were played in state high schools and also before one college convocation.

Intra-mural basketball was organized and approximately 40 girls participated. An All-County Play Day is sponsored annually by the W.A.A. with participants from each of the 11 high schools in the county.

Officers of the W.A.A. for the past year include:

President .....	Mildred Bless
Vice-President .....	Marjorie Campbell
Sec. Corres. ....	Rosemary Pritchett
Sec. Recording .....	Claudine Alward
Treasurer .....	Betty Winings
Reporter .....	Kathryn Fisher
Sponsor .....	Mrs. Rosemary Frazier

Lettermen Club

An organization of athletes who have won a major award in college athletics. Any man who meets the requirements of winning a major award as established by The Lettermen's Club becomes a member of the "C" Club.

An ideal of the Lettermen's Club is to promote clean sports both on and off the athletic field or in any competitive phase of education.

Each year the Club promotes various social activities for the purpose of obtaining funds with which to purchase Honor Awards for the men who have given their best to earn them.

President .....	Frank L. Hanson
Vice-President .....	Charles Alltop
Secretary .....	George Thompson
Treasurer .....	Robert Moore
Sponsors.....	Coaches, Glenn A. Johnson and Henry G. Miller

English Club

President .....	Ray Harper
Vice-President .....	Dorothy Holbrook
Secretary-Treasurer .....	Helen Hopp
Faculty Adviser .....	Miss Bertha M. Watts

One of the most flourishing clubs on the campus is the English Club, organized in January, 1947. The members of the club number around sixty, including some twenty associate members from the town. Among the activities of the year have been a book review of Gretchen Finletter's "From the Top of the Stairs" by Mrs. H. Talge Brown, a lecture, "Pains and Pleasures in the Life of a Biographer", by Dr. Virginia Harlow of DePauw University, and a performance of "Macbeth" by the Ben Greet Players of New York City. The final lecture for the semester was given by Dr. Stith Thompson of Indiana University, a folklorist of international fame.

Kappa Pi Beta Fraternity

Howard Williams .....	President
John Oliver .....	Vice-President
Helen Hopp .....	Secretary-Treasurer
Esther Engle .....	Keeper of the Archives
Mrs. Blanche M. Wean .....	Faculty Sponsor

Kappa Pi Beta is an honorary Journalistic Fraternity. It was organized as a fraternity which would recognize the efforts of those students who worked on the Crier Staff. In order to become a member of Kappa Pi Beta, a student must have worked at least 18 weeks as a member of the Crier staff.

Those on campus who are members of Kappa Pi Beta are: Howard Williams, John Oliver, Helen Hopp, Esther Engle, Victor Buente, Olive Mosier, Charles Mikels, Mary Davidson, Paul Denson, Mildred Bless, Earl Hudson, Mr. Harley King, and Mrs. Blanche M. Wean.

Campus Crier

The "Campus Crier" is the duplicated college paper which is published weekly by the members of the Journalism Class as a means of promoting campus activities and also as an informational journal.

This was the first year that the "Campus Crier" was published by a Journalism Class. Previously it had been an extra-curricular activity on the part of interested students. Since the Journalism Class began publishing the "Campus Crier", interest in the publication increased tremendously as new features were added as well as a more complete and accurate coverage of activities.

The students comprising the Journalism Class attended lectures on the duplicated paper by Mrs. Blanche M. Wean. Lectures on the printed newspaper were given by Mr. C. Covert Webster, Director of Public Relations and Dr. Edgar C. Cumings, President of Canterbury College lectured on radio writing and editing. Field trips were also made to local publications and Indianapolis newspapers.

Journalism students planning to enter professional schools of Journalism were given adequate writing practice on the Crier and those students planning to teach commerce were thoroughly instructed in the publication of the duplicated paper which many high schools have.

Plans are under way for creating and maintaining a permanent alumni file. A newsletter was sent out to all alumni many of whom have been back visiting the campus and wishing to maintain relations with the fraternity and college. A smoker during the second semester was held Wednesday evening April 16, in the Wigwam with a chili supper preceding the smoker. Alumnus Sylvanus Comer gave a short talk on advantages of a fraternity to the school and to the individual and the points that should be considered when joining a fraternity.

The Alpha Mu Kappa Founders Day Dinner Dance, held annually the first Saturday evening in June is considered the outstanding social event of the year. At this time the mothers of the members are honored guests. Each graduating member of the fraternity receives a gold fraternity key at this occasion. And at the senior convocation, in recognition of the standards of the fraternity which are to promote scholarship, leadership, and character, the annual Alpha Mu Kappa award is given to the outstanding senior man on the campus as decided by a committee consisting of the president of the college, the dean of the college, the dean of men, the sponsor of the fraternity and the president of the fraternity.

Of course everyone was busy during rush week and continued so until after formal initiation, which was held at the home of Mrs. Robert Green on March 3. Sixteen pledges were formally initiated. Also taken into the group as honorary members were Mrs. L. C. Wolcott, and Mrs. Harley King.

On March 23rd the Alpha Thetas held another tea. This time at the home of Mary Jo Thompson in honor of the honorary members.

The most important event of the year came in November when the Canterbury College Founders' Club gave organizations the opportunity to become founders. The Alpha Thetas were the first sorority to do this.

The Alpha Thetas attribute their great success of the year to the cooperative effort on the part of the officers, members, honorary members, alumnae and co-sponsors: Mrs. William M. Hillegas and Mrs. W. E. Johnson, who have worked so diligently with the sorority the entire year.

give their lives meaning and direction . . . There is room in Indiana for more private colleges which have standards and which can justify their existence. I believe that Canterbury College will justify its existence sooner than many of you think."

The Founders Association Banquet at the Columbia Club, in Indianapolis, preceded the formal inauguration. The keynote speaker for that occasion was Dr. Clark G. Kuebler, President of Ripon College, Ripon, Wisconsin. Dr. Kuebler has traveled widely and is considered one of the country's foremost speakers and churchmen. Lyman B. Whitaker, now assistant to the President at Canterbury College, and formerly a member of the board of trustees, was chairman of the dinner committee. According to Mr. Whitaker the purpose of the dinner, which drew some 350 people from all parts of the state, was to acquaint the college constituency with future plans of the Episcopal school.

