

CENTRAL NORMAL COLLEGE BULLETIN

VOL. 1

May, 1942

No. 2

Published monthly, except in the months of July and August, by Central Normal College, Danville, Indiana. Entered as second class matter at the post office at Danville, Indiana, under Act of Congress of August 24, 1912.

Commencement Week PROGRAM

Friday, June 5

6:00 P. M. Sigma Phi Kappa Delta Initiation
6:30 P. M. Sigma Phi Kappa Delta Banquet
Reception Room

Sunday, June 7

4:30 to 6:00 P. M. President's Reception
Reception Room
8:00 P. M. Baccalaureate Service
Christian Church Auditorium

Monday, June 8

8:00 P. M. Music Recital
Chapel Hall

Tuesday, June 9

9:00 A. M. Senior Convocation
Chapel Hall

Wednesday, June 10

8:00 P. M. Senior Play
"Her Husband's Wife"—A. E. Thomas
Directed by Mrs. Flora Schaefer Evans
Chapel Hall

Thursday, June 11

6:00 P. M. Olcott Dinner and Reunion
Reception Room and Chapel Hall
9:00 P. M. Alumni Ball
Grid Room

Friday, June 12

8:00 A. M. Class Reunions
9:45 A. M. Band Concert
10:00 A. M. Commencement Exercises
Address by Honorable Claude C. Smith, '12, Philadelphia
Gymnasium
12:30 P. M. Alumni Luncheon
Grid Room

(2)

The Central Normal College Bulletin

VOL. 1.

May, 1942

No. 2

Published by Central Normal College
Editorial Staff

Editor: Bertha M. Watts

Dr. Edwin Barlow Evans
Dean Flora Schaefer Evans

Mrs. Daisy M. Jones
Dr. Esther Whitney

James B. Wilson

MRS. E. E. OLCOTT, Practical Idealist

The faith she taught gave wings to life—
She made ideals seem
As tangible as bread, and yet
As lovely as a dream.

Mrs. E. E. Olcott taught in Central Normal College for more than a quarter of a century (1898-1924). Her work for primary teachers was not surpassed in the United States. Her model class in primary work was the standard of all such work during her time. In fact, she was a pioneer in the methods considered up-to-date and efficient in our own day.

Mrs. Olcott lectured in many teachers' institutes, giving instruction in elementary methods in at least half of the counties of Indiana. She was a most excellent public speaker, perfectly at ease before her audience.

Editors of school journals recognized Mrs. Olcott as an authority in primary education. She contributed to many journals and was the author of several books on methods.

She was versed in classic literature and seemed able at all times to recall and quote long passages of prose and verse. She was the founder of the Pleasant Hour Club which flourished here for a number of years under her direction. This club is now being revived as an organization especially for elementary teachers who wish to do recreational reading to broaden the field of their literary acquaintance.

The old classrooms of Academy Hall where Mrs. Olcott did most of her teaching are now being redecorated and prepared for another period of use. Room O, furnished as a reading room, will be used by the Pleasant Hour Club and for other activities which contribute to the achievement of such aims as Mrs. Olcott set up in her valuable work here. Dr. Evelyn Bush, sister of Mrs. Olcott, is presenting a framed portrait of Mrs. Olcott for this room, together with a collection of books which she used. The room will be known as the Olcott Reading Room. Old Room J is to be rechristened as the Olcott Recitation Room and used for classes in methods and literature.

May the spirit of this great teacher live on and continue its beneficent influence in Central Normal College through all the years to come.

(3)

Campus and Alumni Notes

Central Normal College has been approved for the V-1 program of the Navy. The following telegram was received by President Hunt: "The Navy is proud that your college has undertaken our V-1 plan for training freshmen and sophomores as officer material. Please tell your young men who applied for enlistment and training under this plan that they will be serving the Nation if they continue their college courses no less than those of your alumni who are already in active service. The Navy knows your institution and your V-1 students will do their part."—Frank Knox, Secretary of the Navy.

Dr. Evelyn Bush of Louisville, Kentucky, will be a guest at the Olcott dinner and reunion. Word has also been received from Superintendent Grover Brown of Brown County that he will be present and will tell some of the famous Olcott stories.

The following recent marriages will be of interest to alumni: Mary Nicholson and Paul Tucker; Laura Susdorf and Lester Doeden; Patricia Summers and Harvey Meeks; Ruth Carolyn Dawson and Gerald Doeden; Alberta Thomas and Kenneth Dickerson.

New courses being offered during the mid-spring term are Elementary Curriculum Construction, Conservation, and International Personalities and Problems. Special instruction in multilith operation is being given in response to a demand for such operators in the armed forces and in industry.

As a welcome to mid-spring students, the Student Christian Association sponsored a weiner roast in the park. Freshmen and new students were guests. Dean Green gave a talk and led in group singing.

Because of the war and its attendant circumstances, the members of the Association of Women Students have decided not to hold the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet this year. The money ordinarily spent for the banquet will be used for the purchase of a war bond to be presented to the college.

Delightful chapel programs were given by students from Speedway City under the direction of Miss Louise Starkey and Mr. Lincoln Northcott and by Mr. Frank Martin's band from Fillmore.

The Art Department and Biology Department are planning a joint art exhibit and flower show for the week before Commencement.

Very suddenly on the night of April 2, Dr. Fassett A. Cotton died, after eighty years into which he had crowded much of enthusiasm, work, and achievement. He is missed in the college and the Danville community and will be missed by a wide circle of former students who enjoyed the work in his classes.

Principal Arlie Fravel of Sandcreek Township School, Decatur County, recently brought seven boys from his school for enrollment in the freshman class; Sam Williams was on the campus shortly after, bringing two boys from his school. C. N. C. appreciates such fine cooperation from its alumni.

(4)

Mrs. Etta Hogate who was called to the bedside of her son, Kenneth, of Scarsdale, New York, has returned to her home in Danville and reports that Kenneth's health is gradually improving.

Students and faculty are saddened by the news that Lieutenant Ralph Mauck of the U. S. Army Air Corps is reported missing.

Chez Haehl and Dorman ("Tuffy") Morrison came to visit the campus at the close of their school terms. Both are enlisting within a few weeks.

Lillian McGuirk writes: "Leave it to the McGuirks to boost C. N. C. There were six of us children and we all have attended school there. Through our influence many boys and girls went to Central Normal College for their training."

It seems that the Carmichaels have done their part, too, for our records show that L. N. Carmichael, '94, has sent five sons to C. N. C.—Vernal H., Forest V., Kenneth C., Ernest E., and Geoffrey.

"The C. N. C. spirit, which only those who have attended can know, is an attribute used unconsciously by its students in the development of self-confidence, which every progressive citizen must obtain."—C. D. Plummer, Columbus, Indiana.

"Your wonderful college has had a great record. It gives the student more per dollar than any other college with which I am familiar."—C. A. Trevebaugh, State Representative of the USO War Fund Campaign, Salt Lake City, Utah.

From Reece C. Bowton comes this word: "I have just received the C. N. C. bulletin today. It did me good to see so many names of people who have written something for you. Many of them I know, and I am glad to hear of them once more."

Alma Zarse Christopher writes: "Congratulations! Your bulletin is a definite step in the progress of C. N. C."

We wish we could share with you all the letters and verbal comments we have had concerning the first number of the Bulletin, and could write personal letters of thanks to all who are so generously helping with letters, articles, and addresses. Since that is impossible, please accept, here and now, our very sincere thanks to each one who has helped.

The college is arranging a filing cabinet with a folder for each alumnus. This provides a place to file all information which may be sent to us concerning the sons and daughters of C. N. C. We shall appreciate having newspaper or magazine clippings, as well as programs, or personal letters which tell of changes of position, honors, and achievements of our alumni and former students. Please send all such items directly to Bertha Watts, who is in charge of the arrangement of the alumni files.

Commencement is coming. Why don't you come, too? The "7's" and the "2's" will want to compete with each other in their class reunions. No one who was ever in Mrs. Olcott's classes will want to miss the Olcott reunion. Just now the news has arrived that Mr. Harry Kelley of Nashville will act as Master of Ceremonies. Good news, indeed, assuring everyone that the true Olcott spirit will prevail throughout the occasion.

(5)

Contributors to the C.N.C. Security Fund

From Danville and Hendricks County:

James R. Alley, Dr. and Mrs. A. G. Barrett, A. G. Blair, F. W. Blanton, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Baker, Elsie Blessing, E. M. Blessing, Banquet Ice Cream Co., Geo. W. Brill, Business and Professional Women's Club, Allen Campbell, K. F. Cates, the Lions Club, Z. E. Dougan, Wiley C. Dorsett, N. B. Dinsmore, Mrs. J. A. Downard, The Commercial Club, Edward Eikman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elder, C. J. Elson, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin B. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Franklin, Mount E. Frantz, Mr. and Mrs. Carey Gaston, Marjorie Dean Gaston, Dr. J. W. Gibbs, R. L. Green, Dr. J. H. Grimes, Otis E. Gulley, F. E. Guthrie, Alvin Hall, F. Brewer Hadley, M. O. Hadley, Geo. W. Hadley, Carol J. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Herrington, P. R. Hightower, Mrs. J. D. Hogate, Virgil Hunt, Glen Hovermale, Bertha Higgins, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Johnson, Daisy M. Jones, R. P. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kahl, John A. Kendall, Harold M. Knetzer, Kroger Grocery, Mr. and Mrs. Robert King, Dr. W. T. Lawson, Rev. and Mrs. Harry Lett, Chester Martin, Mrs. Floy Modesitt, L. C. Morris, John Moran, Chas. G. Miles, Mrs. Horace G. Miles, Frank Myers, Vernon Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Parr, Mr. and Mrs. Chester V. Parker, Leighton B. Platter, Public Service Co., Pierson Bros., Frank L. Ridgway, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Roul, W. P. Rigdon, Lee Sadler, E. A. Sallust, Chas. V. Sears, Fred C. Shelton, Charles E. Shields, Bernice E. Shirley, Sigma Phi Kappa Delta, Ed Smith, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Snyder, John L. Stephenson, L. R. Stockton, Kenneth J. Smith, Crawford Taylor, John D. Taylor, Glen Tharp, Dorothea Thomas, H. M. Towell, E. W. Thomas, Chas. M. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Vannice, William E. Wachtel, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Walter, Bertha Watts, Mrs. Blanche Wean, E. J. Weesner, H. M. Whisler, N. E. Winfrey, James B. Wilson, Amanda Leak, Vivian Tansel Smith.

From other places:

Hazel D. Anderson, Columbus; Grace I. Clark, Mt. Summit; Anna Mae Coffing, Frankfort; Thelma Deer, Frankfort; Maxine Edmondson, Sweetser; Catherine Eldridge, Indianapolis; Harry Evans, Lexington, Ky.; Margaret Fitzpatrick, Hollywood, California; Gerald Haffner, Jamestown; Bernard Hurst, Manilla; Thomas Isaacs, South Bend; James Jenkins, Decker; Joyce Johnson, Falmouth; Louise Knauer, Greencastle; Hope McBride, Leavenworth; Mary Miller, Valparaiso; Agnes A. Newbold, Eau Claire, Wis.; Mrs. S. M. Ralston, Indianapolis; Eugene Ross, Speedway City; Hubert Scott, Cannelton; Carl Steinman, Williamsport; Maxine Tharp, Fillmore; Dorothy Thomas, Bloomingdale; Ensign Ansel Wallace, Washington, D. C.; Nellie Walker, Patriot; Phyllis Barrett, Rochester.

The bells of C. N. C. are sounding a new note of gladness these days because of the generous friends listed here. With grateful thoughts toward these contributors and all others who are showing loyalty to the school, we are facing the future with renewed courage. With mutual faith and co-operation among C. N. C.'s students, faculty, Board of Trustees, alumni, and friends, the college will reach new frontiers of progress and continue to enrich the lives of youth through many generations to come.

County and District Organizations

Bartholomew, Johnson, and Brown Counties will hold their Alumni meeting on Friday night, May 22, at the Colonial Inn in Columbus. Speakers have been secured and President Hunt and Dr. Evans of the faculty will also speak.

The organization of Dearborn, Ohio, and Switzerland Counties is under the chairmanship of Edward Gray, Dorothea Orem and Nellie Walker. A meeting has been arranged for the third week in May.

The Loyal Leaders in Harrison and Crawford Counties are Sidney Amy, George Merk and Otto C. Kopp of Harrison County, and Mrs. Nellie Harvey of Crawford County. Judge Clyde Lottick of the circuit court, as well as speakers from the campus, will address the meeting.

The White County alumni and former students will organize for a meeting before Commencement time. Some of the Loyal Leaders in that county are: Fred J. Tam, Marian Edmondson Nichols, H. Eunice Meeks, Nolan Sappenfield, Brunhild Faulkinbury, Robert Connarroe and Curtis Wilson.

The Montgomery County alumni and former students are planning a meeting in Crawfordsville. The Loyal Leaders there are Clyde Gentry, Mrs. Edna Kelley and Mrs. Edith Ross.

The Boone County alumni and former students are being organized by Miss Margaret Martin of Lebanon. They are planning a meeting for about the first week in June.

Putnam County Loyal Leaders are: Paul Deich, County Superintendent Frank Jarrell, Frank Martin, Ethel Hurst and Pleasant Heavin. They have not yet announced the date of their meeting.

The group in Shelby County is in charge of Wray Orem of the Colescott School.

A TRIBUTE

Here, we believe, is the most beautiful tribute C. N. C. has every received:

"I always think of the Central Normal College as such a school as Abraham Lincoln would have founded, had he turned his hand that way, a school for the common, busy folks of the world." —Harvey Gard, '97, Essayist.

Addresses Wanted

The College desires to have the present address of every alumnus and former student. Will you please look over the following list of names and send us as many addresses as you can?

As Central Normal College cannot afford a paid secretary to keep the lists up to date, it must depend upon your loyalty and help. The Bulletin is not reaching those whose addresses are missing. Each address you send us will put one more person on our mailing list and will help C. N. C. alumni and former students to keep in touch with each other and with their college.

1938

Jean Elizabeth Imel, Ruth I. Wene Mendenhall, Grace McGeorge, Jackson McNabb.

1937

Donald Dawson, Genevieve Erwin, Bernice Ruark, Ellen Mae Wilson, Orville Wilson.

1936

Ivan Albright, Mary Evelyn Binford, Keith DuBois, Dave Fansler, Franklin Fisher, Gene Hendryx, John Hood, Burchard Horton, Gertrude Keith, Bertha Moore, Regina Moore, Maurice Patterson, Russell Rea, Harry Regan, Blanche Day Short, Orval Smith, Miriam Somers, Lloyd Starnes, Wilson Wheatley, Margaret Whitcomb, Adolph Zoller-man.

1935

Joseph Vachel Farnsley, Lawrence Johnson.

1934

Wm. Frederick Compton, George F. DeLong, George R. Harvey, Alice Holton, Mary Dorcas Lowe, Donald McCash, Esther Menchhofer, Clarence Miller, Mary Moreland, Virgil Neier, Alma Reagan, Alta Sibbitt, Alma Stephenson, Dorothy Wallace, Isaac Wilson.

1933

Homer Broadus, W. E. Bausman, Loretta Davis, Charles Lurton, Juanita McCormick, Clarence Pierce, Joseph Ramsey, Denzel Robertson, Virgil Riley, Alvin K. Vincent, Laura E. Wilson.

1932

Ella Ahlf, Emma Barker, Helen Beckner, Gayle DeLoy, Carol Faulkinbury, Mildred Hodgins, Marvel Hunt, Edwin Johnson, Ralph Johnson, Laurel Kelly, Elbert Hugh Lawler, Lawrence W. Pearl, Edith Alma Phillips, Helen Ray, Josef Sharp, Reginald Shultz, Maude Smith, Pearl Smith, Ferris Thompson, Orval G. Warrick, Elsie Wood, George Wood.

1931

Lillian Aders, Ernestine Aikman, Mary Barker, Ida Walker Blystone, Pauline

4

Cooper, Glavis Crutchfield, Lemmo Dell, Lowell A. Fancher, Wade Fuller, Kenneth Hunt, Ralph Johnson, Albert O. Mead, Ivan Miller, Robert Pollard, Harold Pruitt, Oliver Salsman, Donald B. Smith, H. H. Thacker, Charles Trobaugh, Norman Walker, Robert Wallace, Lester Williams, Elmer H. Wright.

1930

George G. Bosley, Chester O. Bosley, Everett Lee Davis, Raymond Demaree, Fred Fleming, Claudia Force, Iva Clay Freeman, Helen Hamilton, Fleeta Harbaugh, Homer Higgins, L. S. Johnson, Fern Jordan, Helen Kennedy, Lester T. Lee, Helen Lininger, Mabel Magner, Marion Maybaugh, Iva McBride, Myron Phillips, Dallas F. Renn, Fannie Reynolds, Charles A. Richardson, William Rodebeck, Harry Elmer Sherfey, John E. Spencer, Mary Elizabeth Swisher, Homer Tucker, Walter Warden, Loren Warner, Ruby Wright, Mary Zeig.

1929

Leslie Benson, Helen Louise Curry, Beulah Shears Dick, Jesse Ferguson, Vergil M. Finchum, Arthur Fortner, William Chester Goble, Floyd E. Goffinet, Minard Hague, Joseph M. Leap, Mrs. Elva Harvey, R. C. Hill, Alidore Huffman, Cleo Isom, Glen Myers, Birdena McBroom, Louisa E. Percy, Mary Phillips, Edith Prathes, Paul Purcell, Carmon G. Ross, Maude Ross, Mary K. Sanders, Hilda Shepherd, Hardy Songer, Bertha Watkins, Cloe Wood, Lena Zehring.

