A DECLINING NATION?

Elmer L. Hoehn

Those who are intimately familiar with American history will recall these words by Benjamin Franklin from his speech to the members of the Constitutional Convention:

"I believe further that this (government) is likely to be well administered for a course of years, and can only end in despotism, as other forms have done before it, when the people shall become so corrupted as to need despotic government, being incapable of any other."

Naturally, Franklin knew the history of the great countries of the past; how each began as a young, strong and vigorous race; flourished for a time in splendor and then declined to sinility when its people were no longer inspired by the ideals which made them a nation.

I wonder what would be his verdict on the American people today. Certainly there are signs which indicate that our nation may be in its declining years. Many there are, but I wish to call attention to only three in particular.

In the first place, there is an utter disregard for law and authority. People who class themselves as respectable (and religious) break the law with apparently no thought as to the right or wrong of it. The prohibition law should have been a success and a boon to us, but the American people shamelessly ignored it. So it is with all law.

In the second place, a great many of the American people, if not an actual majority, seem to lack ideals; they are without pride, and measure life in terms of money. Any decent citizen can not help but hang his head in shame as he witnesses the wild scramble for "relief" among well-to-do people who did not need it thus defeating the purpose back of the law.

In the third place, I would state bluntly that many of us are just plain suckers. Witness the success of "The Man Bilbo" and the "Catfish, Hooey Long." Surely no sane person, who would take the trouble to read a little and think for himself, could be induced to vote for one of these "rattle rousers." Long's record in Louisiana demonstrates how he set up a monarchy within a republic, made himself king with more power in his "country" than Hitler or the Mikado of Japan, and how he denies his subjects freedom of speech and of the press how he had his gang of gorillas, dignified by the name of a bodyguard and beat up the newspaper photographer. One sickens at the recalling of this stupid, conceited, arrogant, shameless man who has the impudence to run for President.

He reminds me of a one-horse lawyer in a small town in Indiana. This lawyer wins nearly all his cases, not because he is smart, for he isn't. He simply casts to the winds all his reserve, honor and decency; bribes the jurors and hires witnesses. Thus he has the advantage over his opponents, who adhere to the principles of honor.

"Rabble rousers" have a large following among those who have felt the depression most keenly, those who are shiftless and those who do not think for themselves. If he should succeed by the methods which he employs in getting himself elected president, then our country stands in the predicament of Rome under Nero.

"People who lost their means of livelihood seem also to have lost their brains, that is they accepted Nazism." Thus spoke one who was familiar with conditions in Germany. Let us hope that we shall not lose our brains to the extent of accepting Hooeyism. For myself, if one party nominates Long and the other Al Capone, I'll vote for Capone.

Long is just a windbag. Who overheard of getting "fiory" except with his mouth?

GRUMBLING

If there is nothing for the human being to complain about, then the weather is the next thing to grumble about. It is true if there was a time to try one's soul as well as the wearing apparel has been the last few weeks with its intermittent rains. More students are complaining daily about the rain when they should be optimistic as the state's rainfall is still low due to last year's drought. Since no one can really do anything about the weather (the gist of a quotation from Mark Twain) wouldn't it be better to assume the Pollyanna attitude for mind's and health's sake.

Many men owe the grandeur of their lives to their tremendous difficulties.

1,096.75 SAVED STUDENTS LAST TERM

Cicero once said that in nothing do men more nearly approach the gods than in giving health to men. During the spring term the health department saved the student body $1,096.75. This sum was reduced from the original cost of $1,324.25 by the 50% health fee for twelve weeks which amounted to $227.50. The expense resulting from drugs given out at the dispensary was $330.70 and bandages were estimated at $112.50.

With the illness and injuries which the students incurred had they gone to a local or home physician the total expense at minimum rates would have been $381 for the 62 days.

"What kind of treatment do I receive for this health fee?" The answer may be given by a summary of the types of illness and injuries which were treated during that period. Colds headed the list 34; Tonsillitis, 47; Bronchitis, 6; and German measles, 6. Other ailments were ring worm and athlete's foot. Corns were taken off for eight particles were removed from the eyes, and teeth were treated.

A large portion of the treatment given to the students has been to the persons who receive injuries while participating ing in athletics or in working at the gymnasium. One baseball player had a badly sprained shoulder during a game while another man received a lacerated scalp while in the gym class and the injury required several sutures to prevent hemorrhages.

Others were treated for sprained ankles, hands, and fingers. Since most of these accidents occurred during school and were cared for by the health department, the trip to an outside physician was eliminated.

Students may be immunized against several common diseases with which he may come in contact and the toxin is given to the person at actual cost of the preventive. Already nine have been immunized for smallpox, six for diphtheria, two for typhoid, and three have taken the cold serum which consists of four "shots."

Physical examination for teacher's licenses and gym classes are given by the school physician. There were 73 examinations given last term.

Under the direction of Dr. Eberhart the health department has been able to save the student body over one thousand dollars and at the same time to improve and give health to the individual students.

WHAT ARE THEY READING?

The most popular books of the college library are novels by (sorry to say) Zane Grey, Gene Stratton Porter, Eleanor Porter, Morley, Tarkington, and occasionally there is a call for Tolstoi's Anna Karenina, or Franco's Penguin Island.

INQUIRING REPORTER is asked to express-- desires of different-- students.

Where can VIRGINIA HULL buy the privilege of knowing the male faculty members better? ELMER HOHN, "I want a blonde or a redhead. DOROTHY HESS, "If I had a whole van of looks, lines and sinkers, I might catch something.

LUCIENE THOMAS, "If he was only taller." FRANK MARTIN, "I sure do think they ought to make typewriters that don't make mistakes." HELEN BAKER, "If the other girls would only leave my boy friends alone I could live very happily.

Why is it that Deans and Deans and Handwriting Teachers and Handwriting Teachers!!! HELEN RATTIS, "I want a husband that weighs eighty-three pounds.

LINDOL LAWSON, "I just don't see why cars want to pass when Fern and I are parked in the middle of the street."

ELMA E. MILLS, "Am I able to mend MORLEY'S broken heart?"

THE BAND, "We wish Miss GASTON wouldn't be so graceful when we go out on a trip."

EDGAR BAXBY, "I wish we could go to Hillboro again soon."

MISS WEBER, "I wish I could get around on stages without running into mops and brooms."

THE PLEDGES, "I wish initiation was over."

BOB FROMAN, "Sometimes I wish I wasn't so popular."

The latest story on Professor Shumaker is how he greeted a new student in the Y room and informed her that a beauty lecture would be held directly.

She replied, "Oh, so you came early, did you?"

One would know that the Crier staff is truly starved when six o'clock comes and no supper is ready. Wanted: a cook who can serve an endless number of people at no cost, who burns no food and who always has supper ready on time.