Dr. Kuebler, in his address, stressed the importance of liberal education in defeating our totalitarian enemies and preserving freedom. "No nation", he said, "can remain free except as it grows in enlightenment. Hence, the importance of education, if we are to defeat tyranny in its more subtle as well as its obvious forms and thus ultimately achieve the aims for which we fought in World War II."

FOOTBALL

Canterbury opened the football season with a squad, large in number but small in experience. Around two or three veterans of the gridiron Coach Miller set about the task of building a team. The entire backfield had to be filled with eager but inexperienced men. The development shown after a few weeks of training was amazing and when the date of the first game rolled around Canterbury showed up with eleven determined men plus a group of reserves who were eager for a position in the lineup.

A glance at the season's record does not tell the complete story. At the time the team was losing seven straight contests and winning one they were developing a background of the fundamentals of the gridiron, a spirit of determination, and a sense of the value of absolute cooperation, teamwork, and fair play. Canterbury had a winning team in more respects than one. In their last game of the season, and on a muddy, cold field, they came out of the losing column to defeat a highly favored Hanover eleven 7-0.

Robert Moore, a junior at Canterbury, was elected captain of the team. Leo Dooley, a freshman, was voted the most valuable player of the year. Robert Courtney, a freshman who hails from Elwood, not only proved to be the high scorer for the season, but was given mention on the All-State second team at the halfback position along with George Thompson at tackle.

In view of the development and improvement made by an almost entire freshman team during the past season, Canterbury may well look forward to the 1947 season with a feeling of confidence to winning a high percentage of their games.

BASKETBALL

The high-lights in sports this year were found in the Canterbury basketball team. The record of thirteen wins against nine losses does not begin to tell the story of the twenty-two thrill-packed performances turned in by the hardwood squad. Around 6' 9" Jim Springer and speedy Frank Hanson, Coach Johnson moulded one of the toughest net teams in midwestern competition. A fan would have to look a long time before he found a team that could turn in as brilliant a performance as this group of boys. With plenty of reserve power to back the starting five, it turned out to be a "man-sized" job to hold them from going rampant on a scoring spree. The team as a whole connected for 414 baskets and 357 foul goals during the season, giving them a total of 1185 points. Of the 545 foul shots attempted, they missed only 188 giving them a .655 average—which is good shooting in any man's language. The team committed 345 personal fouls during the season and, of these, their opponents made 228 and missed 175, giving them a .556 average.

Canterbury opened their schedule at DePauw Univ., losing a hard fought battle, 56-43. However, they came back a few nights later and handed Anderson College a 47-40 lacing. During Christmas vacation the net team invaded the Butler fieldhouse only to drop a tough one to the Bulldogs in the last few minutes 59-54. The next two games were on the road and after romping over Huntington 73-59, they dropped a close one to an unheralded Manchester quintet. This, however, was avenged later by a sound trouncing administered on the home floor.

Probably the most outstanding game of the season was played on the night of February 25, when Johnny Wilson and the Anderson quintet invaded the Canterbury gym to avenge the earlier setback they had received. This game was broadcast over the Anderson station and drew a capacity crowd who came to see "Mr. Basketball" of Anderson pitted against "Big Jim" Springer of Canterbury. Wilson was the leading scorer in the state and Springer was holding down a close second place. When the contest ended, Jim had not only succeeded in holding the high scoring Wilson to 10 points, but had also outscored him by dumping in 14 for himself.

In view of their outstanding record for the season, Canterbury received a bid to the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball Tourney at Kansas City. The squad made the trip by auto and in their first game, without previous practice on the Kansas City playing floor, succeeded in downing a stubborn Western North Carolina State quintet 68-55. Again Jim Springer carried away the scoring honors. In the second game, although leading throughout the first half, they dropped their chance of advancing further in the tourney to Kansas State Teachers by a score of 60-48. In spite of the fact that the team was playing without the support of its usual Canterbury rooting section, their outstanding play and fine sportsmanship drew for them the moral support of the huge crowd that was in attendance.

The All-State selection of the outstanding five players of the colleges in the state placed Springer at the pivot position. A glance at his scoring record shows 448 points in his favor, scored in 22 games of play. Thirty-seven of these points were scored against Defiance on the night that he broke the former gymnasium scoring record of 35 points, set by Frank Gibbs in 1946. Jim's average per game for the twenty-two contests was 20.36 points. This gave him a solid hold on the second place in the state scoring. Jim is a junior at Canterbury and we look forward to seeing him in action again next year.

The selection of the most valuable player of the year went to Captain Frank Hanson. Frank scored a total of 209 points in the season of play. Of these 209 points, 156 were scored from the field and 53 from the charity line. The outstanding ability shown, not only as captain of the team, but in uncanny footwork on the playing floor won Frank a place in the hearts of Canterbury fans. He was also given honorable mention on the All-State team for 1947. This will be Frank's last year in college competition, as he is graduating in June, but we are sure we will see some of his fine ability reflected in his teams as he goes into the coaching field.

Of the 1947 varsity team, Hanson, Underwood, Thompson, and Byers are completing their last year. However, with material remaining like Springer, Alltop, Pollard, Gibbs, and the Casselman brothers, we can look forward to an outstanding team again in 1948. In addition we also boast of an up-and-coming freshman team, many of whom show prospects of filling the varsity vacancies in every way.

The 1946 baseball team finished their season with just a fair record of 5 victories against 14 losses. However, a large number of the team are again in uniform this spring and with the fine schedule before them, have high hopes of staying in the winning column.

Bernard Deer was captain of the 1946 nine, with Cantrell handling a large portion of the pitching chore. Those receiving letters for the season were Alltop, Cantrell, Deer, Duncan, Hanson, Mack, Moore, O'Brien, Ressler, Schliefer, and Wasson.

TRACK AND CROSS-COUNTRY

Track and cross-country began to make a showing in 1946 with the many veterans returning from service. Teams that appeared on the schedule were Rose Poly, Ball State, Butler, Wabash, Anderson, Franklin, and Indiana Central.