1928

Vernie L. Browning, Curtis Cox, Thelma Dixon, Blanche M. Durham, Samuel F. Eberhart, Mabel Harmon, Carrie M. Vest Hice, Myrenia Renforth Inman, Edward L. Jordan, Otis G. Kelley, Eva Maxwell, Cleo H. McDonald, Ert Moore, Ona Marie Owens, Edna Soey, Edith Whitaker, Florence Whiteman, Carl Williams.

The Greater CENTRAL NORMAL College Campaign

....., 194.....

I subscribe and herewith pay to Central Normal College the sum of

..... Dollars ($.....).

I promise to pay to Central Normal College the sum of

..... Dollars ($.....).

on or before, 194.....

Signed

Address

Draw check to order of Central Normal College and mail to President Virgil Hunt, Central Normal College, Danville, Ind.

CENTRAL NORMAL COLLEGE BULLETIN

Vol. 1

January, 1943

No. 6.

Published monthly, except in the months of July and August, by Central Normal College, Danville, Indiana. Entered as second class matter at the post office at Danville, Indiana, under Act of Congress of August 24, 1912.

Honoring C.N.C.'s Men In The Service

This number of the Bulletin is published in honor of C. N. C. friends in the armed forces. Most of the space is devoted to a partial list of their names and addresses. We would welcome additions to these and news of any changes.

The following greeting is written by Dean Hightower, a veteran of World War I:

Dear C. N. C. Friends in the Armed Forces:

As I write to you from my office at Central Normal College, the sun is streaming through the windows as if to say all is well with the world. I should like to think that that is right; however, I am reminded from time to time that such is not true. Then I think of my friends and former students who are scattered throughout the world fighting and getting ready to fight a war for freedom, and I know it is not true.

I often think of how wonderful it would be if we could only get people to understand that God has given us a beautiful world in which to live and has filled it with all of the things that man's heart can desire. If all could only see things that way, and would utilize those various gifts for the happiness of every living soul, we would have a heaven on earth.

But every generation or so, some insane, degenerate, power-loving, heartless individual comes along to disturb what advances we have made in the direction of utilizing nature's gifts for our happiness. And then we have to mold nature's bounties into cannons, guns of all sizes and calibers, tanks, battleships, airplanes, motorized vehicles, munitions etc., to destroy what has been done and to murder innocent and peace-loving people.

Today finds us in such a calamitous condition, but our spirit of freedom, our love for humanity, and our trust in the Supreme Being will enable us to conquer the barbaric hordes and again start the world on its quest for the greatest thing that life can offer, namely, happiness. It was my privilege only twenty-five short years ago to participate in World War Number 1, which was fought for the purpose of making the world safe for democracy. But due to political bickering, selfishness, greed for power, and intrigue of one kind or another, that safety was short-lived and many of our brave sons who are sleeping today in Flanders' Field, fought in vain.

I trust that we will not make the mistakes after this victory is won, that we made after the previous one. In fact, I am optimistic enough to believe that such errors will not be made this time. I have faith enough in mankind, and in the right, to believe that your efforts will not be in vain, and that out of the chaotic conditions of the present holocaust will come a new world devoted to peace, prosperity, and happiness, where all nations will have higher standards of living, where trade will flow freely from country to country, and where scholarship and Christian ideals will have a greater opportunity to fashion the growing minds and hearts of the children and the youth of the world.

Let me congratulate you on the splendid services you are rendering and wish for you and all the rest of us a speedy conclusion of this war and a return to normal life, where we can devote our energies to the cause of right living and right thinking.

P. R. HIGHTOWER

IN MEMORIAM

Ralph Mauck

Lawrence Abram

John Harshberger

C.N.C. Men In Service

FACULTY

Lt. Com. J. R. Cook
Qts. R.
Downes Acres
G. L. N. T. S.
Great Lakes, Ill.

Vivian Jones Y 13 U. S. N. R.
A. P. O. 506 (RC)
Navy 221
Fleet Post Office
New York, N. Y.

C. Wayne Shumaker Y2C
Naval R. O. T. C. Unit
University of Colorado
Boulder, Colorado

Henry Miller
O. C. S. Administrative Branch
State College of Mississippi

Pvt. Robert C. Turner
Base Weather Station
Army Air Base
Birmingham, Alabama

Ensign H. Ansel Wallace
2651 Woodley Road
Washington, D. C.

Pvt. James B. Wilson
Btry. D. 79th F. A.
Fort Bragg, North Carolina

STUDENTS

Russell Allen
4th Armored Division. Co. E
37 Armored Reg.
Pine Camp, N. Y.

Pvt. Howard C. Bailey
Batt. A - 1st. A. A. Tng. Bn.
Fort Custis, Virginia

S/Sgt. Charles Baughn
932 Twin Eng. Trn. Sqd.
Army Air Base
Carlsbad, New Mexico

Pvt. Ivan L. Blunt
1586 Service Unit
Medical Section
Campbell, Kentucky

Charles Bock
U. S. Naval Training Station
Great Lakes, Ill.

Ernest R. Brown
Air Force Band
414 Sch. Sqd.
Kessler Field, Miss.

Cpl. Horace Ralph Bunton 35358863
13th Comm. Squad. A. A. F.
APO 606 c/o P. M.
Miami, Fla.

A. C. K. Joe A. Burgess
Marine Corps Unit No. 330
Care of Postmaster
San Francisco, California

P. F. C. Franklin B. Buser
27th Engineer's Band
Camp Breckinridge, Kentucky

Cpl. Otto Byers Jr.
233rd Air Base Sq.
Seymour Johnson Fld.
North Carolina

P. F. C. Lowell Coats
Band B. I. R. T. C.
Camp Robinson
Arkansas

Earl L. Conner v6 S. D. 3C.
Co. 1694
25th Reg. 42nd. Batt.
Great Lakes, Illinois

Lt. Lee O. Cunningham
Langley Field, Virginia

Paul Deich
Radio School
University of Wisconsin
Madison, Wis.

Pvt. Cecil W. Duckett
Co. A. 33rd. Battln.
Camp Crowder, Mo.

Jay Duley
Co. B. 11th Bn.
1st Platoon
Camp Wheeler, Georgia

Chalmer F. Dunn Sp. Ic. (T)
Service School, Group II
U. S. N. T. S.
Great Lakes, Illinois

Lt. S. M. Eggers
Btry. C., 446th C. A.
Camp Davis, North Carolina

Midshipman F. W. Federle
U. S. N. R.
Midshipman School, John Jay
Room 617
New York, N. Y.

Robert C. Forsythe
V 6 A S, 43rd Bat.
25th Reg.
U. S. N. T. S.
Great Lakes, Ill.

P. F. C. Joseph Fox
925th T. S. S. Flt. D
Atlantic City, New Jersey

Paul R. Franklin
Ninth Naval District
Great Lakes, Ill.

H. F. Gilliland
Barracks 106 Sect. 6,
Hospital Corps School
Great Lakes, Ill.

Sgt. William Goff
536 Broad St.
Class 7-43
Newark, New Jersey

Everett Green S 2/c U. S. N.
Co. No. 1552 U. S. N. T. S.
Quartermaster School
Coddington Point
Newport, Rhode Island

Cpl. Chez Haehl
Hq. "A" Stage A. W. U. T. C.
Personnel Section
Drew Field, Florida

Pvt. C. R. Harmon (35364294)
Hdqs. Btry. C. A. C.
APO No. 826 c/o Postmaster
New Orleans, La.

Ens. David B. Hastings, U. S. N. R.
The Nittany Lion Inn
State College, Penn.

Cecil Havens, Seaman 1/c
U. S. Navy School of Music
Navy Yards
Washington, D. C.

William R. Hawley
306 C. A. Bar.
Blu. Bat. B.
Camp Tyson, Tenn.

Cpl. Earl E. Hudson
Hq. & Hq.
2nd C. W. S. Tng. Regt.
Camp Sibert, Alabama

Cpl. Walt Hyduk 35255044
Co. C 818 Engineer Bn.
A. P. O. 887 c/o Postmaster
New York, N. Y.

Arthur N. Jackson
Navy 80 70
c/o Fleet Post Office
San Francisco, California

Lt. Spencer D. Jackson
Hq. Btry. 346 F. A. Bn.
A. P. O. No. 91
Camp White, Oregon

Pvt. James Walter Jackson
55th Base Hq. & A. B. Sq.
Ellington Field, Texas

W. K. Jordan
S2c Service Schools
Bks. 507 Sec. R11-7 Br. II
Great Lakes, Illinois

Noel C. King S 2/c
S. S. M 9-23
Group III Brks. 612
U. S. N. T. S.
Great Lakes, Illinois

Cpl. Wendell Mann
SCRJU
Co. B. 32nd Bn.
Camp Crowder, Missouri

Pvt. Phillip A. Martin
782nd. Tech. School Sqd.
Brks. T 227
Lincoln Air Base
Lincoln, Nebraska

Lt. Ernest B. Mauck
Kirkland Field
Albuquerque, New Mexico

Carvel McGarvey
Headquarters, 350th Sep. C. A. Bn. (S1)
Camp Stewart, Georgia

Pvt. Von C. Mills
33rd. General Hospital
4th Platoon
Fort Jackson, South Carolina

Pvt. Weldon Morgan
1133-TSS- Flight No. 43
A.A.F.T.T.C. — T.S.U. — B.T.C. No. 9
Miami Beach, Florida

Pvt. W. Ney
303 F. S. S. Flight C.
Box 1059
Kessler Field, Mississippi

Pvt. William E. Odom U. S. A. A. C.
1134TSS Flight 261
Special Training Unit
Miami Beach, Florida

Pvt. John L. Oliver 5765
1131 Technical School Squadron
Flight No. 270
A. A. F. T. T. C.
Basic Training Center 9
Miami Beach, Florida

Pvt. Paul E. Patterson
63rd Base Hq. & AB Sq.
Gardner Field
Taft, California

Pvt. Robert Platt
Steno. to Surgeon
Headquarters, Second Army
Office of the Surgeon
Memphis, Tennessee

Sgt. Charles W. Pope
Medical Adm. Corps
Officer Candidate School
Camp Berkeley, Texas

Cadet Floyd Richards
Barracks 30A
12-C. 42-P. Left Wing
U. S. Navy Air Base
Peru, Indiana

Pvt. Henry R. Riney
Co. 6, 2nd Prov. Bt.
Oaks Branch Station
New Orleans, Louisiana

Carl C. Rogers
113th Eng. Band
A. P. O. 38
Camp Shelby, Mississippi

Sgt. Theo. L. Rush
39th School Sqd.
Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

Cody Rust
V-6 A S
Co. 1788 Bks. 3006
Great Lakes, Ill.

Pfc. Leonard Schrader
98th M. P. Avn. Company
Lackbourne Air Base
Columbus, Ohio

Pvt. Jack Shaw
Walter D. Reed Hospital
Washington, D. C.

Pvt. Omer L. Shroyer, 35362064
Provisional M. P. Detachment
A. P. O. No. 961, c/o Postmaster
San Francisco, California

Pvt. Robert G. Snyder
48th Troop Carrier Sq. Co. 313
Maxton Air Base
Laurinburg, N. C.

Edgar Sprague
Hdg. & Hdg. Sqd. A.A.F.T.T.C.
St. Petersburg, Florida

Carl Steinman
Hdg. & Hdg. G. T. R.
Fort Oglethorp, Georgia

Harry Turner H. A. 1/c
United States Naval Hospital
Pearl Harbor

Austin E. Walker
35 Armored Regiment
Company B.
Pine Camp, New York

Lt. Claude Walls
468th Base
Hq. & Air Base Sq. A. D. T. S.
Stinson Field
San Antonio, Texas

Pvt. Lawrence Weitkamp
1756th Ord. Co. (MM) AVN (Q)
Municipal Airport, Greenville
South Carolina

Lawrence Wheatley
Johnson Hall
Columbia University, N. Y.

Marion White
S 2/c R.
U. S. C. G. Barge No. 20
Ballard P. O.
Seattle, Washington

Pvt. Richard W. Wien
124C 604 T. S. S.
Clearwater, Florida

PFC Woodrow Williams
Hunter Field
Savannah, Georgia

Thomas E. Wilson
Troop Carrier Command St.
Stout Field,
Indianapolis, Indiana

Seaman 2/c Charles Worrell
Y. M. C. A. Room 524
Nashville, Tennessee

Nick Yacuk
Sqdn. 20 Grp. D Mayfare Hotel
Miami Beach, Florida

A/c E. W. Young
Aviation Cadet Detachment
Perrin Field
Sherman, Texas

Lieut. Everett Younger
855th Avn. Bn.
March Field, California

Central Normal College Bulletin

Vol. 1

May, 1943

No. 10

Published monthly, except in the months of July and August, by Central Normal College, Danville, Indiana. Entered as second class matter at the post office at Danville, Indiana, under Act of Congress of August 24, 1912.

A Memorial to C. A. Hargrave

Science Hall To Be Named Hargrave Hall

Charles A. Hargrave holds a unique place in the memory and affections of Central Normal graduates, faculty and friends. In these times of stress we can all find inspiration in the recollection of his distinguished services to our college, for he stood by her loyally through similar difficult times in the past.

At the Alumni Banquet last June, the suggestion came from a group of those present that it would be very fitting for Science Hall, the building which we owe so largely to Professor Hargrave's efforts, to be named for him. Mr. Harlan Craig proposed that plans be made for a Hargrave Memorial and that the 1943 Commencement feature a special memorial observance. Dr. Whisler, as President of the Alumni Association, appointed Mr. Craig chairman of a memorial committee. Later the Scientific Class of 1910, at Mr. Craig's suggestion, voted to sponsor the inscription of Professor Hargrave's name above the doors of Science Hall and to arrange a dedication program. Two other members of the class, Mr. G. E. Lochmuller and Dr. Waldo Wood were appointed on the committee and Dr. Margaret Esther Whitney, head of the Biology Department, was appointed to represent the present faculty.

The committee has functioned, and the unveiling of the newly carved inscriptions is planned for Thursday, June 10, the evening before Commencement. The dedication program will take place at six-thirty on the campus in front of the building, in the presence of the Hargrave family, the Board of Trustees, faculty, students and friends. It will be followed at seven-thirty by the joint Hargrave Memorial and Alumni Banquet. Brief talks will be given by representatives of the class and of the college administration, and by Mr. Homer Hargrave of Chicago, representing the Hargrave family.

It is hoped that this gesture of the class of 1910 may be the first step toward a larger Hargrave Memorial, — the equipment and further improvement of the building and of the Science Department, in which Professor Hargrave taught so inspiringly a long succession of students.

May Hargrave Hall finally stand as a worthy monument on the Central Normal Campus to a great teacher and a great and good man!

(2)

Announcement

On April 19, Mr. Virgil Hunt, after five years of whole-hearted and loyal service to the college, resigned from the presidency to teach physics to soldiers at Indiana University. The good wishes of town and campus follow Mr. Hunt and his family to Bloomington. The Board of Trustees has appointed a faculty committee composed of Dean Pleasant R. Hightower, Mr. Lowell DeMoss, Registrar and Bursar, and Mr. Glenn Johnson, head of the Department of Physical Education, to administer the affairs of the college until a new president is selected. This committee together with other groups of the faculty and board will study the problems of the school and formulate constructive plans and policies for making C. N. C. a bigger and better teacher training institution than ever before.

In all instances a high scholastic standard will be maintained. The two regular summer terms will open on June 14 and July 19 respectively, and the fall term will open September 13, with all departments functioning.

A Biography and Tribute

(Written by President Jonathan Rigdon for the College Quarterly at the time of Professor Hargrave's death, June 2, 1927)

. . . The going of Prof. Hargrave, affectionately known to students and faculty as "Uncle Charlie" leaves in Central Normal College a place that must remain vacant. In length of services he surpasses all others who have ever been connected with the institution. and for either the amount of work or the quality of it, few can ever hope to approach him.

In the fall of 1880, he enrolled in Central Normal College and the following year he was graduated from the Scientific Class. He continued his college work with the Classic Class of '82 . . . On the eve of his graduation, August 3, 1883, he and Miss Nettie Pearson were married. In the same year he became a regular member of the faculty of the College. At the death of Prof. John A. Steele in 1885, Prof. Hargrave became responsible for the business of the College and without intermission he discharged the duties of the office until one morning about a month ago when he admitted his strength had failed.

His duties included not only the almost endless details of business but his counsel and advice were sought also upon text books, methods of teaching, courses of study and administration and all the larger educational policies and plans of the institution. As a member of the faculty, he was at one time professor of mathematics, at another, professor of sciences, for more than a quarter of a century secretary-treasurer, and for a brief time, brief only because he wished more time to teach, he was president.

The funeral, Sunday afternoon, in the chapel of his beloved college, was most impressive and was attended by many former students, few communities within a radius of 100 miles not being represented. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful.

As the college bell tolled, borne on the shoulders of students the body was carried into the building and to the front of the chapel, while Chopin's Funeral March was rendered with Prof. Owen at the piano.

Prof. G. H. Reibold offered prayer, and "Crossing the Bar" and "Lead, Kindly Light" were sung by a students' quartet. Rev. F. H. Longwell read the scripture lesson and spoke on the characteristics of the departed, the strong points in his life and his impress upon students and citizens. . . .

Merely to mention the qualities of his character worthy of our emulation would require a large space. He was a tireless worker who had complete mastery over his own mind. He was truly an educated man. . . . He was always honest, truthful, sincere. Aside from his family and his home, his one ambition was to be helpful to young men and women seeking an education. He was plain and simple in his living. He never made a show of himself or his achievements. He was always willing and even anxious to give to others credit that in reality belonged to him. He always put himself first when any work was to be done, particularly any disagreeable work; and he always put himself last when the honors were to be bestowed. He was always kind and gentle. If to be a gentleman is to be a gentle man, then he was that. Next to his own family he loved the institution he so ably served. Next to people he loved Nature as few men have ever known it. Chiefly because of his clear thinking, he was an impressive and convincing speaker. He would probably have been the last to claim for himself merit as a writer, and yet I believe everyone who reads the last toast he ever delivered, "The Office Desk," will admit that it is a literary gem. His life and labors have gone from us, but the wealth of his manly character will long continue to be an inspiration to the thousands he has enrolled over his old office desk.

