First Executors and administrators are appointed to settle the estates of decedents, and it is their duty to proceed in making such settlement, with all reasonable despatch; not permitting the final closing and settlement to be delayed except for the benefit of the estate,— the settlement must not be delayed for the mere accommodation of creditors of the estate, or other parties.

Second An Inventory and appraisement of the personal estate of the decedent must be made out within sixty days from the time of appointment, and such inventory must be filed in the Clerks office within thirty days after its completion.

Third Sale Bills must be returned and filed with the clerk within thirty days after the sale.

Fourth. At the first term of Court after the expiration of one year from the issuing of letters a full and complete report must be made of all proceedings in the estate, showing the entire amount with which the executor or administrator is chargeable according to section 160 of the act providing for the settlement of decedents estates, and also a full and detailed statement of all payments made, accompanying the same with proper vouchers, showing the true balance unaccounted for, and of what that balance consists, whether of uncollected claims or otherwise, and showing what reasons if any exist why the estate is not finally closed. If good cause is shown, the final settlement of the estate may be continued not longer than the second term thereafter.

Fifth. After the final settlement of an estate has been once continued, it cannot thereafter be continued, unless in addition to showing good cause therefor, it is also shown that diligence has been used in trying to settle the same, specifically setting out what has been done towards making such settlement. In no event will the final settlement be continued generally, it must be to a designated term of Court.

Sixth. Every report after the first, must refer to the last proceeding, showing when the same was made, and bringing forward the balance shown by said report to which shall be added interest received, and any other amounts with which said executor or administrator may be chargeable— The date of the issuing of letters must be indorsed on the backs of each report, and each report must be numbered as 1st 2d 3rd &c

Seventh— All vouchers must show for what purpose the payment was made.

Ninth. If the allowance of a claim is contested the executor or administrator must be prompt in procuring his evidence, enforcing the attendance of witnesses and in preparing for trial.

Tenth. Every Executor or administrator having or holding a claim against the estate represented, which arose prior to the issuing of letters shall file it with the clerk as other claims are filed, and it shall be entered upon the appearance docket in like manner as other claims, and if the names or residences of the heirs or legatees, or any of them is known, the executor or administrator must notify them of the existence and pendency of such claims, and upon proof of such notice having been given, or that such parties are unknown, the Court shall proceed to hear and determine the same, but any heir, legatee, creditor or person interested in the estate may appear and contest the allowance of the same at any time before final settlement.

Eleventh— Before any allowance will be made to any executor or administrator for services in settling an estate or before the same will be considered by the Court, a detailed statement must be made out showing as far as practicable the services rendered, which statement must be supported by affidavit specifically stating that the services have been rendered and what the executor or administrator believes them to be worth, the Court after considering the same will indorse thereon the amount allowed for said services, which statement and affidavit must then be filed as a voucher.

Twelfth. All reports and statements filed must be verified by affidavit, specifically stating if a report, that the same is true and correct, that it contains a full and true account of all moneys or property with which the executor or administrator is chargeable, as well as of all moneys laid out and expended, and that all statements therein contained are true and correct.

Comes now H H Moor guardian and on his motion and for good cause shown this guardianship is continued for final settlement until the next term of this Court.

It is ordered by this court that the following rules be adopted, to be observed by guardians of Minors— Viz:

First— Guardians must manage the estates entrusted to their care for the best interest of their wards— This is the object for which guardians are appointed, and not for their own benefit, or to enable them to use or appropriate the money or property of their wards, they will be compelled to account for all profits they may make, directly or indirectly out of the estates of their wards, it is their duty, and they will be required to keep all monies belonging to their wards securely invested, at interest, and the interest must be collected and reinvested promptly, once each year— If the wards have neither father nor mother, or if they should be unsuitable persons, the guardian is to have the custody of the minor and the conduct of his or her education.

Second— Every guardian must make out and file within three months after his appointment a full and complete inventory verified by oath of the entire real and personal estate of his ward, with the value of the same and the value of the yearly rent of the real estate; and if default is made in discharging this duty the Court will remove such guardian and appoint his successor.

Third— Every guardian must report to the Court at least once every ten years, giving an account of his receipts and expenditures, accompanying all expenditures with proper vouchers showing for what purpose the same was made, which report must be verified by the oath of the guardian. A guardian failing to discharge this duty, can receive no allowance for his services, and will be liable on his bond, for ten per cent damages on the whole amount of the estate both real and personal in his hands belonging to his wards.

Fourth— Every report after the first must refer to the last preceding report, showing when the same was made, and bringing forward the balance shown by said report, to which shall be added interest, and all other additional sums with which the guardian is chargeable—

All reports must show accurately the state of accounts with each ward.

Fifth— All applications for the sale of the wards real estate for the purpose of reinvestment, or because the same is suffering waste, or for the education or support of the ward, the allegations of the petition must be supported by the testimony of disinterested witnesses acquainted with facts and circumstances

Sixth— It is the duty of parents to support and maintain their own children, without exhausting or taxing the estate of such children; and guardians will not be allowed credit for money paid to parents, or either of them, for the ordinary support or maintenance of their own children, or if such parent is the guardian, they will not be allowed credit for money retained for such purpose, unless it is shown to the satisfaction of the Court, by the testimony of disinterested witnesses that such parents are unable otherwise to furnish such support.

Seventh— If wards are in the care and custody of the guardian and such guardian is neither the father or mother before any allowance will be made for the care and support of the same, it must be shown to the court by disinterested witnesses, that such ward is incapable of earning a support, & that no other home suitable to the condition and estate of such ward can be procured, where such support and maintenance can be obtained without charge upon the estate of the ward.

Eighth— Before any allowance will be made for the personal services of any guardian, or before the same will be considered by the Court, they shall make out as far as practicable, a detailed statement of the services rendered, and the compensation claimed for the same, the truth of which shall be supported by affidavit specifically setting out that the services have been rendered and that he believes them reasonably worth the amount claimed, which statement and affidavit must be filed with the papers in the guardianship and the court will indorse upon the same the sum of which may be allowed for such services

Ninth— All reports and statements filed must be verified by affidavit, specifically stating, if a report that the same is true and correct, that it contains a full and true account of all the moneys with which the guardian is chargeable as well as of all monies laid out and expended, and that all statements therein contained are true and correct.

other duty within the time & in the manner prescribed by law or any order or rule of Court, and such proceedings shall be immediately instituted on account of such failure as the law directs.