Joe Hodge, a junior at Canterbury, was proclaimed the winner of the 100 yard dash in the Little State Meet. He went ahead to capture second place in the 220 yard dash later in the day. Joe is on the team again this year and we are looking forward to seeing him carry away the laurels at the 1947 State Meet.

The 1946 Cross-country team engaged in three contests during the first semester. Of these, Canterbury was victorious against both Franklin and Indiana Central, losing only to Anderson. Members of the team who won monograms were Harper, Hodge, Johnston, O'Brien, and Swackhamer.

TENNIS

Under the able guidance of Mrs. Rosemary Frazier, tennis has moved to the foreground in the field of sports at Canterbury in the past year. Handicapped by a late start, the spring team of 1947 made a formidable showing. The team consisted of Meltzer, Ellis, Spall, and Tanselle. After receiving a setback from Earlham, 6-0, Meltzer went ahead to represent the team in the second round of the Little-State Tourney by defeating his opponent from Indiana State Teachers College.

This year, with several veterans of the court back in action and a number of new faces in the lineup, Mrs. Frazier has hopes of a very fine season's record. Those reporting for tennis, but not pictured are Olaf Ellis, Homer Hargrave, Jr., George Eddy, William Stoner, and Max Cameron.

GOLF

Under the instruction of Prof. N. E. Winfrey, golf made its appearance among the many sports in 1946. Those participating were Gordon Jay, Charles Bryant, Bob Duncan, Frank Hanson, Bob Andrews, and Gerald Burton. The team placed 3rd in the Little State Golf Meet. Bob Duncan held low score for the locals.

This year a number of new faces have been added to those remaining from last seasons team. They include Hollenbach, Johnston, and Sykes. The schedule calls for meets with Franklin, Anderson, and Indiana State, leading up to the Little-State Tourney to be held at Terre Haute on May 23.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

With the opening of the fall semester at Canterbury strong emphasis was placed upon physical education for all students. It took something like the dreadful war that America has just experienced to make the people realize just how physically unfit they could allow their bodies to become. With the return of "Hank" Miller from several years in the service, and now in charge of the men's physical education department, the college launched upon a rigorous physical program.

The required physical education program for freshmen and sophomores has been outlined for the immediate benefit of the student and his future leisure time activity. It is the purpose of the entire program to introduce plays and games for leisure, plays and games that tend to develop individuals into sound citizens of the community. Free play and preparation for future recreational and social problems is the motive behind the entire program. These will lead to a full life and a better relationship between the individual and those with whom he associates. The recreational sports are introduced and carried forth so that mastery of, and study in technique and rules, can be applied and adapted by the individual within a group. The specific design of recreational sports is to develop interest, appreciation and skill that have social value and at the same time increase the physical vigor of the individual. A health and physical examination of each student is carried out in order that his state of health may be maintained or even improved during his participation in physical activities.

Some of the sports that have been studied in the courses during the past year include touch football, tennis, cross-country, technique of driving in golf, basketball, apparatus work, fundamentals of wrestling, boxing and tumbling, corrective-remedial gymnastics, rules and techniques of indoor sports, fly-casting, soccer, bowling and horseshoe.

Intramural sports have been extremely popular under the direct supervision of the physical education department. This year approximately twelve organizational teams participated in the basketball and bowling leagues. Among the teams represented were the Chi Sigma, Alpha Mu Kappa, and Zeta Sigma Fraternities plus a number of individually organized teams comprising a large percentage of the men on the campus who were not, at the time, engaged in some similar varsity sport. The Chi Sigma Fraternity established an intramural award for the winning team which, this year, was the Zeta Sigmas. Preparations are underway to organize an intramural softball league to furnish outdoor physical activities during the spring portion of the second semester.

The physical education program for women has been greatly expanded this year, under the able guidance of Mrs. Rosemary Frazier. It is felt that all women on the campus can benefit by participation in recreational activities and to this end the program has been developed. By next year there will be courses offered that can be advantageous to every coed on the campus regardless of physical conditions, handicaps, etc. Although the activities are offered primarily for recreational value, everyone should have an appreciation and understanding of the athletics common to our American way of life—not only as participants but also as observers.

With the above aims in view, a two year required program for all women has been set up at Canterbury. In the freshmen year the students receive an introduction to plays and games for leisure time activity. Such are intended to create a physically wholesome, mentally stimulating and socially sound student. During the sophomore year the study of advanced techniques in free play and preparation for future recreation and social problems comprise the course. These tend to lead to a full life and to a better relationship through activities.

Some of the courses offered in the past year have been volley ball, badminton, tennis, basketball, shuffle-board, gymnastics, posture, archery, rhythmic, golf, softball and bowling. A rather thorough study has been made of the rules and techniques pertaining to each and they are followed up by both written and skill tests to determine the actual value gained from such studies. Special attention is given to the learning of officiating in many of the sports. In rhythmic classes various types of dancing are taught including social, tap, modern, and folk.

As an extracurricular part of the women's athletic program intramural sports received much enthusiastic support during the past year, of which bowling and basketball were the two most outstanding. A bowling award was established known as the Hillegas Cup which is to be presented each year to the girl who bowls the highest single game during league or tournament play. Each year the winner's name is to be engraved upon the trophy by the Women's Athletic Association. This year the award went to Georgia O. Andis. This trophy was donated by Mrs. Hillegas, whose husband is the present dean of the college. In addition to this the W. A. A. also presents an award to the individual with the highest average score during the entire bowling season. Barbara Goodwin received this trophy.

For the past three years the Women's Physical Education Department and the Women's Athletic Association have sponsored a "Play Day" for all the schools in Hendricks County. This gives the girls of the high schools an opportunity to set into practice their knowledge of the many games and to develop student leadership in such worthwhile activities. This year there were over eighty girls from surrounding schools who attended and participated in the winter play day. Basketball, shuffle-board, badminton, table tennis and darts were enjoyed throughout the morning, with a group luncheon in the Wig Wam at noon. The afternoon was spent in showing movies of the various physical activities. Spring "Play Day" will be held May 10 and at this time, such sports as track and field events, softball, volley ball, and archery will be the sports around which the program of the day will be built.