Jonathan Rigdon

Editorial Tribute to Professor Hargrave on the Occasion of Central Normal's Golden Jubilee.

The following tribute from the pen of Editor Julian Hogate appeared in the Hendricks County Republican during the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Central Normal College in 1926.

"With all due deference to the many noble men and women who have given and are now giving their lives to Central Normal College, this semi-centennial would not be appropriately observed without a tribute to the grand man of Central Normal, Charles A. Hargrave. Upon him has singularly fallen much of the burden for many years. His has been the planning, his the vision from which these greater days have evolved. Through the dark days, through the happy days, through tragedy, panic, war, Charles A. Hargrave has been the one man who all too often has held aloft the torch which guided to safety. He has not been self-seeking. He has served from humble position to president and from president to place of less prominence but he has ever carried on. His was and is the idea of 'team work' personified. Nothing is too good, no praise too great for Charles A. Hargrave. And we can sense some measure of the great satisfaction he has in this fiftieth anniversary of Central Normal College and we can all realize his pleasure when he can truthfully say, as he contemplates the growth in the years, 'All this I saw and in all this I was a factor.' He is the grand man of Central Normal. To him this community owes a debt that cannot be repaid. . . . So in these anniversary days, we voice the thought of students past and present and of his fellow citizens in the words 'All hail, Charles A. Hargrave, grand man, bearer of burdens and conquering through visions.'

Excerpts from "The Office Desk"

(Class Toast by C. A. Hargrave at the Reunion of 1926).

The big walnut desk in the college office will soon reach its 50th year of service. It was made by a Danville carpenter for President Frank P. Adams, probably in 1879. Over its faithful timbers the 40,000 normalites have transacted their business with the college. . . . Here the faculty members signed their contracts and received their salaries. Here the courses of study were planned, and the correspondence with some hundreds of thousands of boys and girls conducted. You, as I, well remember the laying upon this desk the money for your first college tuition.

Initiated when fractional paper currency, a remnant of Civil War days, was being retired, it participated in the resumption of specie payments in the United States. Gold and silver have clanked upon its boards, to be almost wholly superseded by the modern plan of paying by check.

For thirty-five years, in two periods, separated by an interval of nine years, much of my days, and a fair share of my nights have found me bending over this desk. Here my education in the ways of business, and my small store of philosophy of life have evolved. Here hundreds of highly prized and priceless friendships have had a beginning. Here the rebuffs and disappointments of life have been hidden away, to eventually lose their sting. In this period the desk and I have observed the progress of the world as well as that of the school. This period includes important developments in geography, science, governments and education. We have witnessed the mapping of large areas of the continents by exploration, and have seen two continents almost completely remapped. We have observed almost all of the conquest of the land by railroads, and that of the sea by steamships of steel. We have noted the beginning, or at least the development from a bare start, of the germ theory of disease with its natural follower, serum therapy; the spread of the idea of evolution throughout the civilized world; the wonders of electric power, from the exhibit of Edison's first electric dynamo in 1876; the encircling of the globe with telegraph and telephone lines; and at last the wires banished and a radio a source of household entertainment and instruction. We have seen photography become the pastime of children, and the moving picture in many villages. We have seen the beginning and perfection of the internal combustion engine, which has made commonplace the most luxurious transportation on country roads, as well as in the air.

Fifty years! Some 40,000 students! Almost continuous classwork in that old building there — 48 weeks every year, and for a few years 52 weeks. Some hundreds have followed their parents to C. N. C. classrooms, and now the grandchildren are coming.

We may well inquire how it happened that of all the independent normal schools established in the United States, this is the only one known to have lived fifty years without transformation into a state or church school. It has not been through the spending of much money. A careful estimate shows that the total receipts of the school, and hence the total expenditures during fifty years, do not exceed one million dollars. . . . It was by persistent and untiring efforts of the faculty, often at a sacrifice of greater financial returns that could have been secured elsewhere, and in some cases of health and even death . . .

An extensive correspondence with strangers of all nationalities and occupations, as well as with former students and ex-comrades on the faculty, has been a joy. There has not been much time for reflection, but some things the desk and I have impressed upon us.

Among them we have found that almost all people are honest. The boys and girls have, almost all, been ambitious to qualify for useful service in the world. We have seen thousands of them demonstrate their entire trustworthiness.

We have found that there is poetry in the hearts of the common people. When a country mother names her baby girl

Opal, or Ruby, or Joy, or Pansy, or Violet, or Dimple, or when Mrs. White names her baby girl Snow, there must be music in the soul. We have found that names indicate patriotism in the thought of American citizens. We began enrolling the Lincolns, the Abes, and the Grants. We later had a run of Garfields and Grovers. By the time these were supplied with diplomas there came on the Deweys and McKinleys. We are hopeful that we can yet induct into college avenues the Woodrows and the Calvins.

The desk and I long since realized the folly of worry, but have failed to banish the foe. Our greatest troubles are those that never happen. We have found that mental activity is not necessarily thinking. The mind is like the old water mill to which I often rode astride a sack of corn. Sometimes the hopper became empty, but the mill rattled merrily on. The motion and the noise were there, but no meal dropped in the sack. . . .

We have learned that demonstrations do not always demonstrate. One of our early graduates wrote me last week that he demonstrated in his graduating oration that a heavier than air machine would never fly. Others proved that this country would never reach prohibition or woman suffrage. Others proved the downfall of the church; and a host of others the speedy disintegration of both the Republican and Democratic parties. The desk and I now refuse to become excited—we await the decision of time. . . .

We have found that finding fault with your tools will not improve the job, nor establish your reputation as a skillful workman.

When the flint ignited the powder in the pan of a rint lock gun and not that in the barrel it was called a flash in the pan. Lots of fellows are like that, but some don't even flash.

We have learned to hold our criticism when a neighbor stubs his toe, and aim to apply it to our own headlong plunges into wrong. . . .

The barometer and the thermometer indicate what is—knowledge and reason make the forecast.

Our education is in progress. We note the ambitions, the virtues, the follies of our callers. The virtues we admire, the follies we will try to forget — the desk and I.

Mrs. Hargrave at the time she received the LL. D. degree from Central Normal College in 1940. With her are her son, Homer, and his wife Colleen Moore of cinema and dollhouse fame.

Reminiscences by Mrs. Hargrave

This number of the bulletin would seem very incomplete without an article by Mrs. Hargrave to accompany the foregoing selection from the pen of her husband.

Town and college people have long appreciated the friendly hospitality of the home on Indiana St., where Mrs. Hargrave now enjoys the companionship of her daughter, Mrs. Kate Smith, and her grandson, Homer Hargrave, Jr., who has been taking work in the college during the past year while living at his grandmother's home. Homer inherits his father's nickname "Buzz" on the campus. He is enlisted in the Army Reserve.

In recalling the days of Professor Hargrave's association with the college, Mrs. Hargrave says with a twinkle, "Whenever I prepared a meal I never knew who might or might not be there to partake of it. . . . A new faculty member was not considered to be really installed until he had been at our house for dinner." Most reminiscences are intriguing to those who shared the experiences they recall, but Mrs. Hargrave gives to hers a spice and whimsical quality that makes them entertaining to the general reader as well. For this Bulletin, she writes informally:

"A review of the forty-four years my husband was teacher, secretary, and treasurer of the College seems a long story in prospect, but is really a short time in retrospect.

We were classmates for two years before we took the vows till death do us part and exemplified the old song that runs—'We were so united—so happily allied, that blessed were the moments, when we were side by side.'

When my mother, who was very pious, asked me one time where I was going and I told her I was going to the ball game with my husband, she said she thought I had little to do. I answered, when he wanted me to go to the ball game with him there was nothing better for me to do.

The memory of that precious association still abides with me and at times it seems that our separation is only a dream and that we are still side by side. We went to the ball games, and we went snail hunting,—we waded the creek to find mussels. Slow trail, you think? Not so if you have a purpose! You remember among other interests Mr. Hargrave was a conchologist. Besides making his own collection, he exchanged snail shells and bivalves with both home and foreign collectors, and was a regular contributor to the Nautilus. Dr. Lind, our old science teacher, and Mr. Hargrave considered me an expert snail catcher. . . .

One evening a phone call from the hotel came for Mr. Hargrave. It was from Rev. William Harper, founder of Central Normal College. He said he would be in Danville just one night and that he had heard so much about Prof. Hargrave that he felt he must see him and would take it as a great favor if he would call on him at the hotel. The meeting of the two was most agreeable. Mr. Harper seemed much interested in the history and progress of C. N. C. He was a very distinguished looking man at that time and had gained fame in Los Angeles where he lived for many years as a Baptist minister. He died there in January 1930. . . .

In the classroom at one time, Mr. Hargrave was using his microscope, and it was necessary for the pupils, all young men, to stand about the table to see the object under the microscope. At home where he received his private pupils we had a large revolving table so that the microscope could be turned from one pupil to the next without harming its adjustment. Well! While all were bowed over the table to get a good view, the wag of the class, without turning reached back and pitched the fellow behind him over his head onto the floor. It was outrageous of course, but all the teacher said was, 'We will wait until all can give attention.' The work was quietly finished. After class the culprit came to the office and abjectly apologized, saying the standing informal recitation had suggested the stunt to him, and if he, Mr. Hargrave, had only lost his temper and blown him up, he would have thought it funny. Such was Mr. Hargrave's patience. Not even one of his children ever heard him use a cross word. Due to this self control, he evolved his motto, 'What I do not say, I do not have to feel sorry for.'

Mrs. Craig Speaks For the Scientific Class of 1910

The Scientific Class of 1910 deems it an honor to act as sponsor of the establishment of a memorial to Professor Charles Hargrave. His record of service to Central Normal College bespeaks for him the gratitude of every loyal alumnus of that institution. The influence of a character such as his is reflected not only in the lives of individuals with whom he came in contact, but in the loyalty of organizations and groups of the institution to which he was devoted. The memory of his kindly, personal interest in every student has lasted throughout the years.

So, also, through the years, has endured the spirit of fellowship and school loyalty in the hearts of those of us who were Scientifics of 1910. Perhaps no other group can claim the distinction of having continuously held meetings for thirty three years, thus keeping alive the old class spirit. Starting in the fall of 1910, at the home of Waldo Wood who was our class president, several members met for a turkey dinner. Every year from that time, these meetings were continued until finally in 1935, our 25th anniversary arrived, at which time the old class roll was called and a formal reorganization was effected. Efforts to locate members, trace of whom had been lost during the years, resulted in increased attendance and interesting letters from those in other states.

We have always been proud to have had as our class sponsor Professor H. M. Whisler, whose loyalty to our organization has endeared him to us and whose faithful attendance at these annual meetings we all appreciate and enjoy. Members who have been in attendance are: Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Lawler, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. McClanahan, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brengle, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Lochmuller, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Breitweiser, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Nichols, Mrs. Ollie Wood Kelly, Mrs. Sara King Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wright, Mr. and Mrs. William Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Carmel Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Hiner Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Wilson, and Mr. and Mrs. Harlan L. Craig.

At the annual meeting last fall at the home of Otto Breitwiser, those present voted unanimously that our class would sponsor the Hargrave Memorial. We therefore, the Scientifics of 1910, as an expression of our affection and respect, will make this presentation to Central Normal College on June 10, 1943.

Respectfully submitted,
Georgia Haynes Craig,
Class Secretary.

Members of the Scientific Class of '81 Receive Special In- vitation to Hargrave Reunion

Special letters of invitation have gone out from the college to members of the Scientific Class of 1881, with which both Professor and Mrs. Hargrave were graduated, asking them to attend the Hargrave Memorial Commencement. This class, like the Scientifics of 1910, has maintained a remarkable unity and group spirit through the years. In 1931, three years after the death of Professor Hargrave, eleven of the original thirty-one members celebrated their Golden Anniversary at the Hargrave home, and attended college convocation in a body. Those attending were Mrs. S. M. Ralston, Prof. J. M. Williams, J. N. Hinshaw, Dr. J. B. Maxwell, Arthur W. Shoemaker, Dr. Willis B. Huron and Mrs. Jennie Osborn Huron, Mrs. Florence Jackman Gunn, Prof. G. L. Spillman, and Mrs. Hargrave.

As a souvenir of this anniversary occasion and in honor of her husband, Mrs. Hargrave had published a beautiful memorial booklet. Some of the material which she collected into this souvenir booklet reappears in the present number of the Bulletin.

It is hoped that several of the remaining members of this splendid class can be present to join in the memorial tribute to their beloved classmate.

Hargrave Portrait and Well House Were Given by Alumni Groups

The oil portrait of Professor Hargrave in Chapel Hall is the gift of a group of one hundred and fifty-four alumni who employed the services of Frank Wagner to paint it, and presented it informally to the college in September 1916. For many years following the presentation, it was Mrs. Hargrave's thoughtful custom to place a bouquet of flowers before the portrait on Professor Hargrave's birthdays.

All of our students may not know that the Wellhouse, featured in so many C. N. C. campus photographs, was built by the class of 1927 in memory of Professor Hargrave.

Alumni Committee In Charge of Plans for Banquet

Arrangements for the banquet program are in the hands of a special committee appointed by Dr. Whisler, composed of Mrs. Julian Hogate, Vice President of the Alumnae Association, Mr. C. R. Maxam, and Miss Blythe Osborne.

We hope for as large a gathering on this memorial occasion as transportation difficulties will permit. The banquet will be an old-fashioned chicken dinner and the price per plate one dollar. Due to the food situation, it will be impossible to serve anyone whose reservation is not received ahead of time. Let us make this another fine, friendly alumni get-together like the one honoring Mrs. Olcott last June.

Remember the time, Thursday, June 10, at six-thirty. Make your plans early and send in your reservations by June 5.

The by-laws of the Central Normal College Alumnae Association provide for the payment of one dollar as dues by those becoming members at graduation. This provision has been much neglected in the past, and the Association has been handicapped in undertaking any constructive program in behalf of their alma mater by the lack of a working fund.

The class of 1943 plans to reemphasize the custom of alumni dues by collecting the entire sum before Commencement and presenting it with a little appropriate speech by their president at the Hargrave Memorial Alumnae Banquet, which they will attend in a body. They trust that succeeding graduating classes will keep up this custom.

Due to war conditions, this class is sacrificing the publication of a Centurian, and will publish an inexpensive booklet instead.

Calendar of Commencement Events

Sunday, June 6

Reception for the Seniors at four o'clock, in the Recreation Room.

Baccalaureate Service at the Danville Christian Church at seven-thirty.

Monday evening, June 7

Music Recital at eight o'clock in Chapel Hall.

Tuesday, June 8

Senior Convocation at nine o'clock in Chapel Hall.

Sigma Phi Kappa Delta Initiation and Banquet at six o'clock at Hilltop Tea Room.

Thursday evening, June 10

Dedication of Hargrave Hall at six-thirty, followed by Hargrave Memorial Alumnae Dinner and Senior Dance.

Friday morning, June 11

Annual Commencement Exercises in the College Gymnasium at ten o'clock.

Living and LEARNING
AT CENTRAL NORMAL COLLEGE

DANVILLE
INDIANA

THE COLLEGE OF FRIENDSHIP, ECONOMY AND SERVICE

CENTRAL NORMAL COLLEGE

This tower contains the CNC bell which has a traditional significance to students and alumni.

May this tower come to mean as much to you who are seeking a college in which to prepare for your future.

Central Normal College is located in a friendly little town whose chief interest is its college. Danville provides a home of culture and friendship for your student days.

Central Normal College has long been noted for its friendliness of spirit and the economical conditions it provides for its students.

Danville is located close to Indianapolis, near the center of the state, making it convenient to all parts of Indiana.

For further information, address The Registrar, Central Normal College, Danville, Indiana

CENTRAL NORMAL COLLEGE BULLETIN

Vol. 38

No. 1

Entered as second class matter, July 14, 1910 at the post office, Danville, Indiana, under Act of Congress of July 15, 1894.

Training For Teaching and Business

Central Normal College is approved for licensing of teachers in: ART, COMMERCE, ENGLISH, FOREIGN LANGUAGES, MATHEMATICS, MUSIC, MUSIC SUPERVISORS, PHYSICAL EDUCATION FOR MEN AND WOMEN, PHYSICAL AND BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES, SOCIAL SCIENCES, AND ELEMENTARY TEACHING.

Courses are also given for the student who is interested in the one-year, two-year or the four-year Business Course preparing the student for: Clerical Work, Stenographic Work, Secretarial Work, Accounting, Salesmanship, or Commercial Teaching.

Pre-Professional training is offered in Law, Nursing, Medicine, Business Administration, Engineering, etc.

The Music Department offers opportunities for students to study music and, through the band, orchestra and other ensembles, to appear before many audiences.

Interesting Classes For Every Student

Classes are informally conducted, instructors giving assistance to students wherever needed. The above is a typical campus scene at Central Normal College showing art students sketching. The campus and park furnish spots of interest for those interested in nature and outdoor activities.

Many of the state's scenic beauties are located within a short distance of the college.

Classes in other subjects find it worthwhile to study plants and trees in the nearby country while business students frequently make trips to Indianapolis to visit business offices and factories.

An attempt is made at all times to give the students in the classrooms the same feeling of personal contact that will be present in their classrooms in high schools in which they will teach.

Students Have Real Friends in Faculty

The members of the faculty of Central Normal College are personally interested in the students, classes are small enough to allow individual attention, and a spirit of friendliness and cooperation is constantly maintained between faculty and students.

