This image shows two facing pages of a ledger or account book. Both pages are ruled with horizontal blue lines and vertical red lines to create columns. The left page is numbered '56' in the top left corner, and the right page is numbered '57' in the top right corner. The grid pattern is consistent across both pages, with a double red line at the top and several vertical red lines defining columns of varying widths. The pages are otherwise blank, with no handwriting or printed text.