THE MUSIC

One of the oldest established groups is the band. A small band was maintained during the war under the direction of Miss Marjorie Gaston. Mr. Tillman Hadley was appointed band director at the beginning of the fall semester and the organization started to grow. Frank Meltzer was elected president of the band, Marion White assumed the duties of librarian, and Colinette Walton was elected secretary-treasurer.

The band was present at President Cumming's inauguration and played a short concert before this historic event.

Mr. James I. Skidmore took charge of the band with the beginning of the second semester and more students found it possible to participate.

The band provided enthusiasm for our victorious teams. A band concert at convocation was also played on April 24. Many of the band members assisted in supervising the State High School Band Contest which was held in Danville, May 3, 1947.

In June, the band played for Commencement exercises presenting a short concert before the program and furnishing the processional and recessional, thus ending a successful and active year.

In order to have a fuller instrumentation, several High School students were welcomed into the band membership. Following is the band personnel: Clarinets—Robert Jensen, Danville, Junior; George Eddy, Rushville, Freshman; Jack Lynch, Roachdale, Freshman; Virginia Swarthout, Aurora, Sophomore; Martha Marie Stewart, Danville, Senior; Viola Beneker, Brooksville, Sophomore; Doris Appleby, Clayton, Freshman; Ruth Davisson, High School, Junior. Trumpets—Marion White, Cambridge City, Junior; David Clark, High School, Junior; Norman Davis, New Albany, Freshman; Elizabeth Manning, Danville, Special Student. Oboe—Martha Stevenson, High School, Junior. Bassoon—Beverly Alley, High School, Junior. French Horn—Richard Mote, Indianapolis, Sophomore; Dale Miller, Danville, Freshman. Baritones—Donell Hunt, Danville, Freshman; John Rushton, Clayton, Freshman. Trombones—Frank Meltzer, Hammond, Senior; Kathryn Gerth, Bridgeport, Junior. Percussion—Robert Percy, Danville, Freshman; Gregg Tattman, Danville, Sophomore; Mildred Bless, Indianapolis, Senior; Willa Dean Harris, Danville, Freshman; Maria Featherston, Montezuma, Senior.

Another of the oldest musical organizations on the campus is the Canterbury Choir. This singing group is not competitive nor is it required, but a large number of students participate in and enjoy this organization.

During the past year the choir, composed of about thirty-five students, has presented special music for Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter convocations in the College chapel. One of the traditions of the Choir is that the members and any other students who so desire always carol for the sick and shut-ins after the presentation of the Christmas program. This group also furnishes the special music for the College Baccalaureate each year. The Choir presented a musical program for an evening service at the Christian Church of Danville, last fall.

It has been the custom of the music department to take a trip each year to one of the state parks just before the close of the school year. This custom, however, was discontinued during the war period because of the lack of transportation, but this year participants in any of the musical organizations for the last two semesters will be eligible for the trip.

The Canterbury Belles, a competitive singing sextet, is a growing tradition of the college. Try-outs were held for the year, 1946 and 47 on October 1, 1946 and the following girls were chosen: First sopranos—Colinette Walton, North Salem, Sophomore; Carolyn Lindley, Tangier, Freshman; Second sopranos—Martha Marie Stewart, Danville, Senior; Donna Pogue, Danville, Freshman; Altos—Mildred Bless, Indianapolis, Senior; Barbara Goodwin, Danville, Freshman.

The Belles made their initial appearance at Convocation on October 17, 1946 at which time they sang two numbers—"Prayer Perfect" by E. J. Stenson and "Teach Me, O Lord" by Bernard Hamblen. On December 9, 1946, Miss Carolyn Lindley was replaced by Miss Ava Villars, of Frankfort—another Freshman. One of the outstanding experiences came when the Belles sang at the Founder's Day Dinner at the Columbia Club on November 15, where they introduced the beautiful new school song, "A Toast to Canterbury" which was composed by Miss Gaston. Another enjoyable trip was made to Marion, where they sang for a banquet in the Episcopal Parish House. On February 14, they sang at the Episcopal Parish in South Bend and March 27, they went to Terre Haute to sing at another Canterbury Banquet. During spring vacation the Belles volunteered to tour to Bedford, Ft. Wayne and Richmond to sing for three more banquets. Beside all of these engagements, the Belles have sung for many other occasions including weddings, parties, baccalaureates, commencement, Church services, funerals, and club programs.

There is no limit to the time these girls will spend to make a good performance and much credit is given to Miss Gaston, the patient, hard working leader that she is, who has had "Belles" since 1944 and 45 and until 1946 they were known as the "Belles of C.N.C." The girl's sextet was first organized in 1935 by Miss Orma Weber, now Mrs. Leslie I. Steinback, then head of the music department at Central Normal College. When Miss Gaston became head of the department in 1937, she had only six girls singing, but in the fall of 1944, there were from seven to eight girls in the organization and it was at this time that Miss Gaston suggested the name of "Belles of C.N.C." as there was a school song "The Bells of C.N.C." which became the theme song of the "Belles".

Each year the "Belles" have an "outing" in the summer. Last summer they heard the opera "Romeo and Juliet" with Jeannette McDonald singing the role of Juliet, in Cincinnati, Ohio, and this year they hope to hear an opera in St. Louis.

This group of girls has given much time and effort for their school, but they feel that they have been the ones who are richer in their wonderful experiences and their evergrowing circle of friends.

THE CARILLONAIRES

One of the youngest organizations on the campus is the Carillonaires. The males, not to be outdone by the opposite sex, made their first appearance on the Canterbury Campus in October of 1946.

The original group was composed of Everett Green and Harold Edmonson, first tenors; Floyd Hadley and John Rogers, second tenors; Robert Percy and Kenneth Coleman, baritones; and James Reed and Frank Meltzer, basses. Following the Christmas vacation Everett Green graduated and John Rogers transferred, so it was necessary to replace these gentlemen. Charles Sykes took Everetts place as first tenor and Arthur Michael replaced John Rogers. The director of the group is Miss Gaston.