Each faculty member takes a personal interest in his students, studying the capacity and characteristics of each in order to guide him into his place in life.

Members of the faculty are well trained and mature, yet young enough to have a sympathetic understanding of each student's personal problems.

Research and Initiative Are Encouraged

Adequate equipment and capable teaching encourage the development of initiative in science. Central Normal College offers courses in Chemistry, Physics, Botany, and Zoology. Students interested in nursing, medicine, and engineering will get a sound foundation at Central Normal College. An excellent two-year course leading toward a professional chemistry career is offered.

Students who plan to teach will find an interesting group of courses leading toward licenses in physical and biological science. Science in combination with commerce promises a bright future in industry and teaching.

An Enthusiastic Commerce Department

"All Who Enter Here Must Work" is the inscription over the doors of the Business Department, but in work students and faculty of Central Normal College find not only fun and fellowship, but friendship and growth through increased knowledge and skill. In the above picture (1) high school students arrive for the annual commerce contest; (2) a stencil for the duplicated school paper is proofed; (3) students use electromatic typewriters; (4) chairmen prepare for the contest; (5) modern equipment is available; (6) both mimeograph and multilith are used.

Leadership is encouraged by assigning students various tasks involved in carrying out the Business Education program.

Commerce Champions

Above: Members of the group were contestants in the International Commercial Schools Contest held annually at the Hotel Sherman in Chicago. The CNC squad won the grand championship in the College and University Division in both 1940 and 1941.

At right: Students are preparing The Crier, the weekly school paper. The National Duplicated Paper Association is sponsored by this department.

Wholesome Athletic Program

Major sports at Central Normal College are football, basketball, and baseball. They are supplemented by well-rounded physical education preparation for teaching and working.

Central Normal teams have compiled an enviable record in inter-collegiate athletics in recent years. Prospects for the ensuing year are bright with many returning letter men battling last year's freshmen numeral winners for positions.

Minor Sports

Golf, tennis, and swimming squads have long formed an important part of Central Normal's wholesome athletic activities. Additional emphasis on minor sports has been planned for coming years.

Intramural, as well as intercollegiate, competition gives every student an opportunity to participate in sports.

Learn Through Labor

Laboratory courses in the sciences are well equipped and interestingly taught. Biology laboratory is supplemented by field trips, and photography fans find an instructive outlet in the campus publications.

The Social Science department offers broad background material leading to an understanding of society and its problems. Emphasis has been placed on developing a special curriculum in international relations.

Classes in Methods of Teaching study modern teaching and up-to-date equipment. Visual education will play an important part in the teaching of tomorrow.

(15)

Democracy In Social Life

Democracy is the keynote of the campus spirit. There are no class distinctions between organized or non-organized or between those who have money and those who have to work. On this campus, merit alone determines the status of the individual. It is this spirit which is noticed by the stranger on the campus, and which constantly lives in the hearts of students and alumni binding them together into friendships which continue throughout life.

Banquets, parties, May Day festivities, and Mixers give students an opportunity to know proper etiquette and proper demeanor as well as to get acquainted with others.

Kate Hargrave Smith

(1)

Central Normal College Bulletin

VOL. 1.

April, 1942

No. 1.

Published monthly, except in the months of July and August, by Central Normal College, Danville, Indiana. Entered as second class matter at the post office at Danville, Indiana, under Act of Congress of July 15, 1894.

A History of Three Values

SERVICE is embodied in the name Central Normal College. The founders of the college were not foolish dreamers but men of unusual courage and vision. They lived in a section of the United States made memorable by the ORDINANCE OF 1787 which said:

"Religion, morality, and knowledge, being necessary for the welfare of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged."

So these men were true to the spirit of the times and established a college to train teachers for the youth of the Middle-west.

Today, more than three thousand alumni and former students of Central Normal College are teaching in the schools of the nation. Other thousands have become leaders in almost every other walk of life. Their record is an open book. "Their line has gone out through all the earth, and their words to the end of the world."

REALITY is a magical word at Central Normal College. Most of the students who enter its halls have come because they were forced to face reality. To them college life is not a "four years' residence at a glorified country club." Many of them find part time work in factories, garages, stores, offices, and homes. No one is looked down on because he works his way through college; in fact he is looked up to.

The faculty have also faced reality and they have passed it on to their students. Like the great artist they have mixed their colors with brains. To the student the memory of the great teachers of Central Normal College will always be inspiring.

OPPORTUNITY is a synonym for Central Normal College. It is located not far from the center of population both in Indiana and in the United States, in what Edgar Lee Masters aptly calls "The Great Valley."

The institution has furnished the opportunity of an education to many students who would not otherwise have received it. A prominent and unusually successful man in a business of national scope recently made this remarkable statement:

"During the summer before I entered college I had saved sixty dollars by working as a section hand on a railroad in southern Indiana. Before I left home I had to give my mother half of my earnings to pay a long overdue grocery bill. When I arrived in Danville after paying my railroad fare and the first installment on my tuition I had only thirty-seven cents left."

In this day of great moral, spiritual, and cultural upheaval, it is imperative that the college live on and continue to make its valuable assets and purposes more dynamic than ever. To retreat would spell disloyalty to education, which is the bulwark of the democratic way of life. In the degree that we are loyal to the college we will demonstrate our own personal capacity for vision and thereby earn the undying gratitude of deserving young men and women.

Let us not forget that what we belong to is more important than what belongs to us.

Kate Hargrave Smith estate 5-25-1982

(2)

From Our Alumni Mail

The spirit that existed between the students and the faculty was perhaps the finest thing that I remember. Of course, we learned Latin, history, science, etc., but we learned the spirit of fellowship and devotion to a great cause which was worth more than our academic training.

Charles E. Cook,
Superintendent North Manchester Schools, North Manchester, Indiana.

I remember Central Normal chiefly because of the democratic spirit of the professors. . . . After visiting a great many colleges I feel that this is one of C. N. C.'s unique values.

John W. Goodpasture,
Pastor, First Presbyterian Church, Mendota, Illinois.

The C. N. C. I knew—a place where a boy or girl of moderate means could get a start in securing an education, a place where our best was expected of us and where we gave it, a place where the teachers were sympathetic with all their students and interested in them and a place where we formed friendships that have brightened all the years since.

Mrs. Minnie Noe Leak,
Lizton, Indiana.

How well I remember such outstanding men and women as President Laird, President Rigdon, our beloved Mrs. Olcott, Professor and Mrs. Luscomb, Dean Whisler, Professor Towell, Mrs. Niswander, Miss Day and others too numerous to mention. Throughout the years I have remembered the inspiration and pleasure derived from the social life, church life and the contact with the good people of Danville.

As an alumnus I wish to say that I have never been without a teaching position, not even one year.

Eudora Kelley,
Ben Davis High School, Indianapolis, Indiana.

The thing that impressed me most was the spirit of friendship and altruism that existed among the members of the student body. This along with the democratic idea of recognizing the ability of individuals as leaders seemed to me a worth while attribute.

Raymond B. Lemmel,
Principal Black Oak School, Gary, Indiana.

(3)

I am impressed when I think of the stream of young men and women who in the past fifty years have gone out from this college better fitted for life's work.

Geo. D. Dye (student at C. N. C. fifty-two years ago.)
Wolcott, Indiana.

Without doubt one of the most important elements of education offered to me by the College was the close contact with members of the faculty and administration; these constituted to me the leadership, in fact, they were the college.

The fact that Central Normal students have given good account of themselves in law, in teaching, in medicine, and other fields, for the forty years I have observed them, is proof that the ideals of the founders of the college were right.

Mason E. Hufford,
Associate Professor of Physics, Indiana University.

I entered Central Normal College the fall of 1882, hoping to find an institution where I could learn something to teach and how to teach it. I found what I was seeking, so I remained in the school.

Arthur L. Foley,
Emeritus Professor of Physics, Indiana University.

We were not a cog in a big wheel—we were important individuals and so considered by the entire staff. Possibly the greatest value which I received at Central Normal College was a thorough training in how to work.

Grover Van Duyn,
Business Manager, Indiana State Teachers College.

Having served for twenty-six years as a Superintendent of Public Schools in Indiana, and having thus had an opportunity to check the output of many teacher-training institutions, I am satisfied that the Central Normal College has made a valuable contribution to the education of the youth of Indiana.

Geo. C. Cole,
Former State Superintendent, Lawrenceburg, Indiana.

High ideals and democratic principles have always been held before the students, and self-reliance coupled with honesty and industry have been instilled in the student body.

Central Normal College has always filled a need with young people who were short on finances but who had ambition.

Roscoe R. Leak,
Lizton, Indiana.

For the student who is making plans to enter some college, it seems to me that Danville has many attractions. There are the friendly townspeople, accommodating business houses, and hospitable churches—factors that play a big part in the life of any individual. Then an efficient faculty, an earnest student body, and above all the spirit of neighborliness, leaves little more to be desired by a student who intends to take advantage of every opportunity that presents itself.

Eva Harbinson,
Scircleville High School, Scircleville, Indiana.

The Central Normal College Bulletin

VOL. 1.

April, 1942

No. 1.

Published by Central Normal College

Editor: Bertha M. Watts

Editorial Staff

Dr Edwin Barlow Evans

Mrs. Daisy M. Jones

Dean Flora Schaefer Evans

Dr. Esther Whitney

James B. Wilson

Dear Alumni and Former Students:

Since you left Central Normal College, often in the midst of busy days we have remembered with pleasure the time you spent with us. In retrospect each of us would say of that memorable time, as of the present:

"My heart is warm with the friends I make,
And better friends I'll not be knowing."

Year after year as a steady stream of graduates has gone out from Central Normal, we have watched them go with an immense pride in them but with a bit of wistfulness, too. We have wished that the friendships formed here might endure and grow stronger with the passing of the years. Some of us have dreamed of a monthly bulletin which would help to accomplish that end. Although it was long before the dream could be realized, we kept our faith in it. And at last that faith has created a fact; the first number of the bulletin is almost ready for the press.

We hope you will enjoy the bulletin. We hope that as you read this April number, you will, in imagination, walk again over the old campus trails, chatting companionably with those you knew and loved here. If, according to our wish, it revives pleasant memories of happy days spent here, it would give us pleasure to have you tell us so. And will you, from time to time, contribute some news items for it? News of yourself or of any other alumnus or former student will be welcomed and given a place. Will you do your part to make our wish for closer ties among all Central-Normalites come splendidly true?

Cordially yours,

BERTHA M. WATTS.

Campus and Alumni Notes

As a culmination of the freshman courses in grammar and composition, the work in speech was put into practical application at a dinner sponsored by the class, March 21. This has become an annual affair under the guidance of Miss Watts. A number of alumni were present, and after dinner speeches featured the C. N. C. of yesterday, today, and tomorrow with a summary by Dr. Evans, head of the English Department.

Dr. Evans has made approximately sixty public addresses within the last two years. These have included high school commencement addresses in Indiana and Illinois, County Institute talks at Franklin and Lebanon, a course of lectures for Danville's Up-To-Date Club, and other talks before the Lions' Club, the Commercial Club, churches, and campus organizations. On April 1, he addressed a dinner meeting of the Indianapolis Y. M. C. A.

Mrs. Jones, our director of supervised teaching, has been doing important work on two educational committees; a State committee on the teaching of reading, composed of twenty seven members from the elementary, high school, and college fields, and a committee for the improvement of the supervised teaching program as it relates to teacher licensing.

Mrs. Wean has acted as chairman of a state committee in charge of investigations and recommendations for licenses in commerce.

In a recent convocation talk, President Hunt emphasized the importance of mathematics, physics, and chemistry in the V 1 program of the Navy. This program makes it possible for a high school graduate to enlist in the Navy, and at the same time enroll as a Freshman in college with the opportunity of completing two calendar years of college work before being called into active service. A selected group who rank highest in national competitive examinations will be enabled to complete work for a college degree as a preliminary to officers' training. Dean Green, head of the Department of Mathematics, is chairman of a faculty committee for the organization of the Navy Training Program on the campus.

Under the direction of Miss Gaston and Mr. Skidmore, the various musical organizations, Orchestra, Band, Chorus, Sextette, Three Men and a Girl, and several soloists, have given a number of programs at convocation and at Clayton, Belle Union, and Otterbein. The Easter Cantata was given at 11 o'clock, April 2. A number of music students are regular members of Danville church choirs.

Mrs. Marjorie Byrum Young of Indianapolis, has been added to the music faculty to teach voice.

Mr. Wilson, head of the Art Department, recently gave an instructive and interesting talk on Surrealism to the Art Club, using illustrative material which he collected last year while at Yale University. He has arranged for an exhibit of life drawings from Elmer Taflinger's studio in Indianapolis to be brought to the college in April.

The Student Christian Association, sponsored by Dr. Whitney and Dean Green, has enjoyed a number of fine programs by out-of-town speakers and members of our own town and campus. Speakers from other colleges included Dr. Whisler, Dr. Palmer, and Dr. Moore of Butler University, and Dean Bartlett of DePauw. Among the Danville speakers, have been Mr. Hume, the Rev. Mr. Lett, and Mrs. Conn, who reviewed The Keys of the Kingdom, by A. J. Cronin. A particularly enjoyable program was given by Professor Johnson consisting of colored movies of the western trip taken with his family, news summaries, and entertaining campus shots. Dr. Morgan gave a talk on mental health, Miss Blair led an interesting book meeting, Miss Watts and Dr. Evans gave Bible programs, and Dean Hightower conducted a panel discussion on Home Life, with the cooperation of a number of the students and of Superintendent Vaughan, the Rev. Mr. Hornick, and Mrs. Jones.

The Student Christian Association Cabinet was entertained with a supper at the home of Dean Green when they met to nominate officers for the coming year.

At a pre-Easter meeting, Mrs. Evans gave an interpretative reading of Charles Rann Kennedy's play The Terrible Meek. A beautiful Easter sunrise service was conducted by the Association the morning of April 2, with special music, and an inspirational talk by Miss Winona Stuart.

Sigma Phi Kappa Delta, campus honorary society, welcomed a fine group of twelve new members at the initiation dinner held at Hilltop Tea Room the week-end of Homecoming. Members and guests enjoyed an interesting illustrated lecture, Vegetation on the March, by Dr. John E. Potzger of Butler University.

As speaker for the Mother-Daughter Banquet in May, Dean Evans has secured Mrs. Edwin I. Poston, who was president of the Indiana Federation of Clubs during 1939-40, and is now General Federation Director.

Mr. Winfrey, head of the History Department, recently took members of the Social Problems Class on a field trip to Indianapolis. Institutions visited were Lochfield Gardens, Flanner House, School for the Blind, and Central Hospital. Mr. Winfrey divides the work of the department with Mr. Elder, who gives the courses in European History, Political Science, and International Relations.

Coach Miller has announced the basketball awards for the season which recently closed as follows: Major letters: Everett Younger, Robert Shaw, Norman Bell, Walter and Norris Jackson, Robert Bates, James Bush, Robert Forsythe, Frank Hanson, Floyd Conrad. Minor letters: Otto Byers, Richard Tanselle, P. A. Martin, Emerson Walker.

Numerals: Emmett Ewing, James Gardner, Robert Hadley, Ralph Starkey, Gene Dotson, Aubrey Robinson, Earl Davis.

Everett Younger was named by WISH Radio Station, the Indianapolis Star, and the Indianapolis News as forward on the second All-State Team. Mr. Miller also announces a fine track schedule which will include participation in two triangular, one quadrangular, and two state meets. The golf schedule may develop into the best in years. The baseball schedule will be limited, because of accelerated programs in the various schools.

Dr. Isabel Morgan, college physician, has nearly completed 3,800 hearing tests in the county schools. A number of the college students gained valuable experience through assisting with these tests, which will make possible early diagnosis and treatment of hearing difficulties among the children. Dr. Morgan is also giving three courses in First Aid, besides the regular college course: one to a Tri Kappa group in Danville, another to a group of thirty-eight townspeople in Coatesville who requested the course, and the third to members of Chi Omega Sorority in Indianapolis.

The eleventh annual Commercial Contest was held on March 28, in which approximately 1,350 tests were given to contestants from all parts of Indiana. It proved a real home-coming for alumni who are teaching business in different schools. This contest has proved a worthwhile event for all concerned in helping with the standardization of teaching commercial subjects. It has also increased interest in the entire school.

Information concerning the spring and summer schedule is being sent to more than two thousand Indiana teachers who do not yet have their degrees. These names were sent in by superintendents who are interested in having this information reach their teachers.

In February came the sad news of the death of Mrs. Reibold, widow of the late Dr. George Reibold, former head of the English Department. Mrs. Reibold is survived by two sons, Charles, and George K., who received his A. B. degree from Central Normal College in 1926.

Mrs. Anna Flick of Mitchell, Indiana, wrote us an interesting letter concerning her moving with the college from Ladoga to Danville. She is planning to attend the 1942 Commencement.

Reverend John Goodpasture, who, since his graduation in 1929, has been pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Mendota, Illinois, has gone to a new pastorate at Terre Haute, Indiana.

Recently, Dr. M. S. Mahan visited the college. He gave some interesting reminiscences of his own "salad days" here and of those of his classmate, Lewis Terman, now head of the Psychology Department in Stanford University.

8

How C. N. C.'s Friends May Help Her

Central Normal College depends upon its loyal friends:

1. To read its literature.
2. To visit it whenever possible.
3. To keep it informed of their correct addresses.
4. To give as they can toward its support.
5. To put it in touch with prospective students.
6. To speak a good word for it whenever opportunity offers.
7. To realize its unique and necessary place in "helping youth help themselves."
8. To believe in it not only as an institution of learning but as an idea, a purpose, and a spirit which the world needs and which must live on and on.

The Greater CENTRAL NORMAL COLLEGE Campaign

....., 194.....

I subscribe and herewith pay to Central Normal College the sum of

..... Dollars ($.....).