Harold Edmonson is more or less a local boy, living south of Danville at Clayton, Indiana. Harold is a Junior this year and expects to graduate next year. Charles Sykes, "Chuck" to all, is a Chicago boy, mostly West Chicago. Floyd Hadley, "Flid", is a local talent man from Danville. "Flid" will be with the group for a while, being a Freshman. Arthur Michael, "Mike" is another Claytonite and a Senior. Kenneth Coleman, "Kenny" hails from Marshall, Indiana, though a Freshman, expects to be in Purdue next year. Robert Percy, "Bob", another local boy, a Freshman with three years to go. James Reed, "Jim", also a Freshman, is another Chicagoan, and furnishes the low, low bass. Frank Meltzer, "Frankie", is the other Senior of the group and is from Hammond.

This group of men has been in much demand since its organization and makes a fine companion organization for the Belles.

THE BELLAIRES

The Bellaires as may well be seen is the combination of the two organizations, the Belles, and the Carillonaires. The Bellaires have sung on all the musical programs at the college this year and have performed at several schools including Avon and Plainfield Boys' School. A broadcast was given over WIBC with the separate groups, the Belles and the Carillonaires, and also with the combined organizations. The Bellaires participated in the annual stunt night which is sponsored by the Student Christian Association.

THE VIOLANA QUARTET

Another organization which is carrying on its former reputation is the Violana Quartet. This year the quartet consists of 3 violinists, Mrs. Margery Clay, graduate of C. N. C. and now vocal supervisor at the High School, Juliet Spencer, graduate of C. N. C. 1946 and now music supervisor at Avon, Miss Marjorie Gaston, and Miss Gladys Edmondson, pianist.

The Student Council

Reed, Hudson, Bless, Neel, Platt, Schleifer, Kirts

The Student Council of Canterbury College is an organization made up of representatives from each class. The purpose of the organization is to govern student activities and carry all problems from the students to the Student Faculty Committee. Also it sends on to the Administration any problem which comes to its attention and which it has no power to control. The council attempts to promote good will on the campus and to help in the orientation of new students.

This years council consisted of the following members, Robert Platt, Russell Kirts and Earl Hudson, Senior Class; Mildred Bless and Leo Layman, Junior Class; Bill Schleifer and Bonnie Gross, Sophomore Class; and Jim Reed and Jim Gephart, Freshman Class.

The following are the officers for the 1946-1947 school year:

Robert Platt .....	President
Bill Schleifer .....	Treasurer
Bonnie Gross .....	Secretary

Plans are being made for the setting up of a soda fountain in the basement of the gymnasium, new election rules have been set up for the coming year, and the name of the year book was chosen through the student body by the Student Council. This organization is becoming more and more useful to the students of Canterbury College and speaking for the council as a whole, we wish to congratulate the 1947 Graduating Class of Canterbury College and wish them all the success possible.

HOMEcoming

Homecoming was celebrated at Canterbury College on November 2. The main feature of the day was the football game between the Canterbury Varsity and Defiance of Ohio. Other events were the crowning of the homecoming queen, the alumni banquet, the homecoming dance, and the sorority teas and fraternity get-togethers honoring alumni of the college.

The activities began with the arrival at the football field of the queen, Martha Marie Stewart, and her court consisting of Esther Engle, Ila Mae Holtzclaw, Berniece Boze Meltzer, and Rosetta Helderman. At the half-time period Miss Stewart was officially crowned as Homecoming Queen for 1946-47 at Canterbury College by Edwin Zarse, president of the senior class.

Immediately following the game, the various sororities and fraternities of the campus entertained their members and alumni at luncheons and short informal meetings. The annual alumni dinner was held at 6 o'clock in the Wigwam. Dr. H. M. Whisler gave the main address of the banquet. Other speakers were: Dr E. C. Cumings and Harry Neimeyer, Toastmaster for the occasion.

The Homecoming Queen reigned over the annual dance, sponsored by the senior class, which was held in the Grid Room at 8 o'clock in the evening. The Grand March was led by the queen and her escort, Edwin Zarse. The dance was one of the most successful activities of the campus during the year and drew together a large number of students, alumni, and townspeople who spent the evening dancing to the music of Bill Breedlove and his 8-piece orchestra, and renewing acquaintances with their many friends.

It is customary at Canterbury for the senior class to be in complete charge of the homecoming activities. The homecoming queen is selected from the student body by popular vote a few days prior to homecoming day. This year her court consisted of a representative from each of the four classes. In like manner, these representatives were chosen by vote of the individual classes of which they were members.

Who's Who

"Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" is a national organization which recognizes outstanding seniors in colleges and universities throughout the United States. The following persons were chosen for the 1946-47 membership by a committee of faculty members who took into consideration activities, scholarship, and leadership capacities: Mildred Bless, Martha Marie Stewart, Esther Engle, Kenneth Baird and Robert Moore.

Miss Bless is a member of the Belles, Alpha Theta Epsilon Sorority, Women's Athletic Association, Kappa Pi Beta, Association of Women's Students, Student Christian Association, Band and Chorus. Miss Stewart is a member of Alpha Theta Epsilon Sorority, Student Christian Association, Women's Athletic Association, Association of Women's Students, Student Faculty Committee, Band, Chorus, and The Belles. Miss Engle is a member of the Alpha Theta Epsilon Sorority, Kappa Pi Beta, English Club and the Crier Staff. Mr Baird is a member of the Zeta Sigma Fraternity, Veterans Club, and Student Faculty Committee. Mr. Moore is a member of the Lettermens Club, Zeta Sigma Fraternity, and captain of the Football Team.

THE VETERANS

After the defeat of our aggressors on both sides of the world, we Veterans who came to Canterbury College in search of higher learning, organized a club for the purpose of helping the Veteran to help himself, both socially and academically, as he ventured into a society torn by war.

"For God, Our Country and Our School" readily expresses our sole purpose, but The Veterans Club has served us in many ways by sponsoring dances, picnics and social events that molds us into the friendly student body that so well represents Canterbury College.

THE DEPARTMENTS

Science Department

The science departments have been making a rapid recovery from the war-time slump which hit all of the educational institutions of the country.

A few living plants and animals have made their home in the biology laboratories from time to time and for greater or less periods of time.

Most of the specimens left over from before the war were used up.

Probably the highlight of the Physics Department was the day when Kedric Sturgeon developed over two horsepower while leaving the Wigwam Cafeteria. There has been much speculation as to what might have been the result had he been entering instead of leaving the room.

A great advance in the science of physics was made with the discovery of the "Hawley Method" of solving physics problems. This method is exclusive with Canterbury students.

Paul Denson gave everyone quite a scare by not reading the label on a bottle of potassium permanganate. Everyone was glad when it was found that his hand was not burned as badly as it appeared at first.

Mr. Hillegas regrets that he was forced to discontinue teaching chemistry before he had achieved a really notable explosion of some sort, any sort. He also feels that the rayon mills are safe from competition for the present.

The seniors can look back on their last years here, and feel very much heartened over the future of the science departments. A lot of real progress has been made in the development of the physical equipment for all of the sciences.

The upturn started with the addition of a set of about 30 type specimens of different animals. This has made it possible for students to actually see examples of most of the things referred to in their books.

The next advance came when an instrument specialist came along and overhauled all the optical equipment. He put the microscopes and the spectrometers in good working order.

The motor-generator was placed in operative condition and the old half horsepower motor put out nearly double its rated power. Since then a lot of the expensive electrical measuring equipment has been put back into use.

Latest arrival on the top floor of Hargrave is a big electric vacuum pump. A lot of extra equipment for the study of atmospheric pressure came even before the pump arrived.

Plans for the coming year anticipate even greater progress than has been possible before.

All told, we look forward to having, at Canterbury, some of the finest laboratories to be found in any of the small colleges around us. Graduates can rest assured that the fun they had will not die here on the campus and as they return year after year there will be more and more of tradition to make Canterbury a place to remember every day from now on.

Mathematics Department

In the past year increasing interest has been shown in the field of mathematics. With the swift advancement of modern science, mathematics has played a vital and important part in the world of today. Every individual is beginning to realize the essential value of mathematics—it is no longer just a required, but almost a necessary course of study.

The importance of mathematics has not escaped the attention of the officials of Canterbury College. A long range mathematical program is being worked out. New courses such as Descriptive Astronomy, Teachers Arithmetic and Advanced Trigonometry are being added to the program.

A knowledge of mathematics is essential to those students studying for business, pre-engineering, both mechanical and chemical, medicine, and for the teaching profession. There are many useful parts which lessen the work of an engineer, scientists, or business man.

Foreign Language Department

The study of foreign language has two objectives, of which the first is cultural and the second is utilitarian.

The ability to read and use a foreign language is a very important factor in a liberal education. It has incomparable value in enabling the student to read the words, think the thoughts and see the point of view of another people whose thoughts flow in different channels from our own. With this ability one can come nearer to comprehending the reasoning, appreciating the attitude and philosophy of life of foreign peoples whom the narrowing boundaries of the modern world are bringing ever nearer to our door.

The ancient languages, Latin and Greek, are of preeminent cultural value. These are the fountain out of which has flowed the stream of Occidental culture.

These are the quarry from which has been dug, the rock from which has been hewn the great literatures of Western Europe, particularly the English. The great English writers of the past all received classical educations and when they wrote, their minds and their pens unconsciously followed the channels in which they had been trained, with the result that our great literature follows closely the classical traditions of Greece and Rome. They borrowed its style and subject matter and expressed it all in the words and sentence structure that they and their reading public knew so well from their childhood study of Latin and Greek.

A knowledge of these ancient languages will open the door to new meanings of our own great literature and reveal to the student the greatness of some of the greatest books that ever put wings on the shoulders of the souls of men.

The utilitarian advantages of language study are easily apparent. They offer great opportunities to those who wish to teach. They are indispensable for those who wish to travel in foreign lands with some understanding of the meaning of things they see and hear. A knowledge of a foreign language may be of great value to one who wishes to engage in business in another land.

Department of English

The program of studies offered by the English Department this year, while aiming to be sufficiently broad to meet the varying needs of the regular liberal arts students, teachers-in-training, and returned Service men and women, has stressed high attainment in a limited group of subjects for which there have been adequate facilities for doing effective work.

Besides the required freshman composition course, only a few English courses have been offered each semester. These few, however, have been taken as electives by a reasonably large number of students.

The following courses have been given in 1946-1947: English Composition, Advanced Composition, Public Speaking, Practice of Dramatic Art, World Literature, World Drama, Victorian Literature, Shakespeare, and The Modern Novel.

The English majors (some forty in number) constitute an interesting group. Virtually all of them have shown a high sense of personal responsibility; some have done distinctive work in their chosen field of study.

One student who is majoring in athletics has shown a remarkable fondness for poetry, having taken all the poetry courses offered since his return from the Service, and having surprised everyone (including his teacher) by the number of poems he has voluntarily committed to memory.

This year's freshman composition classes, like those of other colleges, have included many veterans. These ubiquitous GI's, according to their teachers, have brought new life into the course through their energy, their fine spirit of inquiry, and their exceptionally wide experience.

The English Club, composed of students, faculty, and towns people, has for its chief objectives the development of scholarly activities in the field of English, and the fostering of sincere and happy relationships—not only academic relationships but the no less enriching relationships which are provided when persons with tastes and interests in common work together to accomplish a worthwhile task. The club has sponsored a series of auditorium events bringing lecturers and outstanding artists to the college and community.

Social Studies

Our long cherished department has disintegrated but we have a feeling that we and everyone connected with the department are to be congratulated. Already separate departments of History and Political Science have been set up and we hope that departments of Economics and Sociology will soon arise from the wreckage.

The second stage of this process of disintegration might well take the form of a subdivision of the History Department into Divisions of American and European, or World History. New courses have been added in advanced American History dealing with each of the four sectional areas of the United States. Plans seem well under way toward the requirement of two full college years of study in a survey of World civilizations. A corresponding broadening and enriching of the offerings in each of the other departments in the field of the Social Studies may well take place and faculty members be added to make this possible.