I promise to pay to Central Normal College the sum of

..... Dollars ($.....).

on or before, 194.....

Signed

Address

Draw check to order of Central Normal College and mail to President Virgil Hunt, Central Normal College, Danville, Ind.

Kate Hargrave Smith

CENTRAL NORMAL COLLEGE BULLETIN

VOL. 1

May, 1942

No. 2

Published monthly, except in the months of July and August, by Central Normal College, Danville, Indiana. Entered as second class matter at the post office at Danville, Indiana, under Act of Congress of August 24, 1912.

Commencement Week PROGRAM

Friday, June 5

6:00 P. M. Sigma Phi Kappa Delta Initiation
6:30 P. M. Sigma Phi Kappa Delta Banquet
Reception Room

Sunday, June 7

4:30 to 6:00 P. M. President's Reception
Reception Room
8:00 P. M. Baccalaureate Service
Christian Church Auditorium

Monday, June 8

8:00 P. M. Music Recital
Chapel Hall

Tuesday, June 9

9:00 A. M. Senior Convocation
Chapel Hall

Wednesday, June 10

8:00 P. M. Senior Play
"Her Husband's Wife"—A. E. Thomas
Directed by Mrs. Flora Schaefer Evans
Chapel Hall

Thursday, June 11

6:00 P. M. Olcott Dinner and Reunion
Reception Room and Chapel Hall
9:00 P. M. Alumni Ball
Grid Room

Friday, June 12

8:00 A. M. Class Reunions
9:45 A. M. Band Concert
10:00 A. M. Commencement Exercises
Address by Honorable Claude C. Smith, '12, Philadelphia
Gymnasium
12:30 P. M. Alumni Luncheon
Grid Room

The Central Normal College Bulletin

VOL. 1.

May, 1942

No. 2

Published by Central Normal College
Editorial Staff

Editor: Bertha M. Watts

Dr. Edwin Barlow Evans

Mrs. Daisy M. Jones

Dean Flora Schaefer Evans

Dr. Esther Whitney

James B. Wilson

MRS. E. E. OLCOTT, Practical Idealist

The faith she taught gave wings to life—
She made ideals seem
As tangible as bread, and yet
As lovely as a dream.

Mrs. E. E. Olcott taught in Central Normal College for more than a quarter of a century (1898-1924). Her work for primary teachers was not surpassed in the United States. Her model class in primary work was the standard of all such work during her time. In fact, she was a pioneer in the methods considered up-to-date and efficient in our own day.

Mrs. Olcott lectured in many teachers' institutes, giving instruction in elementary methods in at least half of the counties of Indiana. She was a most excellent public speaker, perfectly at ease before her audience.

Editors of school journals recognized Mrs. Olcott as an authority in primary education. She contributed to many journals and was the author of several books on methods.

She was versed in classic literature and seemed able at all times to recall and quote long passages of prose and verse. She was the founder of the Pleasant Hour Club which flourished here for a number of years under her direction. This club is now being revived as an organization especially for elementary teachers who wish to do recreational reading to broaden the field of their literary acquaintance.

The old classrooms of Academy Hall where Mrs. Olcott did most of her teaching are now being redecorated and prepared for another period of use. Room O, furnished as a reading room, will be used by the Pleasant Hour Club and for other activities which contribute to the achievement of such aims as Mrs. Olcott set up in her valuable work here. Dr. Evelyn Bush, sister of Mrs. Olcott, is presenting a framed portrait of Mrs. Olcott for this room, together with a collection of books which she used. The room will be known as the Olcott Reading Room. Old Room J is to be rechristened as the Olcott Recitation Room and used for classes in methods and literature.

May the spirit of this great teacher live on and continue its beneficent influence in Central Normal College through all the years to come.

Campus and Alumni Notes

Central Normal College has been approved for the V-1 program of the Navy. The following telegram was received by President Hunt: "The Navy is proud that your college has undertaken our V-1 plan for training freshmen and sophomores as officer material. Please tell your young men who applied for enlistment and training under this plan that they will be serving the Nation if they continue their college courses no less than those of your alumni who are already in active service. The Navy knows your institution and your V-1 students will do their part."—Frank Knox, Secretary of the Navy.

Dr. Evelyn Bush of Louisville, Kentucky, will be a guest at the Olcott dinner and reunion. Word has also been received from Superintendent Grover Brown of Brown County that he will be present and will tell some of the famous Olcott stories.

The following recent marriages will be of interest to alumni: Mary Nicholson and Paul Tucker; Laura Susdorf and Lester Doeden; Patricia Summers and Harvey Meeks; Ruth Carolyn Dawson and Gerald Doeden; Alberta Thomas and Kenneth Dickerson.

New courses being offered during the mid-spring term are Elementary Curriculum Construction, Conservation, and International Personalities and Problems. Special instruction in multilith operation is being given in response to a demand for such operators in the armed forces and in industry.

As a welcome to mid-spring students, the Student Christian Association sponsored a weiner roast in the park. Freshmen and new students were guests. Dean Green gave a talk and led in group singing.

Because of the war and its attendant circumstances, the members of the Association of Women Students have decided not to hold the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet this year. The money ordinarily spent for the banquet will be used for the purchase of a war bond to be presented to the college.

Delightful chapel programs were given by students from Speedway City under the direction of Miss Louise Starkey and Mr. Lincoln Northcott and by Mr. Frank Martin's band from Fillmore.

The Art Department and Biology Department are planning a joint art exhibit and flower show for the week before Commencement.

Very suddenly on the night of April 2, Dr. Fassett A. Cotton died, after eighty years into which he had crowded much of enthusiasm, work, and achievement. He is missed in the college and the Danville community and will be missed by a wide circle of former students who enjoyed the work in his classes.

Principal Arlie Fravel of Sandcreek Township School, Decatur County, recently brought seven boys from his school for enrollment in the freshman class; Sam Williams was on the campus shortly after, bringing two boys from his school. C. N. C. appreciates such fine cooperation from its alumni.

Kate Hargrave Smith estate 5-25-1982

(4)

Mrs. Etta Hogate who was called to the bedside of her son, Kenneth, of Scarsdale, New York, has returned to her home in Danville and reports that Kenneth's health is gradually improving.

Students and faculty are saddened by the news that Lieutenant Ralph Mauck of the U. S. Army Air Corps is reported missing.

Chez Haehl and Dorman ("Tuffy") Morrison came to visit the campus at the close of their school terms. Both are enlisting within a few weeks.

Lillian McGuirk writes: "Leave it to the McGuirks to boost C. N. C. There were six of us children and we all have attended school there. Through our influence many boys and girls went to Central Normal College for their training."

It seems that the Carmichaels have done their part, too, for our records show that L. N. Carmichael, '94, has sent five sons to C. N. C.—Vernal H., Forest V., Kenneth C., Ernest E., and Geoffrey.

"The C. N. C. spirit, which only those who have attended can know, is an attribute used unconsciously by its students in the development of self-confidence, which every progressive citizen must obtain."—C. D. Plummer, Columbus, Indiana.

"Your wonderful college has had a great record. It gives the student more per dollar than any other college with which I am familiar."—C. A. Trevebaugh, State Representative of the USO War Fund Campaign, Salt Lake City, Utah.

From Reece C. Bowton comes this word: "I have just received the C. N. C. bulletin today. It did me good to see so many names of people who have written something for you. Many of them I know, and I am glad to hear of them once more."

Alma Zarse Christopher writes: "Congratulations! Your bulletin is a definite step in the progress of C. N. C."

We wish we could share with you all the letters and verbal comments we have had concerning the first number of the Bulletin, and could write personal letters of thanks to all who are so generously helping with letters, articles, and addresses. Since that is impossible, please accept, here and now, our very sincere thanks to each one who has helped.

The college is arranging a filing cabinet with a folder for each alumnus. This provides a place to file all information which may be sent to us concerning the sons and daughters of C. N. C. We shall appreciate having newspaper or magazine clippings, as well as programs, or personal letters which tell of changes of position, honors, and achievements of our alumni and former students. Please send all such items directly to Bertha Watts, who is in charge of the arrangement of the alumni files.

Commencement is coming. Why don't you come, too? The "7's" and the "2's" will want to compete with each other in their class reunions. No one who was ever in Mrs. Olcott's classes will want to miss the Olcott reunion. Just now the news has arrived that Mr. Harry Kelley of Nashville will act as Master of Ceremonies. Good news, indeed, assuring everyone that the true Olcott spirit will prevail throughout the occasion.

(5)

Contributors to the C.N.C. Security Fund

From Danville and Hendricks County:

James R. Alley, Dr. and Mrs. A. G. Barrett, A. G. Blair, F. W. Blanton, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Baker, Elsie Blessing, E. M. Blessing, Banquet Ice Cream Co., Geo. W. Brill, Business and Professional Women's Club, Allen Campbell, K. F. Cates, the Lions Club, Z. E. Dougan, Wiley C. Dorsett, N. B. Dinsmore, Mrs. J. A. Downard, The Commercial Club, Edward Eikman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elder, C. J. Elson, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin B. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Franklin, Mount E. Frantz, Mr. and Mrs. Carey Gaston, Marjorie Dean Gaston, Dr. J. W. Gibbs, R. L. Green, Dr. J. H. Grimes, Otis E. Gulley, F. E. Guthrie, Alvin Hall, F. Brewer Hadley, M. O. Hadley, Geo. W. Hadley, Carol J. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Ned Herrington, P. R. Hightower, Mrs. J. D. Hogate, Virgil Hunt, Glen Hovermale, Bertha Higgins, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Johnson, Daisy M. Jones, R. P. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kahl, John A. Kendall, Harold M. Knetzer, Kroger Grocery, Mr. and Mrs. Robert King, Dr. W. T. Lawson, Rev. and Mrs. Harry Lett, Chester Martin, Mrs. Floy Modesitt, L. C. Morris, John Moran, Chas. G. Miles, Mrs. Horace G. Miles, Frank Myers, Vernon Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Parr, Mr. and Mrs. Chester V. Parker, Leighton B. Platter, Public Service Co., Pierson Bros., Frank L. Ridgway, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Rault, W. P. Rigdon, Lee Sadler, E. A. Sallust, Chas. V. Sears, Fred C. Shelton, Charles E. Shields, Bernice E. Shirley, Sigma Phi Kappa Delta, Ed Smith, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Snyder, John L. Stephenson, L. R. Stockton, Kenneth J. Smith, Crawford Taylor, John D. Taylor, Glen Tharp, Dorothea Thomas, H. M. Towell, E. W. Thomas, Chas. M. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Vannice, William E. Wachtel, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Walter, Bertha Watts, Mrs. Blanche Wean, E. J. Weesner, H. M. Whisler, N. E. Winfrey, James B. Wilson, Amanda Leak, Vivian Tansel Smith.

From other places:

Hazel D. Anderson, Columbus; Grace I. Clark, Mt. Summit; Anna Mae Coffing, Frankfort; Thelma Deer, Frankfort; Maxine Edmondson, Sweetser; Catherine Eldridge, Indianapolis; Harry Evans, Lexington, Ky.; Margaret Fitzpatrick, Hollywood, California; Gerald Haffner, Jamestown; Bernard Hurst, Manilla; Thomas Isaacs, South Bend; James Jenkins, Decker; Joyce Johnson, Falmouth; Louise Knauer, Greencastle; Hope McBride, Leavenworth; Mary Miller, Valparaiso; Agnes A. Newbold, Eau Claire, Wis.; Mrs. S. M. Ralston, Indianapolis; Eugene Ross, Speedway City; Hubert Scott, Cannelton; Carl Steinman, Williamsport; Maxine Tharp, Fillmore; Dorothy Thomas, Bloomingdale; Ensign Ansel Wallace, Washington, D. C.; Nellie Walker, Patriot; Phyllis Barrett, Rochester.

The bells of C. N. C. are sounding a new note of gladness these days because of the generous friends listed here. With grateful thoughts toward these contributors and all others who are showing loyalty to the school, we are facing the future with renewed courage. With mutual faith and co-operation among C. N. C.'s students, faculty, Board of Trustees, alumni, and friends, the college will reach new frontiers of progress and continue to enrich the lives of youth through many generations to come.

County and District Organizations

Bartholomew, Johnson, and Brown Counties will hold their Alumni meeting on Friday night, May 22, at the Colonial Inn in Columbus. Speakers have been secured and President Hunt and Dr. Evans of the faculty will also speak.

The organization of Dearborn, Ohio, and Switzerland Counties is under the chairmanship of Edward Gray, Dorothea Orem and Nellie Walker. A meeting has been arranged for the third week in May.

The Loyal Leaders in Harrison and Crawford Counties are Sidney Amy, George Merk and Otto C. Kopp of Harrison County, and Mrs. Nellie Harvey of Crawford County. Judge Clyde Lottick of the circuit court, as well as speakers from the campus, will address the meeting.

The White County alumni and former students will organize for a meeting before Commencement time. Some of the Loyal Leaders in that county are: Fred J. Tam, Marian Edmondson Nichols, H. Eunice Meeks, Nolan Sappenfield, Brunhild Faulkinbury, Robert Connarroe and Curtis Wilson.

The Montgomery County alumni and former students are planning a meeting in Crawfordsville. The Loyal Leaders there are Clyde Gentry, Mrs. Edna Kelley and Mrs. Edith Ross.

The Boone County alumni and former students are being organized by Miss Margaret Martin of Lebanon. They are planning a meeting for about the first week in June.

Putnam County Loyal Leaders are: Paul Deich, County Superintendent Frank Jarrell, Frank Martin, Ethel Hurst and Pleasant Heavin. They have not yet announced the date of their meeting.

The group in Shelby County is in charge of Wray Orem of the Colescott School.

A TRIBUTE

Here, we believe, is the most beautiful tribute C. N. C. has every received:

"I always think of the Central Normal College as such a school as Abraham Lincoln would have founded, had he turned his hand that way, a school for the common, busy folks of the world." —Harvey Gard, '97, Essayist.

Addresses Wanted

The College desires to have the present address of every alumnus and former student. Will you please look over the following list of names and send us as many addresses as you can?

As Central Normal College cannot afford a paid secretary to keep the lists up to date, it must depend upon your loyalty and help. The Bulletin is not reaching those whose addresses are missing. Each address you send us will put one more person on our mailing list and will help C. N. C. alumni and former students to keep in touch with each other and with their college.

1938

Jean Elizabeth Imel, Ruth I. Wene Mendenhall, Grace McGeorge, Jackson McNabb.

1937

Donald Dawson, Genevieve Erwin, Bernice Ruark, Ellen Mae Wilson, Orville Wilson.

1936

Ivan Albright, Mary Evelyn Binford, Keith DuBois, Dave Fansler, Franklin Fisher, Gene Hendryx, John Hood, Burchard Horton, Gertrude Keith, Bertha Moore, Regina Moore, Maurice Patterson, Russell Rea, Harry Regan, Blanche Day Short, Orval Smith, Miriam Somers, Lloyd Starnes, Wilson Wheatley, Margaret Whitcomb, Adolph Zollerman.

1935

Joseph Vachel Farnsley, Lawrence Johnson.

1934

Wm. Frederick Compton, George F. DeLong, George R. Harvey, Alice Holton, Mary Dorcas Lowe, Donald McCash, Esther Menchhofer, Clarence Miller, Mary Moreland, Virgil Neier, Alma Reagan, Alta Sibbitt, Alma Stephenson, Dorothy Wallace, Isaac Wilson.

1933

Homer Broaddus, W. E. Bausman, Loretta Davis, Charles Lurton, Juanita McCormick, Clarence Pierce, Joseph Ramsey, Denzel Robertson, Virgil Riley, Alvin K. Vincent, Laura E. Wilson.

1932

Ella Ahlf, Emma Barker, Helen Beckner, Gayle DeLoy, Carol Faulkinbury, Mildred Hodgins, Marvel Hunt, Edwin Johnson, Ralph Johnson, Laurel Kelly, Elbert Hugh Lawler, Lawrence W. Pearl, Edith Alma Phillips, Helen Ray, Josef Sharp, Reginald Shultz, Maude Smith, Pearl Smith, Ferris Thompson, Orval G. Warrick, Elsie Wood, George Wood.

1931

Lillian Aders, Ernestine Aikman, Mary Barker, Ida Walker Blystone, Pauline

Cooper, Glavis Crutchfield, Lemmo Dell, Lowell A. Fancher, Wade Fuller, Kenneth Hunt, Ralph Johnson, Albert O. Mead, Ivan Miller, Robert Pollard, Harold Pruitt, Oliver Salsman, Donald B. Smith, H. H. Thacker, Charles Trobaugh, Norman Walker, Robert Wallace, Lester Williams, Elmer H. Wright.

1930

George G. Bosley, Chester O. Bosse, Everett Lee Davis, Raymond Demaree, Fred Fleming, Claudia Force, Iva Clay Freeman, Helen Hamilton, Fleeta Harbaugh, Homer Higgins, L. S. Johnson, Fern Jordan, Helen Kennedy, Lester T. Lee, Helen Lininger, Mabel Magner, Marion Maybaugh, Iva May McBride, Myron Phillips, Dallas F. Renn, Fannie Reynolds, Charles A. Richardson, William Rodebeck, Harry Elmer Sherfey, John E. Spencer, Mary Elizabeth Swisher, Homer Tucker, Walter Warden, Loren Warner, Ruby Wright, Mary Zeig.

1929

Leslie Benson, Helen Louise Curry, Beulah Shears Dick, Jesse Ferguson, Vergil M. Finchum, Arthur Fortner, William Chester Goble, Floyd E. Goffinet, Minard Hague, Joseph M. Leap, Mrs. Elva Harvey, R. C. Hill, Alidore Huffman, Cleo Isom, Glen Myers, Birdena McBroom, Louisa E. Percy, Mary Phillips, Edith Prathes, Paul Purcell, Carmon G. Ross, Maude Ross, Mary K. Sanders, Hulda Shepherd, Hardy Songer, Bertha Watkins, Cloe Wood, Lena Zehring.

1928

Vernie L. Browning, Curtis Cox, Thelma Dixon, Blanche M. Durham, Samuel F. Eberhart, Mabel Harmon, Carrie M. Vest Hice, Myrenia Renforth Inman, Edward L. Jordan, Otis G. Kelley, Eva Maxwell, Cleo H. McDonald, Ert Moore, Ona Marie Owens, Edna Soey, Edith Whitaker, Florence Whiteman, Carl Williams.

The Greater CENTRAL NORMAL COLLEGE Campaign

....., 194.....

I subscribe and herewith pay to Central Normal College the sum of

..... Dollars ($.....).

I promise to pay to Central Normal College the sum of

..... Dollars ($.....).

on or before, 194.....

Signed

Address

Draw check to order of Central Normal College and mail to President Virgil Hunt, Central Normal College, Danville, Ind.

CENTRAL NORMAL COLLEGE BULLETIN

Vol. 1

February, 1943

No. 7

Published monthly, except in the months of July and August, by Central Normal College, Danville, Indiana. Entered as second class matter at the post office at Danville, Indiana, under Act of Congress of August 24, 1912.

THE CHALLENGE TO CIVILIZATION

War is raging on five continents and the seven seas. Civilization is being weighed in the balances; freedom is being forced to the wall. There can be but one outcome: savagery and the cult of blood and might must be annihilated, and the world must witness the triumph of man, the new man, the nobler man. After the war a torn and ravished civilization will need succor and guidance. This will call for an era of rebuilding. Inert and dead ideas are doomed. Civilization must have a blood transfusion of character and culture. The college is the guardian of these values. It always has been this way, and it always will be. Let us not be traitors to tomorrow, "nor attempt the Future's portal with the Past's blood-rusted key."

THE DAY OF THE COLLEGE

After the war thousands of students will flock to the colleges seeking proper training to help them to rebuild a war-cursed world. The colleges must be ready. In the meantime they must carry on with fewer students and less money. Not to be prepared to meet this grave responsibility would be a fatal error for the colleges and a base betrayal of the priceless assets of civilization. At the present moment, hundreds of plans are advanced to aid the post-war world. To carry them out workers, social-engineers, and leaders are now training in the colleges. Let us not forget that to train these leaders the colleges face a serious duty. The small college has a rich heritage. It has trained the majority of the leaders of American civilization and culture. It has made a good start. To do the great work waiting for it, it must not be jeopardized for lack of funds.

SENSE AND SERVICE

No college ever pays cash dividends. Its returns are men, not dollars. A college is an asset to civilization; a prison is a liability. The more money we give to support colleges the less money we will need to give for the support of prisons. No college is self-supporting; no prison is self-supporting. Consider the infinite difference in the quality of products turned out by these two institutions. One leads to life; the other to death. One creates; the other destroys. Let us support more generously the college as an institution that produces men and women who walk upright and are free. It is

THE CENTRAL NORMAL COLLEGE BULLETIN

Editorial Staff

BERTHA M. WATTS, Editor

DR. EDWIN BARLOW EVANS

DR. ESTHER WHITNEY

DEAN FLORA S. EVANS

MRS. MARY BARTON JOHNSON

just sound unvarnished common sense to aid the college to render a greater service to humanity.

A "WEE BIT" GIFT A YEAR

Central Normal College has demonstrated again and again that a dollar invested in it is a dollar invested in citizenship, culture, and character. So it proposes to raise by the help of its large body of loyal alumni, hundreds of modest ANNUAL gifts the equivalent of an income from a much larger Endowment Fund. Let us examine this fact in terms of an individual. Ten dollars a year, if given each year, is equivalent to an endowment gift of two hundred and seventy-eight dollars bearing interest at the rate of 3.6 per cent. In the face of serious world-conditions, is it not more feasible to raise twenty thousand dollars each year rather than to attempt outright a million dollar campaign?

INTEREST IS ENDOWMENT

Michelangelo once said that trifles make perfection. The "Wee Bit" may seem to some a trifle, but hundreds of these trifles from hundreds of the alumni of Central Normal College will advance the college toward perfection. If you pledge

Each Year	$ 5	$ 10	$ 25	$ 50	$ 100
You actually give	$ 139	$ 278	$ 695	$ 1390	$ 2780

(If you give annually in terms of endowment invested at 3.6 per cent.)

We cannot turn to strangers for help until the FRIENDS, STUDENTS, AND ALUMNI, first show that they believe in CENTRAL NORMAL COLLEGE. THE WEE BIT GIFT A YEAR proves the faith that is in us. Actions speak louder than words. Let us send the "Wee Bit" today. Procrastination is the thief of more things than time.

THE CALL OF THE COLLEGE

To give a full service Central Normal College must have money for:

1. Operating Costs
2. More Scholarships and Loan Funds for worthy students
3. The reseating and redecorating of Chapel Hall
4. Books and furnishings for the College Library
5. Equipment for the Science Laboratories
6. Casts and slide library for the Art Department
7. A substantial increase in Endowment
8. A larger faculty

Let us not turn a deaf ear to this call. It is a sacred and compelling obligation. This is our supreme opportunity. We cannot honestly ignore the voice of destiny. We will answer it unselfishly.

A Few Famous Graduates

Here is the inspiring memorial of the careers and achievements of a few of the many students and alumni to whom Central Normal College was a door of opportunity that led to success:

A successful governor of the State of Indiana—Governor Samuel M. Ralston

An international authority on educational tests and measurements—Dr. Lewis Turman

The present senior United States Senator from a western state—Senator Elmer Thomas

A noted historian—Dr. Logan Esarey

An eminent professor of physics in a great state university—Dr. Arthur Foley

A well-known collector of rare books, autographs, and paintings—Mr. William E. Stout

An outstanding surgeon with an international reputation—Dr. John F. Barnhill

A prominent planter in the Hawaiian Islands—T. E. Osorio.

Several state superintendents of public instruction, including the present one—Dr. Clement T. Malan.

CENTRAL NORMAL COLLEGE PREPARES TO MEET WAR TIME NEEDS

It will be of interest to the alumni and friends of Central Normal College to learn that the college has made available its facilities for the training of men or women for military or civilian life. Complete data was furnished the War Manpower Commission in December and it is hoped that Central Normal College will be selected to perform some vital service in the war effort.

The need for acceleration of the education of young men and women has resulted in the formulation of tentative plans for Central Normal College to offer a full semester of high school training from May 3 to August 20. When complete plans have been formulated and final approval given by the State Board of Education, detailed announcements will be made. In the meantime, school officials and students are urged to express their interest in such a program by writing to the President's Office at Central Normal College.

FORMER C. N. C. STUDENT ESCAPES WAR PRISON

Harold F. Marting, a former student of Central Normal College, a Canadian flying officer, who had been reported missing in action in Africa, paid a visit to Danville, Monday, accompanied by his little daughter, who has been living with her mother in Indianapolis.

Marting was reported missing in action in Africa on October 23. On Christmas Day his parents, Mr. and Mrs. U. W. Marting, now living at Farmland, received word from a friend of Harold's that he was a prisoner of war.

When he was reported missing in action he was captured on a British front in Africa and taken to Greece as a prisoner of war. He escaped after nine weeks and made his way back to Cairo, Egypt, where he landed on New Year's Day. He returned uninjured, but had developed scurvy while a prisoner.

After recovering from his experiences as a war prisoner, he lectured to troops on military subjects pertaining to air combat. He was then returned to Canada, where he will be stationed as a flying instructor.

CAMPUS AND ALUMNI NOTES

Sigma Phi Kappa Delta initiated ten outstanding Seniors during the week of February 15-19. In the college group were Rose Marie Adams, June Dowen, Charles Gross, Marion McGhehey and Vincent Haviza. In the four year elementary group, of which this is the first graduating class, were Delores Collier, Dorothy Pe'ko, Audrey Mahuron, Catherine Robinson and Opal Williamson. Of interest, too, is the fact that Miss Williamson's scholarship index was the highest of any candidate ever elected to Sigma Phi Kappa Delta. Mr. McGhehey and Miss Adams were second and third respectively.

The initiation banquet was held Friday evening, February 19, at the Hiltop Tea-room. Opal Williamson representing the initiates responded to a speech of welcome by Dr. Esther Whitney, president of the organization. An inspiring address was given by Dr. John G. Benson, general superintendent of the Methodist Hospital of Indianapolis.

The Student Council supervised a Clean-up Day last Tuesday. A number of other colleges have this tradition of a Clean-up Day on the campus, the tradition in some cases having grown out of the last war when help was scarce.

Since the last Bulletin, word has been received that Lee Roy Greenwood, '41, is reported missing in action in Africa.

Roger Easley, a former student of C. N. C., died at the Rockville Sanatorium last Thursday. He was one of the four sons of George Easley of Indianapolis, also an alumnus of this college.

Colleen Moore, now Mrs. Homer Hargrave, recently paid a visit to her son, Homer, Junior, a freshman here. Homer, known as "Buzz" to his classmates, is a grandson of the late Professor Charles A. Hargrave, who is remembered by many alumni for his high qualities of mind and spirit and for his long and devoted service to C. N. C.

Robert H. King, former member of the Board of Trustees of Central Normal College, has received a commission as a Naval Civil Engineer with the rank of Lieutenant-Commander. The commission dates from February 6, 1943. The rank is similar to that of an army major.

The Greater CENTRAL NORMAL COLLEGE Campaign

....., 194.....

I subscribe and herewith pay to Central Normal College the sum of
..... Dollars ($.....).

I promise to pay to Central Normal College the sum of
..... Dollars ($.....).

on or before 194.....

Signed

Address

Draw check to order of Central Normal College and mail to President Virgil Hunt, Central Normal College, Danville, Ind.

CENTRAL NORMAL COLLEGE BULLETIN

Vol. 1

February, 1943

No. 7

Published monthly, except in the months of July and August, by Central Normal College, Danville, Indiana. Entered as second class matter at the post office at Danville, Indiana, under Act of Congress of August 24, 1912.

THE CHALLENGE TO CIVILIZATION

War is raging on five continents and the seven seas. Civilization is being weighed in the balances; freedom is being forced to the wall. There can be but one outcome: savagery and the cult of blood and might must be annihilated, and the world must witness the triumph of man, the new man, the nobler man. After the war a torn and ravished civilization will need succor and guidance. This will call for an era of rebuilding. Inert and dead ideas are doomed. Civilization must have a blood transfusion of character and culture. The college is the guardian of these values. It always has been this way, and it always will be. Let us not be traitors to tomorrow, "nor attempt the Future's portal with the Past's blood-rusted key."

THE DAY OF THE COLLEGE

After the war thousands of students will flock to the colleges seeking proper training to help them to rebuild a war-cursed world. The colleges must be ready. In the meantime they must carry on with fewer students and less money. Not to be prepared to meet this grave responsibility would be a fatal error for the colleges and a base betrayal of the priceless assets of civilization. At the present moment, hundreds of plans are advanced to aid the post-war world. To carry them out workers, social-engineers, and leaders are now training in the colleges. Let us not forget that to train these leaders the colleges face a serious duty. The small college has a rich heritage. It has trained the majority of the leaders of American civilization and culture. It has made a good start. To do the great work waiting for it, it must not be jeopardized for lack of funds.

SENSE AND SERVICE

No college ever pays cash dividends. Its returns are men, not dollars. A college is an asset to civilization; a prison is a liability. The more money we give to support colleges the less money we will need to give for the support of prisons. No college is self-supporting; no prison is self-supporting. Consider the infinite difference in the quality of products turned out by these two institutions. One leads to life; the other to death. One creates; the other destroys. Let us support more generously the college as an institution that produces men and women who walk upright and are free. It is

THE CENTRAL NORMAL COLLEGE BULLETIN

Editorial Staff

BERTHA M. WATTS, Editor

DR. EDWIN BARLOW EVANS

DR. ESTHER WHITNEY

DEAN FLORA S. EVANS

MRS. MARY BARTON JOHNSON

just sound unvarnished common sense to aid the college to render a greater service to humanity.

A "WEE BIT" GIFT A YEAR

Central Normal College has demonstrated again and again that a dollar invested in it is a dollar invested in citizenship, culture, and character. So it proposes to raise by the help of its large body of loyal alumni, hundreds of modest ANNUAL gifts the equivalent of an income from a much larger Endowment Fund. Let us examine this fact in terms of an individual. Ten dollars a year, if given each year, is equivalent to an endowment gift of two hundred and seventy-eight dollars bearing interest at the rate of 3.6 per cent. In the face of serious world-conditions, is it not more feasible to raise twenty thousand dollars each year rather than to attempt outright a million dollar campaign?

INTEREST IS ENDOWMENT

Michelangelo once said that trifles make perfection. The "Wee Bit" may seem to some a trifle, but hundreds of these trifles from hundreds of the alumni of Central Normal College will advance the college toward perfection. If you pledge

Each Year	$ 5	$ 10	$ 25	$ 50	$ 100
You actually give	$ 139	$ 278	$ 695	$1390	$2780

(If you give annually in terms of endowment invested at 3.6 per cent.)

We cannot turn to strangers for help until the FRIENDS, STUDENTS, AND ALUMNI, first show that they believe in CENTRAL NORMAL COLLEGE. THE WEE BIT GIFT A YEAR proves the faith that is in us. Actions speak louder than words. Let us send the "Wee Bit" today. Procrastination is the thief of more things than time.

THE CALL OF THE COLLEGE

To give a full service Central Normal College must have money for:

1. Operating Costs
2. More Scholarships and Loan Funds for worthy students
3. The reseating and redecorating of Chapel Hall
4. Books and furnishings for the College Library
5. Equipment for the Science Laboratories
6. Casts and slide library for the Art Department
7. A substantial increase in Endowment
8. A larger faculty

Let us not turn a deaf ear to this call. It is a sacred and compelling obligation. This is our supreme opportunity. We cannot honestly ignore the voice of destiny. We will answer it unselfishly.

A Few Famous Graduates

Here is the inspiring memorial of the careers and achievements of a few of the many students and alumni to whom Central Normal College was a door of opportunity that led to success:

A successful governor of the State of Indiana—Governor Samuel M. Ralston

An international authority on educational tests and measurements—Dr. Lewis Turman

The present senior United States Senator from a western state—Senator Elmer Thomas

A noted historian—Dr. Logan Esarey

An eminent professor of physics in a great state university—Dr. Arthur Foley

A well-known collector of rare books, autographs, and paintings—Mr. William E. Stout

An outstanding surgeon with an international reputation—Dr. John F. Barnhill

A prominent planter in the Hawaiian Islands—T. E. Osorio.

Several state superintendents of public instruction, including the present one—Dr. Clement T. Malan.

CENTRAL NORMAL COLLEGE PREPARES TO MEET WAR TIME NEEDS

It will be of interest to the alumni and friends of Central Normal College to learn that the college has made available its facilities for the training of men or women for military or civilian life. Complete data was furnished the War Manpower Commission in December and it is hoped that Central Normal College will be selected to perform some vital service in the war effort.

The need for acceleration of the education of young men and women has resulted in the formulation of tentative plans for Central Normal College to offer a full semester of high school training from May 3 to August 20. When complete plans have been formulated and final approval given by the State Board of Education, detailed announcements will be made. In the meantime, school officials and students are urged to express their interest in such a program by writing to the President's Office at Central Normal College.

FORMER C. N. C. STUDENT ESCAPES WAR PRISON

Harold F. Marting, a former student of Central Normal College, a Canadian flying officer, who had been reported missing in action in Africa, paid a visit to Danville, Monday, accompanied by his little daughter, who has been living with her mother in Indianapolis.

Marting was reported missing in action in Africa on October 23. On Christmas Day his parents, Mr. and Mrs. U. W. Marting, now living at Farmland, received word from a friend of Harold's that he was a prisoner of war.

When he was reported missing in action he was captured on a British front in Africa and taken to Greece as a prisoner of war. He escaped after nine weeks and made his way back to Cairo, Egypt, where he landed on New Year's Day. He returned uninjured, but had developed scurvy while a prisoner.

After recovering from his experiences as a war prisoner, he lectured to troops on military subjects pertaining to air combat. He was then returned to Canada, where he will be stationed as a flying instructor.

CAMPUS AND ALUMNI NOTES

Sigma Phi Kappa Delta initiated ten outstanding Seniors during the week of February 15-19. In the college group were Rose Marie Adams, June Downen, Charles Gross, Marion McGhehey and Vincent Haviza. In the four year elementary group, of which this is the first graduating class, were Delores Collier, Dorothy Pe'ko, Audrey Mahuron, Catherine Robinson and Opal Williamson. Of interest, too, is the fact that Miss Williamson's scholarship index was the highest of any candidate ever elected to Sigma Phi Kappa Delta. Mr. McGhehey and Miss Adams were second and third respectively.

The initiation banquet was held Friday evening, February 19, at the Hilltop Tea-room. Opal Williamson representing the initiates responded to a speech of welcome by Dr. Esther Whitney, president of the organization. An inspiring address was given by Dr. John G. Benson, general superintendent of the Methodist Hospital of Indianapolis.

The Student Council supervised a Clean-up Day last Tuesday. A number of other colleges have this tradition of a Clean-up Day on the campus, the tradition in some cases having grown out of the last war when help was scarce.

Since the last Bulletin, word has been received that Lee Roy Greenwood, '41, is reported missing in action in Africa.

Roger Easley, a former student of C. N. C., died at the Rockville Sanatorium last Thursday. He was one of the four sons of George Easley of Indianapolis, also an alumnus of this college.