Professor Vincent Crane has made an excellent contribution to this type of improvement in the Department of Political Science and is also planning some new courses in Sociology. The growing interest in Human Relations on a global scale is convincing argument for intensifying our college training in the Social Studies and in the Humanities in general. Finally the shift from a teacher to a liberal arts type of college might be proposed as a final appeal for such an understanding and application of those finer arts of living as will point the way to peace on earth and good will among men.

Art

For the past year the Canterbury Art Department has been improving and increasing in enrollment since its activities were interrupted by the war. New courses have been added to its curriculum, and new methods of instruction have been tried and found successful.

An outstanding innovation in this year's program was the introduction of several courses of general cultural value and interest. These courses were popular with students who desired the work as an elective to be taken as an addition to the development of the cultural background of their college work. The art appreciation course, for example, was a valuable aid in revealing to students the possibilities of the subject as a basis for the enjoyment of art treasures throughout their lives.

The department was fortunate in being able to carry out a program of exhibitions obtained from New York City's Museum of Modern Art. The first show was on view in the Reception Room of the Administration Building from November 20 to December 4, and consisted of a superbly mounted collection of French drawings.

The second exhibition, from January 30 to February 14, was titled "A Century of Photography" and consisted of processes of photography from its invention by Daguerre down to the present time. The third and last in the series of exhibitions was a showing of the graphic arts.

Exhibitions in nearby cities and in other Colleges and universities were attended by members of the department. Interesting trips were made to Indianapolis for the opening of the Encyclopedia Britannica collection of modern American art, and later for another modern art exhibition of cubism and non-objective painting. The art students also attended the following: The Indiana Artists' exhibit at L. S. Ayres', the Tri-State graphic arts show at Blocks' Auditorium, the Hoosier Salon, and the private showings in the galleries at Lieber's and Lyman's.

The Art Department has many plans for the coming year, which include the re-establishment of the Art Club which was founded in 1936.

Education

The change of Canterbury College from an institution whose primary purpose was that of preparing teachers, to one with a truly liberal arts purpose, has not yet had much effect upon the number of students in the department. Perhaps it never will. In relation to education, the real purpose of the college is to prepare strong teachers with a liberal arts background.

Of the 325 students enrolled this year, 187 were in this department. Of the 187 preparing to teach, only 13 were making definite preparations for the elementary field. During the year, 47 took their work in student teaching and have made application for licenses.

This does not fit well the picture showing the need for teachers. It is to be hoped that more and more will become interested in the elementary work.

The school is accredited by the State Department of Education for the preparation of both primary and intermediate elementary teachers. In addition to this, accreditation has been received for the preparation of high school teachers in the fields of art, commerce, English, French, Latin, mathematics, music, physical education and health, science, options I and II, and social studies, options I, II, and III.

Rather frequent changes in the regulations of the State Department of Education causes some confusion in the choice of subjects in this department. All students matriculating since September 1, 1946, make their preparation on the basis of the new regulations, while those entering the field previous to that date may choose to follow this or to continue operation under the old regulations.

The college maintains a placement department which is headed by the Director of Teacher Education. It is designed to assist present students and previous graduates in their efforts to secure suitable teaching positions. In addition to the placement of teachers, the department is interested in assisting all graduates in their efforts to secure positions.

There is no thought of forcing these efforts upon any person, but the help will be given to anyone requesting it. There is no charge for the service.

Department of Religion

During the year at Canterbury, two courses have been offered in the field of religion—Old Testament and New Testament. These have been survey courses of the Old and New Testaments. Since these courses met with so much success a larger variety and selection of similar courses will be offered next year. Among the new additions will be "The Life of Christ", "Great Missionaries", "Church History", and "Non-Christian Religions." The course in Non-Christian Religions will take up the great Non-Christian philosophy and practices.

As the extracurricular part of the Department of Religion the regular services of the Episcopal Church have been conducted at St. Augustine's Chapel at frequent intervals. Attendance at such services have not been compulsory due to the opinion that the instilling of Christian ideals and principles would not be accomplished by this method.

Further extracurricular activities of this department are found in the Student Christian Association and the Canterbury Club. These organizations provide social centers where students who are religiously minded may get together in fellowship and link their social activities with a religious background.

Psychology

All eager and expectant, sixty students new to psychology faced the instructor the first day of class.

That was the question—What is psychology? Hours later the instructor, checking the papers, found an amazing array of answers. Sixty of them, in fact, and each one a little different from the last. One student thought psychology was "something that taught you how to get along with people." Another considered it to be "the act of reading minds." Still another informed the now dazzled and confused instructor that "psychology was about the different organs of the body and how they worked." "How to understand what you believed and know why you do what you do" was another.

Two students out of the sixty realized that psychology is a science. Three others were aware of the fact that its subject matter is behavior. So the fall semester of 1946 began with a bang in the department of psychology at Canterbury College.

There is, perhaps, no other field today that is as misrepresented and misunderstood as the field of psychology. The beginning student is prone to look upon it as some mysterious, powerful field of knowledge which will answer all the questions starting with why. One reason for this is that the field has grown so rapidly. It has so recently gained its present scientific status from its non-scientific roots. General Psychology, as it is taught at Canterbury College, attempts to acquaint the student with the history and development of psychology, it presents major viewpoints, and its methods and aims. More advanced courses offer the student knowledge of the practical applications of psychology, the study of mental hygiene, personality, counseling and guidance, and abnormal psychology. Of special value to students who plan to teach are courses in child and adolescent psychology.

Sometimes the student who takes an introductory course in psychology finishes the semester with a feeling of disappointment. Psychology, he thinks, will teach him how to win friends and influence people. Instead he is introduced to a whole new series of terms, concepts, and viewpoints. He learns that the experts in psychology do not agree and that there are usually a number of different answers to a single question. Certainly psychology has as one of its chief aims a better understanding of oneself and one's fellow man, but this understanding can't be gained in a single academic semester. The college freshman who plans to be a construction engineer does not expect to be able to build a bridge after a single course in physics, nor does the pre-med expect to perform an appendectomy when he has had only one semester of physiology. The same is true of psychology, which is, you will remember, a science which concerns itself with the behavior of organisms.

Business Department

The business department faculty has consisted of Mr. Harley King and Mrs. Blanche M. Wean offering courses in Economics, Accounting, Shorthand, Typing, Office Machines, Retail Selling, Marketing and Office Practice.

The high spot of the extracurricular work of the year was the field trip in which members of the department visited the William H. Block Company, the International Business Machines Corporation and the Indianapolis Star.

Canterbury College Library

Canterbury College library, located on the first floor of the "Old Academy" Building, has a large reading room, stack room, and small storage room.

The library hours are from 8:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M., daily, except Mondays, when it remains open until 7:00 P.M. and Thursday, until 9:00 P.M.

The reading room will seat as many as 100 students and is supplied with daily and weekly newspapers, weekly, monthly, and quarterly magazines, including secular, religious, scientific and general. Of the 70 periodicals regularly received, more than 50 are indexed in the Reader's Guide, making them of particular value as reference materials. Back numbers are shelved; some titles being bound.

The browsing corners in the reading room, where many fiction and readable non-fiction titles are shelved, have added much to the general appearance and inviting aspect of the room. Efforts are made to maintain a pleasant place for study and for recreational reading.

Pamphlet materials which are constantly coming to the library are displayed on a table. These may be used freely in the room or borrowed for use at home.

The reference collection is shelved on one side of the reading room and is easily accessible to students at all times.

The present book collection totals approximately 12,500 volumes, 2500 of which have been added in the past six months. Plans are being made to expand the stack room and increase storage space, which has become imperative with recent acquisitions and prospects of continued growth.

The card catalog, located near the charging desk, indexes the book collection by author, title, and subject. Analytic cards (subject cards for parts of books) have been made for a large number of the books recently acquired. These cards greatly increase the usefulness of the catalog.

Books are classified and arranged on the shelves according to the Dewey decimal system. Much of the routine work as well as part of the clerical work is done by students.

CANTERBURY OLD AND NEW

The man or woman who, attaining many years, remains young in spirit is envied by all. Any institution whose walls become old and ivy-covered, but whose personnel remains alert and vigorous, keeping all the best of the old and accepting the really fine of the new, is in a similar position. Such we believe is the position of Canterbury College.

New in name, curricular emphasis and possibilities for broader service, Canterbury accepts the best of the spirit and tradition of the pioneer college, it replaces, and hopes to give a breadth of education which will be both pleasing and essential. This cannot fail to give satisfaction to both students and alumni.

Oustanding teachers of the past and strong students who have gone out to serve well their communities challenge those now connected with the school. To accept this challenge is the purpose of all of us.

School is more than preparation for life; it is life. To serve best, any college must offer a complete, well-balanced life. The individual is given the fullest measure of freedom he is capable of using wisely. In this ability every individual has his limitations and he who is sincere in his desire to profit from his college work accepts constructive criticism.

He who is strongest recognizes his responsibilities and strives to meet them. The opportunity to develop latent powers of leadership is offered all students at Canterbury, and growth results in proportion to the students' willingness to accept the opportunity.

Canterbury challenges its men and women to prove their worth in all fields of endeavor. Better men and women mean a greater Canterbury.

Canterbury stands for Christian education. He who lacks in religious development falls short of the full life. To serve well in any capacity, the individual must live a well-rounded life.

Yes, Canterbury is both old and new—old walls, old grounds; some old personnel, some new; some old students, some new; some old ideals, some new. At no time has there been any inclination to dispense with the old because it is old. Nor do we embrace the new because it is new. Rather we shall always sift and weigh so that the very best to be had, old or new, will be a part of Canterbury.

What of the future? Shall there be improved buildings, better laboratories, increased library facilities? The work of the year indicates that the answer is "Yes." Will the faculty and the student body be maintained at a high level? Again the answer is "Yes." Will those going out from Canterbury continue to be true representatives of a good school? The answer must be "Yes." None other will suffice. The seniors are proud to be a part of this great undertaking. Juniors, sophomores, freshmen, and those yet to enroll must be, and will gladly be, a part in the development of a greater Canterbury.

The Advertisers

Real friends do not consider financial gain commensurate with the investment made. The advertisers in The Echo may or may not receive full return for their investment except in the good will of the student body and faculty. We believe this is extended in fullest measure. The feeling that Danville and Canterbury College are mutually beneficial is evidenced in the following pages which indicate that business and professions wish to support our efforts. Our thanks to all these is extended in fullest measure. Here is an alphabetical list of those who helped.

GRADUATION FROM CANTERBURY COLLEGE IS OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

It is the closing period of time and successful ending of many long years of hard work; commanding praise from your friends and a feeling of personal satisfaction for having attained your goal.

This qualifies you to establish yourself in society, and your degree of success depends entirely on what you contribute.

The rewards you have just received have been bestowed upon you as a token signifying that others who have been rewarded similar recognition before you and have accepted their place in society, recognize that you have all worked faithfully together with willing hands and hearts and by so doing, assured the future guidance of the good old American way of life.

You will find a welcome here always when you return to Danville.

Surveyors often find it necessary to find the area of a surface bounded by straight lines and a curve. If points on the curve are known the equation of the curve can be had and by the integration of the equation of the curve between limits or ends of a curve we can find the area. Thus it is shown that the use of Calculus is essential to another profession.

Mathematics is a very useful device by which man can increase the happiness of life or decrease the happiness, as the case might be. Nevertheless, can the question be answered, "Do we need to know more mathematics?" Some would say, "I'll never use that, why learn it?" The answer is, "You would use it (most likely) if you knew it. You don't use it because you don't know it."

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH . . . continued from page 57

Near the close of the second semester, a selected number of the best essays, stories, and poems written during the year were given a place in the Quarto, Canterbury's newest student publication.

Thanks - A Lot

And here we say "Goodbye"

Won't you accept our sincere thanks for all the support you have given us? Without it our efforts would have been fruitless.

THE ECHO staff and senior class wish to take this opportunity to express their appreciation to all persons who were, in any way, responsible for the production of this, the first annual of Canterbury College. Mr. Neel, senior class sponsor and supervisor of the yearbook, has spent many hours in compiling the materials and taking them to the publishers. Without his interest the production of "The Echo" could not have turned out so successfully.