Colleen Moore, now Mrs. Homer Hargrave, recently paid a visit to her son, Homer, Junior, a freshman here. Homer, known as "Buzz" to his classmates, is a grandson of the late Professor Charles A. Hargrave, who is remembered by many alumni for his high qualities of mind and spirit and for his long and devoted service to C. N. C.

Robert H. King, former member of the Board of Trustees of Central Normal College, has received a commission as a Naval Civil Engineer with the rank of Lieutenant-Commander. The commission dates from February 6, 1943. The rank is similar to that of an army major.

The Greater CENTRAL NORMAL COLLEGE Campaign

....., 194.....

I subscribe and herewith pay to Central Normal College the sum of
..... Dollars ($.....).

I promise to pay to Central Normal College the sum of
..... Dollars ($.....).

on or before, 194.....

Signed

Address

Draw check to order of Central Normal College and mail to President Virgil Hunt, Central Normal College, Danville, Inl.

Kate Hargrave Smith photo 5-25-1982

Mrs. H. M. Towell (June)

Central Normal College Bulletin

Vol. 1

May, 1943

No. 10

Published monthly, except in the months of July and August, by Central Normal College, Danville, Indiana. Entered as second class matter at the post office at Danville, Indiana, under Act of Congress of August 24, 1912.

A Memorial to C. A. Hargrave

Science Hall To Be Named Hargrave Hall

Charles A. Hargrave holds a unique place in the memory and affections of Central Normal graduates, faculty and friends. In these times of stress we can all find inspiration in the recollection of his distinguished services to our college, for he stood by her loyally through similar difficult times in the past.

At the Alumni Banquet last June, the suggestion came from a group of those present that it would be very fitting for Science Hall, the building which we owe so largely to Professor Hargrave's efforts, to be named for him. Mr. Harlan Craig proposed that plans be made for a Hargrave Memorial and that the 1943 Commencement feature a special memorial observance. Dr. Whisler, as President of the Alumnae Association, appointed Mr. Craig chairman of a memorial committee. Later the Scientific Class of 1910, at Mr. Craig's suggestion, voted to sponsor the inscription of Professor Hargrave's name above the doors of Science Hall and to arrange a dedication program. Two other members of the class, Mr. G. E. Lochmuller and Dr. Waldo Wood were appointed on the committee and Dr. Margaret Esther Whitney, head of the Biology Department, was appointed to represent the present faculty.

The committee has functioned, and the unveiling of the newly carved inscriptions is planned for Thursday, June 10, the evening before Commencement. The dedication program will take place at six-thirty on the campus in front of the building, in the presence of the Hargrave family, the Board of Trustees, faculty, students and friends. It will be followed at seven-thirty by the joint Hargrave Memorial and Alumni Banquet. Brief talks will be given by representatives of the class and of the college administration, and by Mr. Homer Hargrave of Chicago, representing the Hargrave family.

It is hoped that this gesture of the class of 1910 may be the first step toward a larger Hargrave Memorial, — the equipment and further improvement of the building and of the Science Department, in which Professor Hargrave taught so inspiringly a long succession of students.

May Hargrave Hall finally stand as a worthy monument on the Central Normal Campus to a great teacher and a great and good man!

Gift of Blanch W. Dean 6-8-1982

Announcement

On April 19, Mr. Virgil Hunt, after five years of whole-hearted and loyal service to the college, resigned from the presidency to teach physics to soldiers at Indiana University. The good wishes of town and campus follow Mr. Hunt and his family to Bloomington. The Board of Trustees has appointed a faculty committee composed of Dean Pleasant R. Hightower, Mr. Lowell DeMoss, Registrar and Bursar, and Mr. Glenn Johnson, head of the Department of Physical Education, to administer the affairs of the college until a new president is selected. This committee together with other groups of the faculty and board will study the problems of the school and formulate constructive plans and policies for making C. N. C. a bigger and better teacher training institution than ever before.

In all instances a high scholastic standard will be maintained. The two regular summer terms will open on June 14 and July 19 respectively, and the fall term will open September 13, with all departments functioning.

A Biography and Tribute

(Written by President Jonathan Rigdon for the College Quarterly at the time of Professor Hargrave's death, June 2, 1927)

... The going of Prof. Hargrave, affectionately known to students and faculty as "Uncle Charlie" leaves in Central Normal College a place that must remain vacant. In length of services he surpasses all others who have ever been connected with the institution, and for either the amount of work or the quality of it, few can ever hope to approach him.

In the fall of 1880, he enrolled in Central Normal College and the following year he was graduated from the Scientific Class. He continued his college work with the Classic Class of '82... On the eve of his graduation, August 3, 1883, he and Miss Nettie Pearson were married. In the same year he became a regular member of the faculty of the College. At the death of Prof. John A. Steele in 1885, Prof. Hargrave became responsible for the business of the College and without intermission he discharged the duties of the office until one morning about a month ago when he admitted his strength had failed.

His duties included not only the almost endless details of business but his counsel and advice were sought also upon text books, methods of teaching, courses of study and administration and all the larger educational policies and plans of the institution. As a member of the faculty, he was at one time professor of mathematics, at another, professor of sciences, for more than a quarter of a century secretary-treasurer, and for a brief time, brief only because he wished more time to teach, he was president.

The funeral, Sunday afternoon, in the chapel of his beloved college, was most impressive and was attended by many former students, few communities within a radius of 100 miles not being represented. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful.

As the college bell tolled, borne on the shoulders of students the body was carried into the building and to the front of the chapel, while Chopin's Funeral March was rendered with Prof. Owen at the piano.

Prof. G. H. Reibold offered prayer, and "Crossing the Bar" and "Lead, Kindly Light" were sung by a students' quartet. Rev. F. H. Longwell read the scripture lesson and spoke on the characteristics of the departed, the strong points in his life and his impress upon students and citizens. ...

Merely to mention the qualities of his character worthy of our emulation would require a large space. He was a tireless worker who had complete mastery over his own mind. He was truly an educated man. ... He was always honest, truthful, sincere. Aside from his family and his home, his one ambition was to be helpful to young men and women seeking an education. He was plain and simple in his living. He never made a show of himself or his achievements. He was always willing and even anxious to give to others credit that in reality belonged to him. He always put himself first when any work was to be done, particularly any disagreeable work; and he always put himself last when the honors were to be bestowed. He was always kind and gentle. If to be a gentleman is to be a gentle man, then he was that. Next to his own family he loved the institution he so ably served. Next to people he loved Nature as few men have ever known it. Chiefly because of his clear thinking, he was an impressive and convincing speaker. He would probably have been the last to claim for himself merit as a writer, and yet I believe everyone who reads the last toast he ever delivered, "The Office Desk," will admit that it is a literary gem. His life and labors have gone from us, but the wealth of his manly character will long continue to be an inspiration to the thousands he has enrolled over his old office desk.

Jonathan Rigdon

Editorial Tribute to Professor Hargrave on the Occasion of Central Normal's Golden Jubilee.

The following tribute from the pen of Editor Julian Hogate appeared in the Hendricks County Republican during the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Central Normal College in 1926.

"With all due deference to the many noble men and women who have given and are now giving their lives to Central Normal College, this semi-centennial would not be appropriately observed without a tribute to the grand man of Central Normal, Charles A. Hargrave. Upon him has singularly fallen much of the burden for many years. His has been the planning, his the vision from which these greater days have evolved. Through the dark days, through the happy days, through tragedy, panic, war, Charles A. Hargrave has been the one man who all too often has held aloft the torch which guided to safety. He has not been self-seeking. He has served from humble position to president and from president to place of less prominence but he has ever carried on. His was and is the idea of 'team work' personified. Nothing is too good, no praise too great for Charles A. Hargrave. And we can sense some measure of the great satisfaction he has in this fiftieth anniversary of Central Normal College and we can all realize his pleasure when he can truthfully say, as he contemplates the growth in the years, 'All this I saw and in all this I was a factor.' He is the grand man of Central Normal. To him this community owes a debt that cannot be repaid. . . . So in these anniversary days, we voice the thought of students past and present and of his fellow citizens in the words 'All hail, Charles A. Hargrave, grand man, bearer of burdens and conquering through visions.'"

Excerpts from "The Office Desk"

(Class Toast by C. A. Hargrave at the Reunion of 1926).

The big walnut desk in the college office will soon reach its 50th year of service. It was made by a Danville carpenter for President Frank P. Adams, probably in 1879. Over its faithful timbers the 40,000 normalites have transacted their business with the college. . . . Here the faculty members signed their contracts and received their salaries. Here the courses of study were planned, and the correspondence with some hundreds of thousands of boys and girls conducted. You, as I, well remember the laying upon this desk the money for your first college tuition.

Initiated when fractional paper currency, a remnant of Civil War days, was being retired, it participated in the resumption of specie payments in the United States. Gold and silver have clanked upon its boards, to be almost wholly superseded by the modern plan of paying by check.

For thirty-five years, in two periods, separated by an interval of nine years, much of my days, and a fair share of my nights have found me bending over this desk. Here my education in the ways of business, and my small store of philosophy of life have evolved. Here hundreds of highly prized and priceless friendships have had a beginning. Here the rebuffs and disappointments of life have been hidden away, to eventually lose their sting. In this period the desk and I have observed the progress of the world as well as that of the school. This period includes important developments in geography, science, governments and education. We have witnessed the mapping of large areas of the continents by exploration, and have seen two continents almost completely remapped. We have observed almost all of the conquest of the land by railroads, and that of the sea by steamships of steel. We have noted the beginning, or at least the development from a bare start, of the germ theory of disease with its natural follower, serum therapy; the spread of the idea of evolution throughout the civilized world; the wonders of electric power, from the exhibit of Edison's first electric dynamo in 1876; the encircling of the globe with telegraph and telephone lines; and at last the wires banished and a radio a source of household entertainment and instruction. We have seen photography become the pastime of children, and the moving picture in many villages. We have seen the beginning and perfection of the internal combustion engine, which has made commonplace the most luxurious transportation on country roads, as well as in the air.

Fifty years! Some 40,000 students! Almost continuous classwork in that old building there — 48 weeks every year, and for a few years 52 weeks. Some hundreds have followed their parents to C. N. C. classrooms, and now the grandchildren are coming.

We may well inquire how it happened that of all the independent normal schools established in the United States, this is the only one known to have lived fifty years without transformation into a state or church school. It has not been through the spending of much money. A careful estimate shows that the total receipts of the school, and hence the total expenditures during fifty years, do not exceed one million dollars. . . . It was by persistent and untiring efforts of the faculty, often at a sacrifice of greater financial returns that could have been secured elsewhere, and in some cases of health and even death . . .

An extensive correspondence with strangers of all nationalities and occupations, as well as with former students and ex-comrades on the faculty, has been a joy. There has not been much time for reflection, but some things the desk and I have impressed upon us.

Among them we have found that almost all people are honest. The boys and girls have, almost all, been ambitious to qualify for useful service in the world. We have seen thousands of them demonstrate their entire trustworthiness.

We have found that there is poetry in the hearts of the common people. When a country mother names her baby girl

Opal, or Ruby, or Joy, or Pansy, or Violet, or Dimple, or when Mrs. White names her baby girl Snow, there must be music in the soul. We have found that names indicate patriotism in the thought of American citizens. We began enrolling the Lincolns, the Abes, and the Grants. We later had a run of Garfields and Grovers. By the time these were supplied with diplomas there came on the Deweys and McKinleys. We are hopeful that we can yet induct into college avenues the Woodrows and the Calvins.

The desk and I long since realized the folly of worry, but have failed to banish the foe. Our greatest troubles are those that never happen. We have found that mental activity is not necessarily thinking. The mind is like the old water mill to which I often rode astride a sack of corn. Sometimes the hopper became empty, but the mill rattled merrily on. The motion and the noise were there, but no meal dropped in the sack. . . .

We have learned that demonstrations do not always demonstrate. One of our early graduates wrote me last week that he demonstrated in his graduating oration that a heavier than air machine would never fly. Others proved that this country would never reach prohibition or woman suffrage. Others proved the downfall of the church; and a host of others the speedy disintegration of both the Republican and Democratic parties. The desk and I now refuse to become excited—we await the decision of time. . . .

We have found that finding fault with your tools will not improve the job, nor establish your reputation as a skillful workman.

When the flint ignited the powder in the pan of a rint lock gun and not that in the barrel it was called a flash in the pan. Lots of fellows are like that, but some don't even flash.

We have learned to hold our criticism when a neighbor stubs his toe, and aim to apply it to our own headlong plunges into wrong. . . .

The barometer and the thermometer indicate what is—knowledge and reason make the forecast.

Our education is in progress. We note the ambitions, the virtues, the follies of our callers. The virtues we admire, the follies we will try to forget — the desk and I.

Mrs. Hargrave at the time she received the LL. D. degree from Central Normal College in 1940. With her are her son, Homer, and his wife Colleen Moore of cinema and dollhouse fame.

Reminiscences by Mrs. Hargrave

This number of the bulletin would seem very incomplete without an article by Mrs. Hargrave to accompany the foregoing selection from the pen of her husband.

Town and college people have long appreciated the friendly hospitality of the home on Indiana St., where Mrs. Hargrave now enjoys the companionship of her daughter, Mrs. Kate Smith, and her grandson, Homer Hargrave, Jr., who has been taking work in the college during the past year while living at his grandmother's home. Homer inherits his father's nickname "Buzz" on the campus. He is enlisted in the Army Reserve.

In recalling the days of Professor Hargrave's association with the college, Mrs. Hargrave says with a twinkle, "Whenever I prepared a meal I never knew who might or might not be there to partake of it. . . . A new faculty member was not considered to be really installed until he had been at our house for dinner." Most reminiscences are intriguing to those who shared the experiences they recall, but Mrs. Hargrave gives to hers a spice and whimsical quality that makes them entertaining to the general reader as well. For this Bulletin, she writes informally:

"A review of the forty-four years my husband was teacher, secretary, and treasurer of the College seems a long story in prospect, but is really a short time in retrospect.

We were classmates for two years before we took the vows till death do us part and exemplified the old song that runs—'We were so united—so happily allied, that blessed were the moments, when we were side by side.'

When my mother, who was very pious, asked me one time where I was going and I told her I was going to the ball game with my husband, she said she thought I had little to do. I answered, when he wanted me to go to the ball game with him there was nothing better for me to do.

The memory of that precious association still abides with me and at times it seems that our separation is only a dream and that we are still side by side. We went to the ball games, and we went snail hunting,—we waded the creek to find mussels. Slow trail, you think? Not so if you have a purpose! You remember among other interests Mr. Hargrave was a conchologist. Besides making his own collection, he exchanged snail shells and bivalves with both home and foreign collectors, and was a regular contributor to the Nautilus. Dr. Lind, our old science teacher, and Mr. Hargrave considered me an expert snail catcher. . . .

One evening a phone call from the hotel came for Mr. Hargrave. It was from Rev. William Harper, founder of Central Normal College. He said he would be in Danville just one night and that he had heard so much about Prof. Hargrave that he felt he must see him and would take it as a great favor if he would call on him at the hotel. The meeting of the two was most agreeable. Mr. Harper seemed much interested in the history and progress of C. N. C. He was a very distinguished looking man at that time and had gained fame in Los Angeles where he lived for many years as a Baptist minister. He died there in January 1930. . . .

In the classroom at one time, Mr. Hargrave was using his microscope, and it was necessary for the pupils, all young men, to stand about the table to see the object under the microscope. At home where he received his private pupils we had a large revolving table so that the microscope could be turned from one pupil to the next without harming its adjustment. Well! While all were bowed over the table to get a good view, the wag of the class, without turning reached back and pitched the fellow behind him over his head onto the floor. It was outrageous of course, but all the teacher said was, 'We will wait until all can give attention.' The work was quietly finished. After class the culprit came to the office and abjectly apologized, saying the standing informal recitation had suggested the stunt to him, and if he, Mr. Hargrave, had only lost his temper and blown him up, he would have thought it funny. Such was Mr. Hargrave's patience. Not even one of his children ever heard him use a cross word. Due to this self control, he evolved his motto, 'What I do not say, I do not have to feel sorry for.'

Mrs. Craig Speaks For the Scientific Class of 1910

The Scientific Class of 1910 deems it an honor to act as sponsor of the establishment of a memorial to Professor Charles Hargrave. His record of service to Central Normal College bespeaks for him the gratitude of every loyal alumnus of that institution. The influence of a character such as his is reflected not only in the lives of individuals with whom he came in contact, but in the loyalty of organizations and groups of the institution to which he was devoted. The memory of his kindly, personal interest in every student has lasted throughout the years.

So, also, through the years, has endured the spirit of fellowship and school loyalty in the hearts of those of us who were Scientifics of 1910. Perhaps no other group can claim the distinction of having continuously held meetings for thirty three years, thus keeping alive the old class spirit. Starting in the fall of 1910, at the home of Waldo Wood who was our class president, several members met for a turkey dinner. Every year from that time, these meetings were continued until finally in 1935, our 25th anniversary arrived, at which time the old class roll was called and a formal reorganization was effected. Efforts to locate members, trace of whom had been lost during the years, resulted in increased attendance and interesting letters from those in other states.

We have always been proud to have had as our class sponsor Professor H. M. Whisler, whose loyalty to our organization has endeared him to us and whose faithful attendance at these annual meetings we all appreciate and enjoy. Members who have been in attendance are: Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Lawler, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. McClanahan, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brengle, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Lochmuller, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Breitweiser, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Nichols, Mrs. Ollie Wood Kelly, Mrs. Sara King Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wright, Mr. and Mrs. William Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Carmel Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Hiner Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Wilson, and Mr. and Mrs. Harlan L. Craig.

At the annual meeting last fall at the home of Otto Breitweiser, those present voted unanimously that our class would sponsor the Hargrave Memorial. We therefore, the Scientifics of 1910, as an expression of our affection and respect, will make this presentation to Central Normal College on June 10, 1943.

Respectfully submitted,
Georgia Haynes Craig,
Class Secretary.

Members of the Scientific Class of '81 Receive Special Invitation to Hargrave Reunion

Special letters of invitation have gone out from the college to members of the Scientific Class of 1881, with which both Professor and Mrs. Hargrave were graduated, asking them to attend the Hargrave Memorial Commencement. This class, like the Scientifics of 1910, has maintained a remarkable unity and group spirit through the years. In 1931, three years after the death of Professor Hargrave, eleven of the original thirty-one members celebrated their Golden Anniversary at the Hargrave home, and attended college convocation in a body. Those attending were Mrs. S. M. Ralston, Prof. J. M. Williams, J. N. Hinshaw, Dr. J. B. Maxwell, Arthur W. Shoemaker, Dr. Willis B. Huron and Mrs. Jennie Osborn Huron, Mrs. Florence Jackman Gunn, Prof. G. L. Spillman, and Mrs. Hargrave.

As a souvenir of this anniversary occasion and in honor of her husband, Mrs. Hargrave had published a beautiful memorial booklet. Some of the material which she collected into this souvenir booklet reappears in the present number of the Bulletin.

It is hoped that several of the remaining members of this splendid class can be present to join in the memorial tribute to their beloved classmate.

Hargrave Portrait and Well House Were Given by Alumni Groups

The oil portrait of Professor Hargrave in Chapel Hall is the gift of a group of one hundred and fifty-four alumni who employed the services of Frank Wagner to paint it, and presented it informally to the college in September 1916. For many years following the presentation, it was Mrs. Hargrave's thoughtful custom to place a bouquet of flowers before the portrait on Professor Hargrave's birthdays.

All of our students may not know that the Wellhouse, featured in so many C. N. C. campus photographs, was built by the class of 1927 in memory of Professor Hargrave.

Alumni Committee In Charge of Plans for Banquet

Arrangements for the banquet program are in the hands of a special committee appointed by Dr. Whisler, composed of Mrs. Julian Hogate, Vice President of the Alumnae Association, Mr. C. R. Maxam, and Miss Blythe Osborne.

We hope for as large a gathering on this memorial occasion as transportation difficulties will permit. The banquet will be an old-fashioned chicken dinner and the price per plate one dollar. Due to the food situation, it will be impossible to serve anyone whose reservation is not received ahead of time. Let us make this another fine, friendly alumni get-together like the one honoring Mrs. Olcott last June.

Remember the time, Thursday, June 10, at six-thirty. Make your plans early and send in your reservations by June 5.

The by-laws of the Central Normal College Alumnae Association provide for the payment of one dollar as dues by those becoming members at graduation. This provision has been much neglected in the past, and the Association has been handicapped in undertaking any constructive program in behalf of their alma mater by the lack of a working fund.

The class of 1943 plans to reemphasize the custom of alumni dues by collecting the entire sum before Commencement and presenting it with a little appropriate speech by their president at the Hargrave Memorial Alumnae Banquet, which they will attend in a body. They trust that succeeding graduating classes will keep up this custom.

Due to war conditions, this class is sacrificing the publication of a Centurian, and will publish an inexpensive booklet instead.

Calendar of Commencement Events

Sunday, June 6

Reception for the Seniors at four o'clock, in the Recreation Room.

Baccalaureate Service at the Danville Christian Church at seven-thirty.

Monday evening, June 7

Music Recital at eight o'clock in Chapel Hall.

Tuesday, June 8

Senior Convocation at nine o'clock in Chapel Hall.

Sigma Phi Kappa Delta Initiation and Banquet at six o'clock at Hilltop Tea Room.

Thursday evening, June 10

Dedication of Hargrave Hall at six-thirty, followed by Hargrave Memorial Alumnae Dinner and Senior Dance.

Friday morning, June 11

Annual Commencement Exercises in the College Gymnasium at ten o'clock.

Central Normal College Bulletin

Vol. 2

June 1943

No. 1

Published monthly, except in the months of July and August, by Central Normal College, Danville, Indiana. Entered as second class matter at the post office at Danville, Indiana, under Act of Congress of August 24, 1912.

TO THE ALUMNI AND FRIENDS OF CENTRAL NORMAL COLLEGE

For the past sixty-five years Central Normal College has functioned in a magnificent way. Thousands of students have passed through her halls, some of whom have gone into the educational field, some into medicine, some into law, some into dentistry, some into business, and others into the various occupations and professions.

There are two reasons why Central Normal College should continue to live. The first is due naturally partly to sentiment, but more particularly to the fact that all of us prefer to be graduates of a living institution rather than a dead one. The second reason is perhaps more altruistic. Throughout the history of the institution many young men and women have found it possible to secure a college education who could not have done so had it not been for Central Normal College. This will continue to be true of many other young people in the future.

The college serves in a capacity that no other institution in the state does or can do. For these reasons your Alma Mater must continue to be vital. You, the Alumni, can help to make her so in three different ways. First, by refusing to listen to rumors and not permitting them to spread. Second, by encouraging young people to enroll on September 13. And third, by substantial gifts.

None of us hesitate to give our natural mothers lavish gifts and none of us should hesitate to give our educational mother the money that will be necessary to make it possible for her to continue to function during this most trying time. She passed through the first world war and weathered the gale and she will pass through this war by your loyal and financial support.

On Commencement Day, Dr. A. L. Foley, one of the college's faithful sons, gave us a check for $308, two hundred fifty-eight dollars of which is to go for two scholarships and $50 to go to the Alumni Student Loan Fund which has been started by the 1943 senior class.

There are other Alumni who should make it a point to give scholarships similar to the ones just mentioned. A considerable number has gone through the college on scholarships given by the institution itself. Now is a good time for those individuals to show their gratitude by giving scholarships or contributing liberally in other ways to the financial needs of the institution. Dr. Foley's gift should be only the beginning and not the end.

The faculty, student body, and administration have faith in Central Normal College and we feel sure that those of you out in the field will join us and make it possible for the institution to ride the storm victoriously. After the war is over there will be many young men returning to her halls to complete their education and others coming to begin theirs. Now is the time for all of us to get busy and work as we have never worked before.

Business men in the state, who are not alumni, are helping in a splendid way and will continue to do so but alumnal support is most highly desirable to do the thing that everybody wants done. Let us all work, strive, and give to make dear old Central Normal live.

P. R. HIGHTOWER,
Chairman of the Administrative Committee.

COMMENCEMENT ECHOES

Administrative Council members and their wives, faculty and the Board of Trustees formed the receiving line at the Reception for the Seniors which launched the activities of Senior week. Music was provided by a trio composed of Mrs. DeMoss, violinist, Mrs. Mackle, cellist, and Miss Gaston, accompanist.

"God in History," was the challenging theme of the Reverend Mr. Warne's Baccalaureate sermon Sunday night. The Girls' Glee Club sang two numbers.

The Music Recital on Monday evening featured Lenore McCammack, Senior soloist. A number of underclassmen, together with the Girls' Sextet and the Band, also participated. After the Recital members of the Music Department, their relatives and friends were delightfully entertained by Miss Marjorie Gaston in the newly-decorated Music room.

On Tuesday morning at the traditional Senior Convocation, Senior honors were announced: candidates recommended for "Who's Who in American Colleges"—Opal Williamson, Rose Marie Adams, Elizabeth Kyburz, Vincent Haviza, Marion McGhehey and Lawrence Swanson; members elected to Sigma Phi Kappa Delta throughout the year—Margie L. Whitenack, Rose M. Adams, June Downen, Opal Williamson, Dorothy Pelko, Catherine Robinson, Audrey Mahuron, Delores Collier, Marion McGhehey, Lawrence Swanson, Elizabeth Kyburz, Charles Gross, Frances Beard, Catherine Goodmiller, John Hershberger and Waneta Bullock; outstanding woman and man in journalism—Opal Williamson and Marion McGhehey; outstanding Commerce Seniors—Rose M. Adams and Marion McGhehey. Highlights of the class history were given by Opal Williamson who assumed the responsibilities of class president after Vincent Haviza's departure for the armed forces.

Five initiates of Sigma Phi Kappa Delta—Frances Beard, Waneta Bullock, Elizabeth Kyburz, John Hershberger, and Catherine Goodmiller were honored at the Hill-top banquet Tuesday evening. Mrs. Bullock responded for the group to a clever welcome in verse by Margie L. Whitenack. Dr. R. F. Ratliff, distinguished honorary member, was presented to the group and gave a brief welcome. The Reverend John Goodpasture, minister of the Central Presbyterian Church of Terre Haute, brought a thoughtful message on post-war planning. Mr. and Mrs. Goodpasture, both C. N. C. alumni, were received into honorary membership.

Thursday brought the much-anticipated Hargrave dedication. Prior to the campus event, members of the family and friends were informally entertained by Mrs. Hargrave at her home.

It was a dramatic moment when the new inscriptions by the class of 1910 were unveiled and the words "Hargrave Hall" stood out above the doors of the Science Building. The impressive out-door ceremony featured brief talks by Mr. Harlan Craig, Chairman of the Hargrave Memorial Committee, Dr. H. M. Whisler, President of the Alumni Association, and Mr. Otis Gulley, President of the Board of Trustees. Members of the Hargrave family were introduced and Mrs. Hargrave and her daughter, Kate, were presented corsages by the faculty. All stood at attention while the "Bells of C. N. C." were played on the chimes by Alice Thompson.

About one hundred fifty interested alumni, including forty-one members of the class of 1943, crowded the Reception Room for the joint Hargrave Memorial and Alumni Banquet, which was presided over by Dr. H. M. Whisler. At the head table were seated Mrs. Hargrave, her daughter, Kate, her son, Homer, and a grandson, Homer, Jr., A. A. Hargrave, a brother of "Uncle Charlie" and editor of the Rockville Republican, his two daughters, Mrs. E. G. Henderson of Rockville and Mrs. Wilson Tyler of Birmingham, Alabama, with her two daughters and Mrs. Orville Nichols and her brother, Dr. R. E. Jones, niece and nephew of Mr. Hargrave.

Around a center table was an enthusiastic group of the class of 1910 who seemed to have lost none of the class spirit of their college days. The group included Dr. Waldo E. Wood, president of the class of 1910 and former president of Central Normal, Mrs. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Craig, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Lawler, Mr. and Mrs. A. Harbin, Mrs. Ollie Wood Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Thomas, and Mr. and Mrs. Orville Nichols.

Following the introductions Dr. Whisler presented a plan for the Hargrave Memorial Fund.

An original college song "Dear Old Normal" composed by Miss Marjorie Gaston and Mr. Philip Shaw was given its first presentation and enthusiastically received.

Highlight of the program was the address by Homer Hargrave, only son of Professor and Mrs. Hargrave. He felt a part of C. N. C., he said, because not only was he a graduate of the Scientific Class of 1914 but he had mowed the lawn, helped his father tear down and rebuild the furnace, served as assistant sweeper and hid behind every tree on the campus. Questioning many of the present-day attempts at vocational education, Mr. Hargrave suggested a 6-4-2 year plan which would permit two years of liberal arts college training for young men prior to entering the army at eighteen. As a model for a two year liberal arts course he believed administration could do no better than take the old Scientific and Classical courses formerly offered by Central Normal. Opportunities for the small college are increasing, said Mr. Hargrave. There will always be a place for Central Normal.

Tributes were paid to Professor Hargrave by Mrs. Ralston, Mr. Otto Breitweiser, and Professor Ratliff, who gave reminiscences of his association with Professor Hargrave in the teaching of Biology.

A brilliant piano solo by Mrs. Kate Smith brought the dinner program to a fitting close.

The class of '43 was inducted into the ranks of the alumni. June Downen presented to Mrs. Evans, Dean of Women, the class gift of a sum of money designated as the beginning of an Alumni Loan Fund for students. Officers elected by the association for the ensuing year were: Dr. H. M. Whisler, President; Mr. Otto Breitweiser, Vice-president; Mrs. Margaret Baker, Secretary-treasurer, and Mr. G. E. Lochmuller, Member of the Board of Directors.

At the 67th Annual Commencement on Friday morning, Dean Hightower introduced his good friend, Mr. E. J. Fricke, purchasing agent of the Indiana Farm Bureau, who brought a dynamic message on "Abundant Living." Professor George Leonard of Butler University, outstanding C. N. C. alumnus who graduated with the Scientific class of 1905, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Pedagogy. Sixty-five Seniors received their diplomas from former president, Virgil Hunt. Mrs. Lowell DeMoss, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Shaw, Miss Marjorie Gaston, and the Band directed by Mr. J. I. Skidmore, furnished the music for the occasion. As a closing number, Mrs. Shaw sang the joint composition of Mr. Shaw and Miss Gaston, "America."

A. A. Hargrave in The Rockville Republican.

A very pleasant account of the Hargrave dedication and Memorial Dinner by A. A. Hargrave, brother of Charles Hargrave and editor of the much-quoted Rockville Republican, appeared in the editorial columns of the June 17 issue.

"With other members of the family I went over to Danville Thursday evening of last week to be present at the dedication of Hargrave Hall, Science building of Central Normal College. Renaming of the building was in honor of Charles A. Hargrave, my brother, who for many years after graduation was connected with the institution in various capacities—as president for a short term, as secretary and teacher.

"I have often thought of my unavailing efforts to induce my brother to attend Wabash College. . . Now I believe he made a wise choice. For his influence in Indiana has been great. Scores of men who have attained high positions in the Hoosier state and others were his pupils at C. N. C. All of these I have met have given him highest credit for his great and good influence upon their character and life work.

"What higher praise can you give a man? I think I heard the Hargrave name pronounced a thousand times last Thursday night and began to think there's something in a name after all. Prof. Charles A. Hargrave's name will last much longer than the stones upon which it is engraved over yonder at C. N. C. upon the walls of Science Hall."

HARGRAVE MEMORIAL FUND

The dedication of our Science Hall to Professor Charles A. Hargrave should mean that we dedicate ourselves to the task of making the building and the Science department worthy of the Hargrave name and tradition.

The building needs a great many things. The electrical wiring should be thoroughly gone over. A considerable amount of equipment, and cases for the protection and safekeeping of valuable materials are much needed to meet present day standards of scientific teaching. The building should be made one of the most attractive on the campus. Arrangements are being made to hang a copy of Mrs. Hargrave's favorite picture of Professor Hargrave in the lower hall. Before this is done, the walls should be redecorated.

h
U
(4)

Some of these needs cannot be met until after the war. Others can be taken care of in the more immediate future. The class of 1910, sponsors of the Memorial, raised among their members a fund of $130, a portion of which was spent in carving the inscriptions on the building. The remainder they would like to serve as the nucleus of a Hargrave Memorial Fund to be built up by alumni and friends for the improvement and equipment of Hargrave Hall.

This fund will be in charge of Mr. G. E. Lochmuller of Danville, treasurer of the Memorial Committee and newly elected member of the Alumni Board of Directors. It will be administered by him in cooperation with the treasurer of the college and expenditures will be made upon recommendation of the Science Department Staff with the approval of the Hargrave Committee and college administration.

Contributions to the fund may be sent to Mr. Lochmuller in care of Central Normal College. We feel sure that many of the 40,000 students enrolled by Professor Hargrave over the old office desk will be happy to join the class of 1910 in making Hargrave Hall a place which they will be proud to re-visit and which will project the influence of their beloved professor and friend into the lives of future generations of young people.

IN GRATITUDE

The Association of Women Students of Central Normal College takes this opportunity to express its appreciation to former students, alumni, and friends who have made possible the Student Loan Fund of over $800.

The first gift of $200 came from the Tri Kappa Sorority, made possible by the local Tri Kappa Chapter. This sum was given to the Dean of Women to be used at her discretion in helping any needy girl while in college. The good derived from this gift stimulated a desire for a larger fund. Letters were written to alumni and friends of the college explaining the plan of a loan fund and giving them an opportunity to help establish such a fund.

h
U
(4)
The first to respond was Margaret Fitzpatrick with a gift of $125 and the promise to increase the sum in time to $500. This gift, which was increased by a donation from Mr. Harry Evans, enabled the Association of Women Students to provide a recreation center, the Teepee Room, and redecorate the Reception Room.

An alumna, Miss Nellie Walker, after several contributions, because of her love and faith in Central Normal College, decided that she would increase her gift to $500. This is to be known as the Nellie Walker Loan Fund.

Other students and friends who availed themselves of this opportunity to serve now and in the future are: Adeline Barnett, Lee Wallace, Vivian Smith, Gerald Doeden, Judge C. Mount, Wallace Lee, Leona Phagley, Nellie Harvey, Ruby Liveoak, Chez Haehl, Otto Breitweiser, R. L. Marquess, Jr., J. V. Breitweiser, Beatrice M. Hammond, Juanita McCormick, Ruby Johnson Reid, Hortense Smith, The Hargrave Family, Charlotte Anderson and Bernard Hurst.

Though the greater part of the money has been used to pay tuition, money has been loaned for such needs as: a meal ticket, dental bills, repairing shoes, buying text books, and dresses when a good appearance was essential when applying for a position.

This year at the Senior Dinner for Girls the idea was discussed of establishing a fund within the Student Loan Fund to be known as an Alumni Loan Fund. Later, at a Senior meeting it was voted to assess each member of the class a dollar for the purpose of setting up such a fund. It is the hope of the class that each year the outgoing senior class will add to this fund and also the alumni who desire to have a part in helping worthy students. At the Hargrave-Alumni Dinner this money was presented to the Dean of Women with the specific terms under which it is to be loaned. Next day Dr. A. L. Foley, who was present at the dinner, designated that $50 of the money which he had given to the College should be turned over to the Alumni Loan Fund.

Grateful as the Association of Women Students is for the help already received, it feels that the Loan Fund offers a splendid opportunity to all loyal students and friends of Central Normal College—the opportunity to lend a helping hand to those sincere and honest students who otherwise could not remain in college.